FIRST HALF OF RACE COMPLETED TODAY

LEADING FLIERS IN TRANSCON-TINENTAL AIR RACE ARE NEARING THEIR GOAL
TODAY.

By Associated Press.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Leading fliers in the twice trans-continental race between Mineola and San Francisco are expected to complete the first half of their journey today, thus marking an epoch in aviation in America. Continuation of the unfavorable weather which for two days has handicapped the airmen again is in prospect today.

On Last Leg of Trip.
Reno, Nev., Oct. 11.—Lieut. Maynard, the "flying parson," leading the westbound fliers, landed at Battle Mountain, Nevada, at 8:13 today. He arrived at Reno at 10:30 and left 30 minutes later for Mather Field, Sacramento.

Major Spatz Left Buffalo.
Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 11.—Major Spatz, leading the eastbound fliers, left for Rochester at 12:40 today.

TOOK NO HOLIDAY.

By Associated Press.
Washington, Oct. 11.—Instead of recessing for the day, the usual Saturday program, the senate met an hour ahead of time to expedite the consideration of the treaty.

CONTINUED TO IMPROVE.

By Associated Press.
Washington, Oct. 11.—President
Wilson had another good night last night and his condition apparently continued to improve, White House
officials said today.

FOR PRESIDENT OF FRANCE.

Paris, Oct. 11.—More than ordinary interest is manifested in the parliamentary elections to be held tomorrow, owing to the fact that the new Chamber of Deputies to be elected will be called upon next spring to choose a successor to M. Poincare as President of the French Republic.
Speculation in regards to the presidency is already a live subject of discussion among all classes of the people. If the choice were to be made at the present time there appears little doubt that Premier Clemenceau might have the office of chief executive if he would consent to become a candidate. But the Premier has given no intimation of a desire to become President and in view of his advanced age it is considered unlikely that he will enter the lists. In all probability, however, he will endeavor to influence the choice and it is generally believed that he will favor the candidacy of M. Pama, the present Minister of the Interior, and who was a rival of Poincare in the last election.

Present indications point to a large field of candidates when the National Assembly is called together at Versailles to choose the new President. Among the known aspirants for the place are M. Paul Deschanel, president of the Chamber of Deputies, and M. Dubost, president of the Senate, as well as M.
Alexandre Ribot, a former Premier and Minister of Foreign Affairs.
President Poincare is eligible to re-election, but at present there appears little possibility of his being able to command a majority of the senators and deputies, comprising
the National Assembly.

By Associated Press.

Juarez, Mex., Oct. 11.—By January
1 next the Villa movement in Chihuahua will be entirely crushed and its leader will cease to be a factor in Mexican politics, General Manuel Dieguez, Mexican federal commander of the Northern zone, declared today, after reading a statement that a major offensive would be begun by Villa. Dieguez, who six years ago was a common laborer in a Sonora mine, has jurisdiction over the constitutionalist armies in Chihuahua, Durango, Zacatecas and part of Coahuila.

"Villa is at San Bartolo, Durango, with a force of 80 men, which represents his entire military force," said Dieguez.

SAILORS MUTINIED AND SEIZED STEAMER

CARGO OF MUNITIONS FOR THE
WAS CARRIED INTO FIUME.

By Associated Press.

Fiume, Oct. 11.—The steamer Persia, bound from Genoa for the Far East with 30,000 rifles, 10,000,000 cartridges, 20 batteries of mountain guns and two heavy guns for the troops operating against the Bolshievists, arrived at Fiume today. The crew mutinied in the Mediterranean and forced the captain to take the steamer into Fiume.

Fighting in Petrograd.
Copenhagen, Oct. 11.—According to a Helsingfors despatch, Russian newspapers report serious fighting in Petrograd between adherents and opponents of the soviet regime. The counter revolutionaries have taken possession of several important buildings and government institutions.

Confirmation is Awaited.
London, Oct. 11.—Confirmation of the newspaper report that German forces have captured Riga is being awaited here, but if the disparity of the rival forces is as great as reported in some despatches, the success of the attack would not be surprising.
Morning papers feature Germany's new war, but add nothing to the despatches already published here. The whereabouts of General von der Goltz continues to be the subject of contradictory rumors.

Under Cover of Bombardment.
London, Oct. 11.—It is stated in authoritative quarters here that the German-Russian attack on Riga was carried out under cover of a heavy bombardment by German guns, forcing the Letts to evacuate the city.

Two Thousand Lives Lost.
Archangel, Oct. 11.—Two thousand lives were lost in the wreck of an unnamed British ship on the Norwegian coast, according to a wireless despatch received here yesterday from Helsingfors.

Report is Discredited.
London, Oct. 11.—Neither the admiralty nor Lloyds have received any information regarding the wreck of a British ship on the Norwegian coast. At these sources the report is discredited.

PREPARING OPINION.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Oct. 11.—Anticipating

TEACHERS UNDERPAID.

Practically every State has become interested in better salaries for public school teachers. Twelve States and hundreds of local communities have transmitted that interest into actual increases. It is still legally possible, however, as the National Education Association points out, for a teacher to receive the disgraceful salary of $40 per month, and that for only six months—an annual salary of $240 or 66 cents a day. There is no class of workers in the railroad service, not even the section hands, that does not receive 107 per cent to 500 per cent of the average salary paid teachers. Hod carriers earn from one and one half to twice as much as teachers, blacksmiths two and one-half, and bricklayers about three times as much. When one considers the years of preparation and constant study required of teachers such comparisons are ludicrous. Never have our public schools had greater responsibilities than today. If we are to have teachers who measure up to this responsibility, they must be paid living salaries.—Leslie's.

AN INDUSTRIAL TRUCE.

The industrial armistice which has been proposed to the conference now in session in Washington is one of the most sensible things ever suggested, and if it is adopted and carried into effect it will mean much to the country.

The proposal means, of course, that during the three months of its effect there are to be no strikes, no lock-outs, no reductions in wages or demands for more on the part of the workmen, and that industry is to be given a chance to place the country on a normal basis.

This sounds like the millennium, but in reality it is easily attainable. In fact, the great bulk of the workmen are content to forego strikes for a much longer period than that proposed. It is only the self-seeking, blatant, mischief-making demagogue who is actually at the bottom of the present strikes.

The secretary of the steel strike committee told the congressional committee that for some time past it had been decided to "organize" the steel mills of the country, and that President Gompers of the American now was the opportune moment; that the many thousands of "unorganized" steel workers had been a menace to organized labor, and it was desired to put an end to this state of affairs.

So far, Mr. Gompers has said nothing with regard to this statement, but it sounds suspiciously like the truth, for the very life of the big organization depends upon getting new member bodies into it, and an infusion of new blood to the extent of the thousands of the steel mill workers would mean an enormous increase in the treasury of the federation and a corresponding feather in the cap of the organizer who should bring these non-union men within the fold.

At any rate, Mr. Gompers now proposes immediate arbitration of the nation-wide steel strike, which according to his own statement and that of his underlings he had nothing to do with causing, and yet which was brought about in the hope of bringing the steel trades under the banner of the federation.

If the steel strike is arbitrated successfully; if the industrial truce is signed—and kept; if the people are no longer disturbed by rumors of strife, then we shall be able to take up the other vexing problems of the present with a greater show of success in solving them.

One of the causes of the high cost of living, we are assured, is the constant striking of labor for higher wages or better working conditions or some real or fancied grievance. It sounds reasonable, for we know that when production in any line stops there is a corresponding increase in the cost of the product on hand. And the cost to the idle workmen must be met out of someone's pocket, so the public usually has to pay it.

We have much to hope for from an industrial truce. There are some employers who need to be restrained from gouging their employees; there are some employees who need to be restrained from quitting work whenever they feel like it and forcing others to quit at the same time. All this will be stopped for three months, at least, if the truce is made.

There is more work to do at present than there are hands to perform it; yet there is much unemployment. What the remedy for this condition may be can be worked out only if there is industrial peace. And the people who are only interested in the strike as it affects their own business will welcome a declaration of peace, even if it be only for a short period.

There is also the prospect that if the permanent arbitration board be formed the peace may be definite and permanent. For as soon as labor and capital find that a compromise is better than a costly strike or lock-out, they may form a permanent court of arbitration which will bring about a compromise on any question, no matter how serious it may be, and avoid any necessity for any further industrial "war."

WOMAN AND POLL TAX.

The decision of the attorney general's office that the law requiring the payment of poll taxes, so far as it concerns the women, is "directory, rather than mandatory," should not operate to keep the women from paying their poll taxes; at least, those who want to vote next year.

There is no doubt that the federal woman suffrage amendment will be ratified by the required number of states, and that the women of all the country will be enabled to vote in the fall of 1920. But unless citizens of Texas have paid their poll tax for 1919, they will not be able to vote in this state at any election, and this means the women voters as well as the men.

Here in Laredo there is a city poll tax as well as the state and county tax to be paid, but the cost of both is a small sum to pay for the privilege of the franchise. It may be that some day we shall no longer have to pay a poll tax, but until that provision of the election law is repealed, it behooves all who desire to vote to pay the tax and comply with all the requirements of the law.

There has been much ribald comment concerning the necessity of a woman stating her age when she pays poll tax, but if the truth were known, it is becoming less and less common for the women to try to hide their age. And no doubt there are many men who object to telling just how old they are, and who would like to be able to say "over 21," when asked their age by the tax collector.

It is probable that the coming election will see the women of the entire country voting for the first time in history. So far there seems to be little interest in the matter on the part of the women, but it is coming to be known that the women are not as vociferous regarding their franchise as the men; they merely "saw wood and say nothing." Perhaps it is because of the centuries of repression that they have learned to say little while they do a great deal.

One of the important reasons why the women should not fail to pay their poll taxes is that the opponents of woman suffrage in Texas have not ceased their efforts. They are just as determined as ever in their opposition, and it is probable that if any woman who has failed to pay her poll tax asks exception on a technicality, it will be opposed.

It is infinitely better to comply with every requirement of the law and thus be ready to vote, than to expect a decision that women voters should not pay poll taxes. Well, this is the first time they vote, as has usually been the case with young men just attaining their majority.

Already the candidates for state offices have begun to announce, and within the coming winter months there will be a great many more come forward to ask for the suffrage of the Texas voters. It is a source of gratification to know that one possesses the right to vote, and even those who are not yet decided as to whether or not they will vote next fall should miss no opportunity of qualifying themselves to vote should they so desire at the time.

It is not probable that there will be many, if any at all, candidates for office among the women of Texas, but there are not so many men who have the desire for public office, when compared to the number of voters.

It is not necessary for one to be an officeholder, or even a candidate, in order to take an interest in election. The interests of the women are as much bound up in the politics of Texas as are those of the men. And the women who now have a voice in the election of the officials who are to handle the affairs of the state, county and municipality should at least take enough interest in the matter to qualify themselves under the law.

The time is coming when the voice of the women of Texas will be as important as that of the men, insofar as the election of state and county officials is concerned. The woman who disfranchises herself by failure to pay poll tax cannot complain of injustice.

Technically considered he is a professor in the University of Pennsylvania, the faculty of which he joined in 1896. But of late years he has been serving the Government quite as much as the university, so valuable have his attainments and qualities become to the Federal authorities. Many years ago he had much to do with shaping the organic laws and methods of administration in Porto Rico and Cuba. He has attended numerous Pan-American conferences, served as secretary of the United States-Mexican Commission, and held office as Assistant Secretary of the United States Treas-

WOMAN ALMOST ABANDONED HOPE OF GETTING WELL

MRS. BULEY SAYS SHE HAD SUFFERED FOR TWENTY YEARS.

Tanlac Restores Her To Health And She Is Now Perfectly Well In Every Way.

"When my friends ask me what caused my wonderful improvement I just say 'Tanlac,' said Mrs. Burl Buley, of 521 Baxter Court, Canton, Ill., recently.

"For the past twenty years," she continued, "I suffered from acute indigestion, I had terrible cramping spells and gas would form so badly that I could hardly breathe. I was so weak and run down that I couldn't attend to my housework. My head would ache like it would burst, I was so nervous that the least little thing would upset me and I could hardly sleep. Nothing I took did me any good and I gave up all hope of ever being well again.

"So many people were being benefited by taking Tanlac that my husband and I began to hope to get well. I began to improve at once. Soon I could eat anything I wanted without having any trouble afterwards and now my twenty years of suffering are completely at an end. Those awful headaches are gone, I haven't a sign of indigestion, I sleep like a baby and feel perfectly well in every way."

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. Millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

CENSUS SUPERVISOR HERE LOOKING OVER SITUATION

H. P. Hornby, Supervisor of Fifteenth Congressional District, Getting Things Lined Up for Work.

H. P. Hornby of Uvalde, who has been named as census supervisor of the Fifteenth congressional district, was among the visitors in Laredo today, coming here to look over the situation and learn what will be necessary in the selection of enumerators to take the census of Laredo and Webb county, which work begins on January 1 and must be concluded in not more than thirty days.

Ten years ago when the census was taken in Webb county by the government the work was done by twenty-two enumerators, but Mr. Hornby states that so great has been the increase in population in Laredo in the past ten years that it will be necessary to put about thirty enumerators on the job. No enumerator will be required to cover more than fifteen hundred inhabitants.

STILL IN THE RING.
After Fifteen Years of Strenuous Battering and Hard Usage, Model "F" Ford Shows Up Smiling and Sturdy.

In the salesroom of the Denk-Thompson Company, Ford dealer in Detroit, is Ford Touring car number 604, looking wonderfully youthful and sturdy despite its sixteen years of daily service. The car was accepted as $50.00 on the purchase of a new Ford. Apart from style the old timer is worth more than that—it "goes" and the motor is quite some years this side of being a pensioner, but vogue in motordom has changed since 1904.

Engines are no longer wound up from the side; steering wheels no longer stick straight up the air; and then too, eight horse power and five gallon gas tanks aren't quite sufficient for the modern motorist. The faithful Ford has not outworn its usefulness—it has merely outlived itself. It is as though an old Indian chieftain would sport himself adorned in earrings, feathers and moccasins among his college-bred, stylishly clad off spring. Noblest among them but of a different age.

And so with this Model "F" Ford. What stories it might tell of following worn, rutted wagon roads, over strange country perhaps, running through creeks where bridges had not been built, making its owners happy. Detroit wasn't so much of a town fifteen years ago. It was Henry Ford's second year manufacturing Fords in a factory; his company had just been organized.

It is not known who the original purchaser of this dependable old Ford was, or where he lived, whether in New York of California, Michigan or Florida. Six-O-Four may have traveled all of the States in the Union. But now it has returned to the place of its birth, there to enjoy a quiet, respectable old age, while it keeps on running and running and running, and cheating the junk man.

GATHERING INFORMATION IN THE MEXICAN SITUATION

Captain W. M. Hanson, Representing Committee of Senate is Here and Wants Assistance People.

Captain W. M. Hanson, formerly United States marshal of the Southern District of Texas, and who is now representing the subcommittee of the United States senate in the investigation into the Mexican situation along the border, arrived in Laredo on Wednesday in furtherance of his work of securing testimony and has been a very busy man since reaching here. He has room 7 at the Hamilton Hotel, where he is conducting his investigation and where he is securing written testimony from numerous people having accurate knowledge of happenings along the border at or near this point since 1910 up to the present time.

Captain Hanson is desirous of securing all the testimony he can in reference to the Mexican troubles in this section, but he wants no one-sided or prejudicial testimony, for or against the Mexican government, but a plain statement of facts based on veracity, as this testimony is to go to the senate sub-committee and later to the people of the United States for their edification. There are many persons in Laredo who have authentic information and intimate knowledge of many occurrences that have taken place in the past few years in which Mexican bandits or filibusters have violated the law and committed depredations or organized military expeditions on the American side of the border, and those having this knowledge should give it to Captain Hanson, who will be at the Hamilton Hotel here for a few days.

DEATH OF MRS. SAM WHARTON OCCURRED AT NOON TODAY

Resident of Laredo For a Number of Years, Passed Away After Illness of Several Weeks Duration.

Mrs. Mamie Wharton, wife of Sam Wharton, died at her home, 1618 Juarez Avenue, at 12:30 noon today following an illness of over a month, her condition having been serious for the past few weeks.

Mrs. Wharton was a native of Matagorda county, Texas, where she was born in 1878, and was a daughter of Mrs. Uzzell of this city. Besides her husband and mother, deceased is survived by seven children. Mrs. Wharton had made her home in Laredo for the past fifteen years or more and the news of her death came as a shock to all who knew her. The family have the sympathy of many friends in their bereavement.

The funeral will take place from the Wharton home, 1618 Juarez Avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock and friends and acquaintances of the family are invited to attend.

RELIEF FROM THE WAR TAX ON CARLOADS BILLS LADING

Chamber of Commerce Brings About Great Saving to Local Men on Export Business Through Laredo.

All brokers and merchants shipping carloads of merchandise into Mexico should appreciate the effort which the Chamber of Commerce made to place all of the Rio Grande border ports on a par with each other.

Early in January it was discovered that the ports on Rio Grande river crossings were not collecting war tax on bills of lading. At Laredo the railroads were collecting this tax under direct instructions from the internal revenue department. This was evidently against the interests of business through the port of Laredo, and the Chamber of Commerce immediately took steps either to have our merchants relieved of paying the war tax, or else in evident fairness, that the other ports should also collect war tax on bills of lading.

As a result of our effort the railroad officials in charge of these other ports issued instructions to their agents to collect war tax at these ports. This had the effect of holding the export business of this port on a uniform basis.

Further investigation showed that under a technical ruling the Rio Grande crossing ports into Mexico could not be construed as having through bills of lading on their carload shipments, whereas the shipments by way of the gulf and Atlantic seaports into Vera Cruz and Tampico were construed as having through bills of lading. This ruling was evidently to the disadvantage of the Rio Grande crossing ports. The Chamber of Commerce perfected a second argument requesting that the Rio Grande crossing ports be placed upon an equality with the gulf coast ports, in so far as war tax on bills of lading on carload exports of merchandise was concerned.

They again succeeded in having a method outlined whereby exporters through Laredo will have their bills of lading recognized as through bills of lading. Hence, they will not need to pay war tax in the future on these carload shipments into Mexico. Brokers and merchants, however, should see to it that the proper exemption blanks are issued at the point of origin, and that your declaration of intention to export is attached to your bill of lading. Inquire of the Chamber of Commerce if you have not the proper blank forms to refer to.

The Chamber of Commerce by securing these corrections has undoubtedly saved the ports along the Rio Grande border crossings many thousands of dollars of war taxes, and inasmuch as Laredo is by far the largest port, it is evident that the entire expense for maintaining the Chamber of Commerce has been saved our merchants and exporters on this one matter of securing relief of War Tax. By proper revisions of the regulations of the Internal Revenue Department.

FIRM DEFRAYS ALL LOSSES OF EMPLOYEES IN THE STORM

Armour & Co. Wire Their Employees at Corpus to Send in Approximate Losses of All Employees.

When a catastrophe like the hurricane and tidal wave that struck Corpus Christi on September 14 visits a place and leaves death and devastation on its wake, and takes away from the poor man nearly everything he possessed, it is seldom that you hear where the firm for which that man was working comes to his aid in a pecuniary manner and restores him to his humble position on life.

Listen to this, taken from the Corpus Christi Caller of Wednesday: "A striking example of a large firm caring for its employees is shown in the action of Armour and Company regarding the recent storm.

"Wire your approximate losses and draw on us for that amount," read telegrams received by the six persons here who work for the firm. Not merely company losses, but the personal losses of each employee were borne by the company."

Gladness.
I am the elfin spirit you heard in the springtime glade;
I am the wisp of wonder you took for a dancing maid;
I am the dewy sparkle of the young grass in the spring;
I am the fairy fancy that flies on an April wing.

I am the silver bubble you saw on the rippling stream;
I am the childhood chatter you heard in a day of dream;
I am the bloom of the meadow, the delicate green of the rye,
I am the violet morning that blooms in a sapphire sky.

I am the song forgotten that slips from the vale of sleep
Light as a whisper of moonlight over and on the deep;
I am the length unmeasured, I am the height unknown
Between the gates of the portal and the armpits of the throne.

I am the whispered music you listened to yesterday
When you thought the children of summer had come to the world to stay;
I am the magic moment in the life that knows love's spell
When lips touch lips and the music of Eden is in the dell.

COLGATE'S 100 YEARS.

Hamilton, N. Y., Oct. 9.—One hundred years! All that the rounding out of a century of progress and development, of building and expansion, of goals gained and ambitions realized, of work performed and projects completed, of ideals attained and problems solved, of things done means to an educational institution is what Colgate University, founded in 1819, will celebrate during the remainder of this week.

Hundreds of graduates, some of whom have journeyed from distant parts of the world, have arrived in Hamilton to help their alma mater celebrate her centennial. Every accommodation in the town is taxed to provide for the visitors. In ordinary times Hamilton is a village of 1200 inhabitants, but today its population has been nearly tripled by the influx of visitors.

The centennial celebration gets under way this evening with informal gatherings in the fraternity houses and around the college buildings. The formal ceremonies will begin tomorrow morning and will include the greetings of Dr. E. B. Bryan, president of the university, an address by George W. Cobb of New York, president of the General Alumni Association, and an historical address by Dr. W. M. Lawrence of the university faculty. The day's program will conclude with the alumni association dinner in the evening.

Saturday morning there will be other formal ceremonies, including the granting of degrees to distinguished visitors. The speakers are to include Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick, D. D. of New York, Dr. John H. Finley, president of New York University and State Superintendent of Education, and several other men of wide reputation. In the afternoon there will be a football game between teams of Colgate and Brown.

Colgate University owes its founding to Rev. Daniel Hascall, a well-known Baptist clergyman and educator of the early part of the last century. Dr. Hascall came to Hamilton in 1813 as pastor of the First Baptist church. Several years later he began to receive theological students into his family and through his efforts the Baptist education society of the State of New York was formed in 1817. This resulted in the establishment of the Hamilton literary and theological institution, which afterward became Madison University.

The later development and present prosperity of the university are due to the liberality of William Colgate and his descendants, and in recognition of whose generosity the name of the institution was changed from Madison University to Colgate University.

The financial resources of the university are due chiefly to the generosity of William Colgate, a prominent and active Baptist in religious belief, who devoted a considerable part of his large fortune to the endowment of the university. William Colgate was an Englishman who left the land of his birth through sympathy with the American colonies at the time of the Revolution. He settled first in Maryland, but removed soon afterward to New York City, where he took a position with a firm of tallow chandlers. Two years later he started in business for himself as a soap manufacturer and in the course of time accumulated a large fortune.

The interest which William Colgate displayed in the university in Hamilton, and which took form of generous gifts in funds to aid in its development, has been continued by his descendants. Within the past month the university has received a bequest of $100,000 by the will of the late Richard M. Colgate, who was the head of the family at the time of his death some weeks ago.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS.

OCTOBER 9.

Sixty years old today is Lieut. Col. Alfred Dreyfus, who has been decorated as an officer of the Legion of Honor in recognition of his services in the war. Twenty-five years ago, it will be recalled, this same Alfred Dreyfus, then a captain in the French army, was the central figure in a sensational case that long held the attention of the world. It was on Dec. 23, 1894, that he was sentenced to life imprisonment on Devil's Island, following his conviction by court-martial on a charge of selling military secrets to Germany. Following the confession of Colonel Henry that he had forged some of the evidence against Dreyfus, a new trial was ordered in 1899. He was, however, again convicted on Sept. 8 of that year and sentenced to ten years' imprisonment. He was pardoned, however, a week later. The Supreme Court of Cassation later found him innocent of the charges against him and he re-entered the army with full citizenship restored.

FOUR PLANES OUT OF RUNNING AND STATUS OF OTHERS UNCERTAIN IN GREAT CONTEST.

By Associated Press.
Mineola, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Three aviators had been killed, four of the 62 planes originally entered but definitely out of the running and the status of several others remained unknown early today when the army's great transcontinental air race over a 5,400-mile course between Mineola and San Francisco was resumed. The three men killed yesterday were Major D. H. Crissey and Sergt. Virgil Thomas, who met almost instant death in a crash at Salt Lake City, and Sergt. W. H. Nevitt, observer for Col. General Brandt, whose plane crashed at Deposit, N. Y.

Lieut. Maynard led all the other aviators in distance covered, flying from Chicago to Des Moines this morning. Thirty of the 48 machines leaving here arrived at Buffalo today.

Washington, Oct. 9.—An immediate industrial truce to continue for three months, the creation of an arbitration board by the president and congress and immediate arbitration of the nation-wide strike of the steel workers were among the proposals made today to the industrial conference here. The first two were pre- and the last by the labor group. Bernard Baruch, chairman of the public group, made the proposal for the industrial truce, while Samuel Gompers, chairman of the labor group, proposed the arbitration of the steel strike. Gompers' plan contemplated the immediate return of the steel workers pending the outcome of the efforts to arbitrate the dispute. The proposed permanent arbitration board, urged by Gavin McNab of San Francisco, provides that all living ex-presidents be members. Gompers' board for the arbitration of the steel strike would be composed of six members, two appointed by each group in the conference—capital, labor and the public.

Jefferson City, Mo., Oct. 9.—At the request of Governor Hobbie and former Governor Campbell, Governor Gardner today paroled Alton Brown, a former Texas ranger serving a 15-year sentence in the Missouri penitentiary for robbery. Brown, who is said to have an excellent record while a ranger, was paroled to Mr. Campbell.

REDS CHAMPIONS BASEBALL WORLD

THEY KNOCK THREE WHITE SOX PITCHERS HARD AND WIN BY SCORE OF 10 TO 5.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—With the White Sox returning to their home grounds after a victorious session at Cincinnati, in which they won the last two games played with the Reds, the real big thing of the series was on here in the eighth game played this afternoon before a crowd that filled the American League Park to its capacity. Manager Moran essayed his choice for the afternoon to be Hod Eller, the Red twirler who has not known defeat during the present series, while Manager Gleason announced as his choice as the White Sox twirler Williams, the southpaw who has asked to be given a chance to redeem himself in the same manner that Cioeite redeemed himself in yesterday's game.

Reds Start Fireworks.

Cincinnati, first to bat, lost no time in starting the fireworks going, for they landed on Williams' offerings with a vengeance, batting him out of the box in the first inning and James taking his place. When the smoke cleared away at the end of the initial inning Cincinnati had four runs chalked up. In her first inning Chicago could do nothing with Eller. In her half of the second Cincinnati increased her lead with another run, while Chicago again failed to score in her half of the second. The third inning began with the score standing 5 to 0 in favor of Cincinnati. The Reds did not score in the third, but

By Associated Press.
Tokio, Oct. 9.—Japanese forces in Eastern Siberia have been ordered to co-operate effectively with the American authorities in the operation of the trans-Siberian railroad, as the result of strong representations by the United States government to Japan. The American government claimed that in sections guarded by Japanese troops the lives and property of Americans were inadequately protected.

BORROWING MONEY IS NOT PROHIBITED

NOTHING IN CONSTITUTION TO PREVENT CORPUS CHRISTI FROM GETTING FEDERAL LOAN.

By Associated Press.
Austin, Texas, Oct. 9.—There is no provision in the Texas constitution which prohibits Corpus Christi from borrowing money from the federal government for reconstruction purposes, the attorney general's department told Representative Carlos Bee at Washington. The question arose over the bill proposing a $5,000,000 loan to the stricken city.

To Detain Labor Agents.

Austin, Tex., Oct. 9.—Labor agents coming to the Aransas Pass district seeking labor for other sections will be detained and put to work, according to a telegram to Governor Hobbie from General Walters in the devastated area.

Chicago made a home run in her part of the third, the batsman being the only one to score. This made the standing: Cincinnati, 5; Chicago, 1.

In the fourth inning neither side scored, but in the fifth Cincinnati made another run, but Chicago didn't. Score—Cincinnati, 6; Chicago, 1.

In the sixth inning James was replaced by Williams after Cincinnati had brought three more runners across the home plate, making the score 9 to 1 in favor of Cincinnati. In her part of the sixth Chicago did not score. Neither side scored in the seventh, the score still remaining Cincinnati, 9; Chicago, 1.

In the eighth inning Cincinnati added another run to her score, making it 10 to 1 in favor of Cincinnati. In her half of that inning Chicago decided to do a little slugging herself and landed on Eller hard, bringing four runners home and changing the score to Cincinnati, 10; Chicago, 5.

In the ninth Cincinnati did not score and neither did Chicago. Cincinnati by winning this game captured the world's baseball championship of 1919 and ended the series which was to have gone nine games. The summary follows:

Team. 123 456 789—R. H. E.
Cincinnati . . . 410 013 010—10 16 2
Chicago . . . 001 000 040—5 10 1

Batteries: Eller and Rariden; Williams, James, Wilkinson and Schalk.

The attendance at the final game of the championship series was estimated at 30,000 persons.

A SERIOUS CONDITION

While the report was being issued from Austin by the railroad commission that Texas was facing a serious car shortage and that wheat was rotting in the field for lack of transportation facilities, the news came that the tugboat engineers, masters, mates and pilots in the Gulf district, which extends from Key West to Point Isabel, have struck because their wage demands were not met, and thus shipping in and out of Texas ports is tied up.

The car shortage menaces the commerce and industry of Texas as well as its agriculture. And the tie-up of shipping still further menaces commerce and industry, even though its effects are not directly felt by the agricultural interests.

It should be understood that every ship in or out of every Texas port requires a tugboat, or at least a pilot. Few vessels in merchant trade to and from Texas ports can enter without a pilot, and only when the master has a pilot's license for all harbors is the licensed pilot of the harbor unnecessary. But most of the vessels are towed in and out, and few of their own steam.

Thus it is seen that the strike of the tugboat men is a serious one for Texas business and industry. And probably few people realize the enormous amount of business done through Texas seaports.

Even much of the products of Northern factories comes through New Orleans and other ports outside of our state, reaching us by rail from New Orleans. This business is also tied up by the present strike.

The bulk of the Texas cotton, which is an important percentage of the entire American crop, sails for other countries and even for New England mills from the port of Galveston. Many of the vessels carrying cotton out of Galveston are dependent upon the tugboats, and as long as the strike lasts they will be tied up at the wharves.

Without entering into the merits of the controversy between the tugboat companies and their employees, it seems as if some sort of a compromise is necessary at this time. The shortage of cars means a corresponding shortage of Texas produce carried to market and a further shortage of the necessary foodstuffs, clothing, hardware, implements and other supplies brought to our doors.

The Texas railroad commission does not state what the remedy is for the car shortage, and does not suggest that there is any prospect of improvement in the situation. With wheat rotting in the field because of lack of transportation, it would seem imperative that something be done, or someone may go hungry, besides the enormous loss to the Texas wheat growers.

The full effect of the various strikes throughout the country has not manifested itself, but unless something is done to put a stop to this reign of misrule, we shall soon discover a shortage of all that we need. It is not only that the strikers and their families will suffer, but innocent third parties, who have but the remotest interest in the strike, will suffer from lack of food, of fuel and of clothing.

The strike should be settled with the least possible delay, in order that a shortage of any particular necessity may not induce a new chain of profiteering throughout the country. Our prices are high enough, in all conscience, and we should not be forced to pay any more because of a real or fancied grievance on the part of some group of workmen.

Within a few weeks the full effect of the tugboat strike will begin to be realized, and when that time comes, should the strike last that long, the people will see the futility of the strike system and will demand that some other means be found of deciding the industrial wars.

The people of Texas have a great empire of their own, but without cars and lacking ships, we are more dependent than ever upon our own resources, as we shall find to our cost when we have to supply ourselves with the necessities of life.

ILLICIT SOCIETIES.

It turns out that the negro troubles at Elaine, Arkansas, were the result of several causes. In the first place, the cupidity of a partly educated negro, who was shrewd enough to know his race's failings; second, the love of mystery which the negro inherits from his fetish-worshipping savage ancestors, and third, the negro tendency to bedeck himself with trinkets that indicate his importance to himself and his fellows.

It seems that Robert Hill, a young negro who had been a farmer all his life, had lately been posing as a private detective, "doing work in this and all foreign countries." He had just sufficient education to be able to misinform and deceive the ignorant negroes, and he formed a series of "lodges" of an order whose object was to secure possession of the lands and property of the whites, which object was, according to Hill, to be supported by the federal government. He got sums of money ranging all the way from $50 to $500 from the negroes, as he had different modes of "working" individuals according to their means and their presumed gullibility.

He sold them arms and ammunition, he furnished some with "detective" stars and handcuffs, he appointed others to positions of trust in his various lodges, he sold lands that were declared to belong to the government, and he prepared for an uprising against the whites that has not been equalled in extent since the conspiracy of Murrell in the early part of the past century.

The negro has a love of the mysterious. There is probably not a single negro in the country who does not belong to one or more "lodges," most of which are the invention of the negroes themselves, although some are based upon the secret societies of the Caucasian race. What goes on in many of these lodges can only be surmised by a white man, for the negro never admits his white "friends" to his secret organizations. But above all, the negro likes to be a person of importance, and he is apt to gauge that importance by the number of badges he wears or the uniforms he is entitled to put on.

Working on these well known characteristics, it was not difficult for Hill to secure his recruits by the hundreds, and he was shrewd enough to have something a little better and more costly for those who had the means to pay. He made detectives collect $50 for a star and a pair of handcuffs. He must have secured, first and last, a considerable sum of money from his dupes.

And then came the climax of the conspiracy. The deluded negroes were armed and assembled to begin their attack, when they were told that a small body of whites was approaching. The negroes left their ambush, where they might have killed the majority of those who passed, and attacked the party from Helena, which proved to be superior in numbers, and the fight was on.

The worst feature of the whole affair is that the members of every lodge were repeatedly told that their duty would be to kill whites. They were apparently willing, and even the statement that probably some of their own number would be killed as "martyrs to the cause" did not deter them from entering on their bloody career of murder.

There seems to be no solution of this problem. Even if the negroes are forbidden to have secret societies, they will still manage to meet and exchange "sign, grip and password," for even back in slavery days the negroes had their secret societies and their secrets were well kept.

The punishment for unlawful assemblages will not keep the negroes from meeting, and unless the better educated and more advanced of their own race are able to point out the futility of any conspiracy against the whites, it may be that these foolish—and sometimes dangerous—plots will be carried on because of the greed for money of some half-educated negro.

It is hard to distinguish the innocent from the guilty, for some of the most prosperous negroes were concerned in the Elaine plot.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH THE AMERICAN RED CROSS.

Early in the participation of the United States in the world war, the American Red Cross perceived the value of mobilizing the school children of the country and the Junior Red Cross was organized. Before the war ended nine million children were enrolled and helped in the war fund and membership campaigns, in chapter production of relief supplies and manufacturing furniture for the refugees whose homes and household goods were destroyed.

Children everywhere in the United States responded to the call to service sounded by President Wilson as head of the American Red Cross. This photograph is that of an enthusiastic young Japanese member of the Junior Red Cross of Spokane, Wash., starting out on the ambitious undertaking of collecting "a mile of pennies" for war relief. A comprehensive peace program is now being worked out for the Junior Red Cross, which is being held intact.

FIGHT AGAINST PROPOSED AMENDMENTS LAST NIGHT

Mass Meeting of Mexican-Americans at Courthouse, While City Attorneys Held Boards at City Council.

While the Mexican-American residents of Laredo were hearing addresses in opposition to the proposed amendments to the city charter at a meeting being held in the district court room last night, City Attorney Winslow was on the floor before the members of the city council opposing the proposed drastic changes and seeking to get the councilmen to rescind their resolution calling for the special election and thereby save themselves the humiliation of defeat of their resolution at the hands of the voters of Laredo on the 21st instant, for it now seems certain that the intelligent people of Laredo will reject the proposed drastic measures providing for a recorder's court at a great expense to the citizens, the granting of plenary powers to the council and other imperialistic measures.

Judge Winslow was strong in his opposition to the amendments and made an urgent plea to the councilmen to recall their resolution, forestall the humiliation of imminent defeat of their resolutions and amendments and spare the city a lot of unnecessary expense of the election. Mayor McComb was just as determined that the election should be held and in an obstinate manner opposed rescinding the election order. As there are eight councilmen it required six votes to annul and rescind the order, and when a vote was taken it resulted in four voting to rescind and a like number voting to let the order stand. With a tie vote on the proposition, the election will take place as planned, but in the meantime the opponents of the drastic amendments will spare no efforts to roll up a big majority against them at the special election on October 21.

WHEN BULL MEETS FORD.

After Encounter Ford Rolls Over and Keeps Right on Going.

Just why a particular Bull grazing on a side hill in Santa Ana Canyon one day recently should entertain so sincere a dislike for a black Ford touring car is a mystery. He may have had gastritis or a bad liver, or he may have disliked all automobiles or all Fords.

Anyway, when the Harris Family of San Pedro drove their Ford around the base of that sidehill, Friend Bull snorted, slapped his tail at a fly, missed it, saw red, and for want of something better to do, decided to engage the Ford in combat. There wasn't much of a fight. After the Bull had turned the Ford upside down in the road, he was much better satisfied with himself and strolled into the shade of a nearby tree to view his handiwork.

The members of the Harris family had not been hurt seriously, so they mobilized forces, rolled the Ford over onto its wheels, cranked it—and continued their journey.

SUMMONED TO CALIFORNIA BY ILLNESS OF HIS BROTHER

U. S. Consul Robertson, Enroute to Laredo, Called to Bedside Lieut. Robertson in San Diego, Calif.

While en route home from Washington, where he had been on official business, United States Consul Randolph Robertson yesterday at San Antonio received a telegram advising him that his brother, Lieutenant Richard Robertson, United States Navy, stationed at San Diego, California, was dangerous ill.

Consul Robertson took the first train out of San Antonio for San Diego and is now en route to the bedside of his brother. It is hoped that when he reaches the Pacific coast city he will find his brother out of danger.

IT IS CAPTAIN JOE BROOKS OF HEADQUARTERS COMPANY

Laredo Young Man Promoted to Responsible Position in Texas Ranger Force at the State Capital.

The many friends of Joe B. Brooks, a former well known Laredo young man who left here several years ago and joined Captain Sanders company of Texas Rangers, and who for some time past has been stationed with the headquarters company of the rangers at Austin, will be delighted to know that Joe is making good in the ranger service of his state.

A letter received yesterday by District Attorney Valls from the young man says: "I have just been promoted to captain of headquarters company of the Texas Ranger force, and want to offer you my services in anything that I can do for you. Austin is my headquarters, although I work all over the state. I will be down in your country soon and will call around and see you." Laredo is proud of Captain Joe Brooks and wish him continued success.

FAVORITE MUSICIAN WILL RETURN SOON TO LAREDO

Mrs. Flora Dilgarde Anderson To Resume Her Musical Activities in This City Beginning Oct. 15.

It will be gratifying news to the music-loving people of Laredo that Mrs. Flora Dilgarde Anderson, organist and choirmaster of Christ Church, has decided to return to Laredo and reopen her music studio on Oct. 15.

Mrs. Anderson, who left for New York City in July, 1918, to take up studies with noted teachers, has recently been organist of the Westminster Presbyterian Church in Jersey City, assistant organist of the Church of the Holy Communion, New York, and concert accompanist of the Music League of America.

The past year has been spent in studying singing with Mme. E. B. de Serrano, doing voice placing work with Graham McNamee, well known concert baritone. Mrs. Anderson studied interpretation of music with Richard Hageman, conductor of the Metropolitan Opera House; organ with Frank Sealy, organist of the New York Oratorio Society and the New York Symphony Society. She specialized in Anglican Church music with G. Darlington Richards, formerly organist of St. Thomas, New York, and Temple Emanuel, New York, and now at St. James.

Mrs. Anderson will resume charge of Christ Church organ and choir, and will resume her teaching of voice and piano, for which she is now eminently fitted after prosecuting her studies under such masters as those mentioned above.

Her many friends will be glad to welcome her back to Laredo, and hope that she will remain with us permanently.

EIGHT MORE INDICTMENTS RETURNED BY GRAND JURY

So Far the Grand Jury in Its Two Days' Session Has Returned Total of Fourteen Bills of Indictment.

The grand jury in district court here is still at work investigating matters called to their attention by District Attorney Valls, and in addition to the six bills of indictment returned yesterday morning, eight more such bills were turned in this morning by the grand jury, as follows:

Jose Prado, criminal assault.

Clemente Vasquez, passing a forged instrument (two cases.)

Cipriano Araisa, violation of law regulating operation of automobiles.

Aurelio Medina, theft over $50.

Leopoldo M. Peña, receiving stolen property.

Fidela Gonzales, pandering.

Maximina Garza, violation liquor laws.

After returning the above eight bills this morning the grand jury resumed their work and will probably return more bills of indictment tomorrow.

FUNERAL MRS. GEO. BRANNAN HELD TUESDAY AFTERNOON

MEETING STRONG AGAINST CHANGES IN CITY CHARTER

Large and Enthusiastic Meeting of Mexican-Americans at District Court Room Against Proposed Changes.

Another, largely attended mass meeting of citizens, mostly Mexican-American residents of Laredo, filled the spacious courtroom of the district court, the surrounding rooms, galleries and halls, and many could not gain admission, last night to hear arguments in opposition to the adoption of the proposed amendments to the city charter of Laredo, and if the enthusiasm that marked the meeting on this occasion can be taken as a criterion of how the vote on the amendments will result, they haven't a ghost's show of adoption by the citizenship of Laredo.

The meeting last night was the largest and most enthusiastic of the kind ever held in the district court room and evinced the keen interest of the citizens of Laredo in the proposed amendments. Wilmer Threadgill called the meeting to order and made an address in Spanish in which he explained the objects of the gathering, and his remarks were liberally applauded. Following Mr. Threadgill short talks were made by Manuel Raymond, Wilmer Threadgill, John A. Pope (in English), while John L. Dannelley (in English) and Wilmer Threadgill (in Spanish) told how to make out the ballots to defeat the proposed amendments.

All the speakers in their announcement of the imperialistic provisions of several of the amendments were liberally applauded and the meeting, by its demonstration, showed itself strongly opposed to the proposed amendments to the city charter.

GILBERT P. DeWOLF DIED AT HIS OLD GEORGIA HOME

Well Known Railroad Official, For Many Years With Mexican National, Succumbs to Long Illness.

A telegram received yesterday evening by S. W. DeWolf, general manager of the Texas-Mexican Ry. Co., conveyed the sad news of the death of his brother, Gilbert Patten DeWolf, a railroad official well and favorably known in Laredo, who died yesterday afternoon at the home of his brother-in-law, W. P. Hornaday, in Dawson, Georgia. S. W. DeWolf left this morning for Americus, Ga., where the funeral will take place Friday afternoon.

Gilbert Patten DeWolf was born in Columbus, Ga., Sept. 18, 1861, and as a young man came to Texas and in 1892 accepted a position with the Mexican National Ry. Co., with headquarters in Mexico, holding the responsible position of chief engineer of construction of that railroad system up to 1914, when he, and many other Americans, left the Mexican railways.

On December 15, 1897, in Ellaville, Ga., Mr. DeWolf was married to Miss Leila Hornaday, who survives him.

During the Mexican troubles of a few years ago deceased, whose ability as a construction engineer was recognized by the United States government, was appointed as consulting engineer of the government in prospective Mexican railway work. For the past two years he had been in impaired health and last June left Laredo for Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, Md., for medical treatment, but soon afterwards returned to his old home in Georgia, where he died yesterday afternoon. Besides his brother, S. W. DeWolf, the deceased is survived by his wife, both of whom have the sympathy of their many friends in their sad bereavement.

MISS M. SALLEE, 1209 LINCOLN ST.

LOCAL NEWS

—The following importations from Mexico passed through the port of Laredo yesterday afternoon: One car (500) parrots, one carload nuts (fruit), six carloads manganese, one carload of bananas.

—The following marriage licenses have been issued by the county clerk since last report: Frank Pakuszewski and Miss Isabel Reyna, Leonidas G. Villarreal and Miss Consuelo Aguilar.

—The band concerts by the Thirty-seventh Infantry Band which were given in this city and at the post semi-weekly by that popular musical organization under the leadership of Lieut. Everlof, are much missed now, but the band is short of musicians as a result of so many discharges, and that is the reason there are no more concerts at this time.

—Up to noon today a total of 910 bales of cotton had been ginned at the Laredo Cotton Gin Co. plant on the Heights in this city, this representing cotton from Webb and Zapata counties. There was considerable cotton on hand waiting to be ginned when the report was received by the Times at noon.

—Base ball fans in Laredo are much interested in the world's series championship games, and the backers of the Reds are expecting them to put the finishing touches on the White Sox this afternoon.

CAPT. W. M. HANSON IS HERE FOR SECURING TESTIMONY

Attached to Sub-Committee of Senate Gathering Information Concerning Mexican Troubles on Border.

Captain W. M. Hanson, one of the well known peace officers and Texas Ranger captains of Texas, who is now attached to the senate sub-committee investigating Mexican affairs along the border, is among the visitors in Laredo.

Captain Hanson is here at this time to get evidence regarding Mexican troubles in this section since 1910, and all those having accurate knowledge of certain incidents that have transpired during the past nine years are requested to put their information in writing and hand it to him, and it will be much appreciated and used to good advantage by the senate sub-committee presided over by United States Senator Albert B. Fall.

THREE TRAINS DESTROYED BY BANDITS DURING SUNDAY

Train From Laredo to Mexico City Destroyed By Dynamite and Two Others Destroyed By Flames.

According to information brought here by some of the passengers who were in the wreck of the Constitutionalist Lines of Mexico passenger train en-route from Nuevo Laredo to Mexico City near Vanegas on Sunday morning, in which about seventy second-class passengers lost their lives, and who returned to Laredo yesterday afternoon, the train was not wrecked by a derailment, as previously reported in press dispatches, but was dynamited and almost entirely destroyed by bandits who had placed dynamite on the track. Only those passengers in the rear coaches of the train escaped injury, while the locomotive, baggage and mail cars and the two coaches carrying second-class passengers were blown to pieces, and it was in these coaches that about seventy second-class passengers lost their lives.

The passengers arriving here also report that while they were in Monterey en route back to the border they learned that on last Sunday on the Gulf & Monterey road, one of the branches of the Constitutionalist Lines, two passenger trains had been halted between Monterey and Tampico by bandits, the engines detached and sent back and the passengers forced to detain, after which the trains had the torch applied to the coaches and they were entirely consumed by flames.

CARLOAD CORDOVA BANANAS PASSED THROUGH THIS CITY

Roy Campbell Co. of Laredo Handled First Carload of Famous Mexican Bananas of Season Yesterday.

The first carload of extra choice bananas from Cordova, Mexico, which is famous for its high quality of bananas, was handled through here yesterday by the Roy Campbell Co., which received them from the Mexican side of the Rio Grande and attended to the shipment northward from Laredo.

The Cordova brand of bananas and plantains are noted for their exceedingly sweet flavor and large size, and the bananas which passed through here yesterday are of the best quality coming from the banana plantations of that part of Mexico.

RESTORES STANDARD TIME
MORNING SUNDAY, OCT. 26

Hands of the Timepieces of the Country Will Be Set Back One Hour at 2 O'clock Morning Oct. 26.

The much abhorred orders to "rouse mit you" given at daybreak these days in order to get up in time to get the initial meal of the day and be off to the day's duties, will come an hour later on and after October 26, for on that Sunday, in the wee sma' hours of morning, to be precise, at 2 o'clock under the present time, the hands of clocks and watches will be set back to 1 o'clock and the old time or pre-war time will be restored, and when one gets up at 6 o'clock in the morning it will be 6 o'clock, and not 5 o'clock as at present.

This war time stuff is all right so long as it lasts during the summer season, but it should cease with the last Sunday in September instead of the last Sunday in October, for the days begin to get short too quick and when one awakes at 5 o'clock actual time, in October and it is only 6 o'clock "war time" that is going too far. But the time goes back an hour at 2 o'clock on the morning of October 26, less than three weeks from now, and that will be the end of the "war time," for the daylight saving act has been repealed by congress and the new time which has been in vogue the past two summers becomes a thing of the past.

PROMPT REPORTS EACH DAY OF CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES

Result of Games at Cincinnati and Chicago Given to Times Readers Immediately After Each Game.

Through the assistance of the Western Union Telegraph Co. office in Laredo and the Associated Press, which furnish the proceedings of the great world's championship baseball games to The Times each afternoon, this paper is enabled to furnish its readers with the results of the games a few minutes after the close.

Bulletins on the games giving the batteries of each team and the result of each inning as it takes place is furnished The Times by the accommodating gentlemen at the Western Union office here as they receive each bulletin on the game, while the Associated Press furnishes the introductory information and the final summary of the game with runs, hits, errors and batteries.

SPORT WRITER NEGOTIATES DELUGE.

Ford Never Falters As It Sail Over Water Soaked Roads on High.

Will Gahagan, the famous sport writer who is also a "walking encyclopedia" of information on titled horses and their doings for the last couple centuries—recently from Randall to Cleveland in a but here's his story as it appeared in "The Horseman" for August:

"In company with Xen Scott, turf writer on the 'Plain Dealer,' and a couple of other scribes, I made the trip to the city in 'Scotty's' machine. Said machine is manufactured in Detroit by a gentleman by the name of Ford. Now, they make all sorts of fun of that Ford machine, but after that trip from Randall to Cleveland the other day, I'm convinced that the Ford cars are not only fast but that they have staying qualities as well. They should have been used in getting the soldiers across the ocean."

"In the low spots where the water has stopped many of the high priced 'boats,' the little Ford didn't even hesitate. One of the most amusing sights of the trip—believe that it was the only one—was watching a gentleman astride the hood of a big machine which was standing in about two feet of water. He was attempting to crank the machine and yet keep out of the water. Now that was a hard job. Every time he gave the crank a twist, his arm went into the water, right up to the elbow. The good man was reciting the Lord's Prayer as we passed. At least we surmised that he was, from a few words that he uttered as our good little craft pulled for the shore."

Like "Pop" Gears who added a Ford Runabout to his string of thoroughbreds, Mr. Gahagan has discovered that as a "mud horse" he couldn't get away from the Ford.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The undersigned desires to advise those directly and commercially interested in the fumigation of freight cars from Mexico that the agreement under which W. P. Spivey, at Brownsville, Van E. McFarland, at Eagle Pass, and Dr. H. C. Hall at Laredo, for two years carried out the fumigation of cars under the supervision of the U. S. Federal Horticultural Board, was terminated on October 1st, 1919, when the plants of the Department of Agriculture were specially erected, equipped and ready for operation.

This will also serve to convey my compliments to a certain element in the community, which have been the least interested, but the most concerned in keeping misinformed.

Takin' Down the Summer.

They're takin' down the summer from the old clothes line; They're packin' up its fragrance and its melody and shine; They're puttin' it in camphor in the old cedar chest, And I wish they'd lay a memory of the roses on its breast!

They're takin' down the summer from the maple and the gum; They're wrappin' in a bundle all its murmur and its hum; They're savin' it so lovin' as they lay it by to sleep, For it's goin' to be come winter, and they're hopin' it will keep!

They're takin' down the summer from meadow and the stream; They're tyin' up in lavender its incense and its dream; They're foldin' it all gently as they put its sweets away— And I wish that I could tell it all the things that I would say!

SCIATIC PAINS QUICKLY RELIEVED

Keep Sloan's, the World's Liniment handy to allay aches

THOUSANDS of men and women, when the least little rheumatic "crick" assails them, have Sloan's Liniment handy to knock it out. Popular a third of a century ago—far more popular today.

That's because it is so wonderfully helpful in relieving all external aches and pains—sciatica, lumbago, neuralgia, overstrained muscles, stiff joints, weather exposure results. A little is all that is necessary, for it soon penetrates without rubbing to the sore spot. Leaves no muss, stained skin, clogged pores. A bottle today is a wise precaution. Keep it handy.

ATLANTA GREETES THE GRAY.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 7.—Atlanta is ablaze with color and thronged with an army of visitors for the annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans and the meetings of the several auxiliary organizations, which got under way today and will last until the end of the week.

No city has ever devoted more time and money than Atlanta in making the plans for the reunion a success and the result of this double expenditure is attended by a perfection of details looking to the entertainment and accommodation of the veterans, sons and daughters of veterans and thousands of other visitors.

At a cost of thousands of dollars, the reunion committee has had all the principal streets decorated profusely with flags, ribbons and bunting. In addition, the public spirited merchants almost without exception have gaily bedecked their building fronts with decorations in which the intertwined Stars and Stripes and Stars and Bars form the chief feature.

In every way special attention has been given to the accommodation of the veterans, many of whom took part in the great battles around Atlanta more than half a century ago. The homes of Atlanta have been thrown open for the entertainment of the old soldiers. Hundreds of others have found accommodation in the great tented city which has sprung up in Piedmont Park.

Today was devoted largely to the reception of the visitors, the preliminary business of the reunion, and meetings of the Southern Memorial Association and other auxiliary bodies. Sessions of the United Confederate Veterans will continue tomorrow and Thursday.

Friday has been fixed as the day for the great parade, the spectacular feature of the reunion program. In deference to the age and infirmities of the great majority of the veterans the line of march will be short. A large proportion of the old soldiers will ride in automobiles. In the line will be representatives of the Spanish war veterans and soldiers who fought in the world war. Temporary hospitals, rest stations, lunch stands and public comforts will line the route of the procession. The parade will be reviewed by the Governor of Georgia and numerous invited guests from other States.

VANDERBILT DIVORCE HEARING.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 6.—Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt's application for a divorce will be heard at the term of the superior court which convenes here tomorrow. Mrs. Vanderbilt, who was Miss Kathleen Neilson, is the daughter of Mrs. Frederic Neilson of New York and Newport. She was married to Mr. Vanderbilt in 1903. While Mrs. Vanderbilt does not ask for alimony, she does ask for the custody of their daughter, Miss Kathleen Vanderbilt. Desertion is the alleged cause for divorce. It is understood that the case will not be contested by Mr. Vanderbilt, and that all testimony will be by depositions.

Bronchial Trouble.

MEETING ADJOURNS BECAUSE OF PROTEST

RULES PROPOSED MET WITH OBJECTION OF REPRESENTATIVE OF THE PUBLIC.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Oct. 7.—Disagreement over the rules proposed for governing the industrial conference called by President Wilson resulted in the conference adjourning suddenly today after Franklin Lane, secretary of the interior, had been elected chairman. As proposed by the committee, the rules provided that all conclusions and decisions must be arrived at by a unanimous vote of the groups representing capital, labor and the public, while the decision of each individual group would be by a majority of that group. The rule was attacked by John Spargo, of New York, representing the public.

Dr. Grayson will keep the president in bed despite the latter's earnest desire to attend to his official duties. Messages of sympathy continue to arrive.

KERR WON AGAIN FOR THE WHITE SOX

LONE STAR STATE DEFEATED THE MIGHTY
REDS TODAY.

Redfield Park, Cincinnati, Oct. 7.—One of the grandest and most tumultuous homecoming demonstrations ever accorded a baseball team anywhere broke loose in Cincinnati this morning when the victorious Reds returned home for the sixth game on the home grounds this afternoon with the White Sox, whom they were determined to placate and convince that the Reds are the best and fastest baseball automaton on earth. Grim determination was manifest on the features of Manager Gleason of the White Sox and Manager Moran of the Reds, the latter determined to make the game this afternoon the final one of the series. Redfield Park was thronged with the record crowd of the season long before play was called by the umpires.

The announcement that Dick Kerr and Schalk were the batteries for Chicago and Reuther and Raridan for Cincinnati was greeted with great and lasting applause, as the thousands in the grand stand and bleachers realized that the two premier and undefeated pitchers of the American and National Leagues in this series were pitted against each other, as Kerr, the Texas lad, won the only game of the series so far for Chicago, while Reuther won the opening game for the Reds. But in the game this afternoon Kerr did not prove as effective as he did on his home grounds, for the Reds went after him hard. The first two innings for both teams passed scoreless, but in their half of the third Cincinnati found Kerr and brought two runners across the home plate, while Chicago in her third round could do nothing with Reuther. In the fourth the fireworks was continued by the Reds, and another couple of runners tallied, thus ending the fourth inning with the score standing 4 to 0 in favor of Cincinnati. In the fifth inning Cincinnati failed to score, while in her half of that sashay Chicago scored her

Paris, Oct. 7.—King Victor Emmanuel of Italy yesterday signed the royal decree ratifying the German and Austrian treaties, according to a Milan despatch.

The ratification of the German treaty by royal decree of the Italian king virtually completed the steps necessary for putting into effect the peace treaty between Germany and Italy, powers which was signed at Versailles June 28 and which it was stipulated would become operative when ratified by three great powers.

Demand Bismarck's Extradition.

Paris, Oct. 7.—The extradition of Count Otto Bismarck, grandson of the famous German chancellor, has been demanded of the German government by the court martial authorities at Lille, according to a correspondent of Excelsior. Eight other Germans are also to be extradited, Reuters says. Count Bismarck is accused of having had fourteen inhabitants of the village of Vieoigna shot as "an example" and burning several houses there. Similar charges are preferred against the others.

first run. The score now stood 4 to 1 in favor of the Reds.

In the sixth inning Chicago started a little fireworks display in retaliation, and when the smoke cleared away three White Sox runners had crossed the home plate and tied the score. In her half of the sixth Cincinnati could not score and the sixth inning ended with the score standing 4 to 4. In the seventh neither side scored—still tied. In her half of the eighth Chicago could not score; neither side scored—still tied. Ring pitching instead of Reuther. In her half of the eighth Chicago could not score; neither could Cincinnati. In the ninth neither side scored and for the first time during the series an extra-inning game is necessary.

In the tenth inning Chicago brought in the winning run, while Cincinnati could not score. The game shows both Kerr and Reuther were hit hard and often, the summary showing as follows:

Team 123 456 789 10—H. H. E.
Chicago . . . 000 013 000 1—5 10 3
Cincinnati . . 002 200 000 0—4 11 0
Batteries: Kerr and Schalk; Reuther, Ring and Raridan.

Dick Kerr, the Texas boy is still the undefeated champion pitcher of the American League, as the two games won by the White Sox have been due to his work. The seventh game will be played in Cincinnati tomorrow.

A RIDICULOUS PROPOSITION.

It has always been presumed that Secretary of Labor Wilson, himself a member of a labor union, would be first, last and all the time in favor of what was good for the laboring men, but if what is now said is true, he is not only going to recommend something which would not be for the good of the employer, but which could not under any circumstances be good for the workingman.

Briefly, the proposal is that district boards of arbitration be created by law, empowered to declare what are fair wages in any industry within their districts, and that then the employers are not to be permitted to pay "any other wages than those so found to be fair."

In other words, there is no longer to be any "collective bargaining," that shibboleth of the labor union organizer, and the wages fixed by law will not only be minimum wages, but maximum as well. For if the employers are not to be permitted to pay "any other wages than those fixed by the board of arbitration," then there is no hope of an increase any more than there is of a decrease.

It is a question if the wise heads who are responsible for this new form of government domination ever studied the effect which it would have on the workingmen. They were probably too intent upon how it would affect the employer, to rule whom has been the desire of many labor leaders for years past.

Government is presumed nowadays to have many strange functions. No absolute monarchy would have greater powers than some of those proposed, and no people would be greater slaves than ourselves were these laws to be adopted.

For instance, a board of arbitration is appointed. First, by whose influence? Is the department of labor to have the appointment, or will it lie in the power of congress to approve appointments made by the president, upon the recommendation of the labor unions of each district? And will the employers have any voice in the selection of the board, or will they merely have to accept the findings of officials known to be adverse to the employers from the very start?

The proposition opens up many new possibilities. Should it become law, the workmen in any line will have to see to it that the board is not influenced by any thought of the high cost of living when it fixes the wage scale, and the employers will have to protest against a too liberal interpretation of the reports of profits made.

The wage scale once fixed, how long is it to operate? And will be arbitration board be disposed to "listen to reason" when a change is demanded, or will it be necessary to bombard the members with heavy artillery in the way of speeches from big guns before they show a breach in their walls?

Frankly, we had expected better from Secretary Wilson. He has always shown a disposition to be fair-minded in the labor controversies which have come before him for settlement or arbitration, but such a law as is proposed would be fair to neither side, nor could it be expected to bring about the results desired by labor.

Labor is entitled to what it can get, provided what it gets does not take away from some one else what it deserves. Fairness demands that wages should be as high as is consistent with a fair return on capital invested in an industry. But if the board has already set a scale of wages, how could labor ask more in case capital made more?

And if the wages were set and the industry should lose because of a drop in selling prices without a corresponding decrease in the cost of materials, how long does anyone think the industry would continue at a loss, even though the men were willing to continue work? And even if the workingmen wanted to help out the employers by accepting less wages, how could they do so in the face of the board's wage decision?

CARRANZA'S LATEST

In a recent interview with an American correspondent, President Carranza declared: "We are doing all we can to avert war with the United States, all that we can do with honor, preserving at the same time our national dignity, but in case war is declared against us, we shall fight to the end, to preserve our dignity."

He added that the present attitude of the American government was due to "the unhappy assassination of some unfortunate Americans, which he sincerely lamented, but which was due to the fact that there were regions in which the government has not absolute control."

He declared that the best proof that Mexico was not moved by evil intentions was the fact that his government was disposed to pay all possible indemnity for the misfortunes which occur.

Then he threatened the United States, in case of a war with Mexico, with the loss of the friendship of all Latin-America, something which we are certain he does not control, for he is not by any means backed by the Latin-American countries in his present attitude.

He ended with a statement that his one desire was to prepare the future of his country; that "one day Mexico would occupy her proper place as one of the strongest nations of the world."

All this leads to nothing. It is the same shifty evasion, the same throwing off the burden of guilt on to the shoulders of others, the same offer of payment for blood shed by people whom he should be able to control, if his government is what he claims it is. And we have yet to learn of a single case of punishment of the guilty for the deliberate murder of American citizens. On the contrary, there is much evidence to show that many of those guilty of abuses against Americans have been rewarded.

Mexico no doubt will some day be one of the great nations of the world. It already has been a nation respected abroad, and its natural resources and the native ability of its people will one day bring it to the goal of its ambitions.

But before that can come to pass, Mexico will have to cease being the firebrand nation of the continent. It will have to gain a prestige for something else than being the robber nation of the Western hemisphere. It will have to honor all drafts on its treasury and change its attitude of repudiation for one of strict and ready compliance with all its obligations.

No nation that has not the respect of its own people can look for the respect of foreigners. Its own doorway must be swept before it can ask foreign capital to help paint and rehabilitate the structure of its national edifice.

Mexico is a flashing jewel that lies covered with the rubbish of the past and the ashes and debris of the revolutionary present. In its proper setting Mexico would dazzle the eyes of all beholders. It is a brilliant in a tinsel crown, because the people have not united in fashioning for it the coronet of good government and foreign credit.

It is idle to talk of education while the people of Mexico are bowed beneath the yoke of oppression. The parents work too hard to pay the demands of a government which does not govern, to waste any time in planning for the education of their children. And even the money set aside for education is wasted, according to the complaints which come daily from all parts of the republic.

Meanwhile, Mexico, not the United States, is alienating the friendship of the Latin-American countries. They find that the United States is a good neighbor, and they are grateful for the many favors they have received at our hands, while they cannot see any obligation which they owe to Mexico.

And our reward for friendship in the past and patience in the present is a threat from Carranza of what will happen should we be too presumptuous!

MUCH COTTON FROM ZAPATA BEING BROUGHT TO LAREDO

Besides Ginning the Cotton Crop of Webb County, Local Gin is Taking Care of Zapata County Crop.

Cotton is still being turned out at a lively rate at the gin on the Heights in this city, and within the next day or two the thousand bale mark will be passed and the gin will continue until all cotton offered it is disposed of.

Not all of the cotton ginned here so far has come from the country around Laredo, for there is cotton coming in from various portions of Zapata county by the wagonload daily, and parties who came in from the country near San Ignacio yesterday reported passing about fifty or more wagons loaded with cotton from Zapata county headed for Laredo, most of these wagons arriving here during today.

The cotton gin here expects to be kept busy for several weeks yet turning out all the cotton in Webb and Zapata counties, as the latter county has no gin and the cotton growers of Zapata are sending their cotton to Laredo to be ginned.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes
—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F.M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 10c and 25c.

"THE SHE WOLF."

THE SHE WOLF, otherwise, is regulation Western melodrama with all its customary trimmings and trappings. In a lonely cabin not far from a mining camp of Mad Dog, lives a woman known as The She Wolf. (TEXAS GUINAN). She is on her way from nowhere to God knows whence, merely drifting. Now it happens that the saloon in the camp is owned by a Chinaman, who stakes the Sheriff, whenever he is in need of money. The sheriff secretly being the head of a band of outlaws and bandits, and when a stranger walks in, sheriff and his band look on him as another victim. The Chinaman and his other cohorts fleece the unknown stranger of his money, but they haven't reckoned with the She Wolf, who recognizes the Stranger as the man who once befriended her.

At the psychological moment she covers the desperadoes with her two guns, and, in the melee, the stranger is wounded. She takes him to her cabin, and nurses him back to health, and pays her respects to the sheriff in her customary fashion, when he comes to arrest the man. In the meanwhile the Chinaman has Dud Bigby, a drunken ne'er-do-well—in his power and has exacted a promise from him of his daughter Sallie's hand. Sallie has been secretly engaged to a young miner, but as he lives up in the mountains, the girl (Sallie) lives in constant fear of the approaching marriage to the Chinaman. The She Wolf gaining knowledge of this locks the minister in her cabin, and then mounting her horse she rides through the windows of the saloon, with both of her guns loaded in her hands and recues Sallie from the ceremony that the sheriff is performing. See the rest at the STRAND THEATER, Tuesday, tomorrow only, admission only 10 and 20 cents. Also Fatty Arbuckle in the "MISLEADING LADY" a constant roar.

DISTRICT COURT CONVENED IN LAREDO THIS MORNING

JUDGE C. C. THOMAS PRESIDING IN PLACE JUDGE MULLALLY.

Term Will Continue for Eight Weeks, Then Another Eight-Week Term Convenes; Grand Jury Empanelled

District court of the Forty-ninth Judicial District in Webb county was convened at the courthouse in Laredo this morning by District Judge Covey C. Thomas of the Eighty-first Judicial District, sitting in the place of District Judge J. F. Mullally, who is detained in Sinton at the bedside of his daughter, Miss Anita Mullally, who is recovering from a serious illness contracted following the hurricane at Corpus Christi, in which she was one of the storm victims and was washed across Nueces bay a distance of nine miles to the shores of White Point, in San Patricio county, and after her rescue contracted pneumonia.

Judge Thomas several days ago, realizing that Judge Mullally was with his daughter at Sinton, offered to preside over district court here until he was able to come to Laredo and his offer was accepted. The term of court which convened here this morning will last for eight weeks, and immediately upon its adjournment on Saturday eight weeks hence a second term will be convened on the following Monday and last for eight weeks more, making a total of sixteen weeks of district court in this city. It is not believed that there will be much of a criminal docket at this term of the court, and pending the arrival of Judge Mullally from Sinton, Judge Thomas will call several civil cases in which Judge Mullally is disqualified and try them, while he will also set other civil cases.

At this morning's session of the court the following members of the grand jury for the term were empanelled by Judge Thomas, who read his charge to them and they are now at work ferreting out criminal matters directed to their attention by District Attorney John A. Valls:

August C. Richter, foreman; J. E. Applewhite, A. Sait, S. M. Ramsay, Sam Mackin, B. M. Alexander, H. G. Earnest, Jose Barberio, Antonio Valls, W. R. Muter, A. H. Bruni and J. A. Ortiz.

Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or impaired hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is restored to its normal condition of the Eustachian Tube. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the ear.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists. 75c.

THE FESTIVAL OF SUCCOTH WILL BEGIN ON WEDNESDAY

Primarily a Season of Joy, It Will Be Observed By Hebrews Throughout World With Festivities.

Beginning Wednesday evening, October 8, and continuing for eight days, there will be celebrated one of the most distinctive of Jewish festival occasions. It follows close upon the New Year and the Day of Atonement, but presents a striking contrast to the deep solemnity of these holy days, for it is primarily a time of joy.

Succoth, the name by which this annual religious event is commonly known, translated literally, means Feast of Tabernacles, or Booths, referring to the wilderness sojourn of the Israelites after the departure from Egypt, when they had no permanent dwellings, but lived in booths. Historically, however, Succoth has its chief significance as a feast of thanksgiving for the completion of the harvest. In Palestinian times, it was customary for people from all parts of the country to make a pilgrimage to Jerusalem every recurring Succoth, and amid much rejoicing, to offer, in the Temple, sacrifices to God who vouchsafed abundant crops.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The undersigned desires to advise those directly and commercially interested in the fumigation of freight cars from Mexico that the agreement under which W. P. Spivey, at Brownsville, Van E. McFarland, at Eagle Pass, and Dr. H. C. Hall at Laredo, for two years carried out the fumigation of cars under the supervision of the U. S. Federal Horticultural Board, was terminated on October 1st, 1919, when the plants of the Department of Agriculture were specially erected, equipped and ready for operation.

This will also serve to convey my compliments to a certain element in the community, which have been the least interested, but the most concerned in keeping misinformed.

Dr. H. C. HALL,

QUARTET OF NEW MOVIES IN PROSPECT FOR LAREDO

Expected That Work of Construction on Four New Motion Picture Shows Will Start in Short Order.

It is probable that within a very short time now, if all present plans materialize, that Laredo will have four new motion picture shows in course of construction—those of H. P. Valdez & Sons, owners of the Royal Opera House; of William Epstein, of the Strand Theater; of L. R. Ortiz and Messrs. Lattig, Earnest and Russell, the latter building under a lease contract.

With the two motion picture shows already here, the Royal and the Strand, this will give Laredo an even half dozen "movie shows," which means that there will be keen competition in that line and Laredo will get the best that there is in motion pictures, although it will be hard to beat the present service given by the two movie shows already in operation here.

REMAINS ARRIVE TOMORROW AND FUNERAL WILL BE HELD

Remains of Mrs. George Brannan Arrive Tomorrow Morning From Philadelphia; Funeral at 10 A. M.

The remains of Mrs. George Brannan, who died in Philadelphia last week, will arrive in Laredo tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock and the funeral will take place at 10 o'clock from the Brannan residence on Salinas Avenue to San Agustin church, with interment in the Catholic cemetery.

The grief-stricken husband, who was with his wife when she passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital in Philadelphia, will accompany the remains to Laredo.

PROMINENT RAILROAD MEN SPENT SATURDAY IN LAREDO

Thornwell Fay, Assistant to Receiver, and A. G. Whittington, General Manager I. & G. N. Were Here.

Two of the most prominent railroad officials of the state spent last Saturday in Laredo, arriving here Saturday morning and spending the day here as the guests of J. B. DuCamara of the I. & G. N. Co. here, and leaving Saturday night on their return to their headquarters in Houston.

The two officials were Thornwell Fay, assistant to the receiver of the I. & G. N. Ry. Co., and A. G. Whittington, general manager of the I. & G. N. Ry. Co., both having headquarters in Houston. There was no special significance attached to the visit to Laredo, the officials merely "dropping in" to spend the day with the representative of their company here.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS.

OCTOBER 6.
Charles S. Barrett, who is to represent the farmers in the national industrial conference called by President Wilson to meet in Washington today to discuss relations between labor and industry, is president of the National Farmers' Union, an organization especially strong in the South, which is not to be confounded with the more radical organizations in the Northwest and West. Mr. Barrett is a Georgian, who, for the first part of his life, was a general farmer and school teacher. Impressed with the need of unity among the farmers of the South, he set about building up an organization that in the course of time came to have much influence in Georgia, and later spread to other parts of the country. Mr. Barrett has served on several important Federal commissions and has represented the United States at agricultural and other conferences abroad.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION.

THE STATE OF TEXAS.

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Webb County,--Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon A. C. Markley by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in any newspaper published in the 49th Judicial District; but if there be no newspaper published in said Judicial District, then in a newspaper published in the nearest District to said 49th Judicial District, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Webb County, to be holden at the Court House thereof, in Laredo, on the First Monday in December, A. D. 1919, the same being the First day of December, A. D. 1919, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on 3rd day of October, A. D. 1919, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court No. 5129, wherein The Milmo National Bank is plaintiff, and A. C. Markley is defendant, said petition alleging in substance that on or about May 25th, 1917, the defendant for value received executed and delivered to plaintiff one certain promissory note payable at Laredo, Texas, 90 days after said date for the principal sum of $4,500.00 with interest at the rate of 10 per cent per annum after maturity and providing for 10 per cent additional as attorney's fees in case the same is sued upon, which note the plaintiff is the legal and equitable holder and owner thereof.

That by the execution and delivery of said note the defendant promised and became bound to pay unto plaintiff at Laredo, Texas, on Aug. 26, 1917, the sums of money therein stipulated.

That though often requested the defendant has wholly failed and refused to pay the same or any part thereof and said note has been placed in the hands of attorneys for collection and suit brought thereon by reason of which the defendant is liable to plaintiff for all principal, interest and attorney's fees provided in said note, all of which he has failed and refused to pay to plaintiff's damage in the sum of $6,500.00.

That the defendant is the owner of a full undivided one-third interest in and to the following described tracts of land together with the improvements thereon, which are situated in Webb County, Texas, and particularly described by metes and bounds as follows, to-wit:

One and one-half (1½) acres of land known as Survey No. 2215, patented to A. C. Markley on Dec. 8, 1890, by Patent No. 44, Vol. 11, and Fifty-nine (59) acres of land more or less out of Survey No. 1238, patented to Estanislado Garza, Dec. 16, 1885, by Patent No. 595, Vol. 17, being that part of said tract conveyed by Estanislado Garza and wife to A. C. Markley by deed dated March 22, 1887; and

Fifty-seven (57) acres of land more or less conveyed by the City of Laredo to Eugenio Garza on Sept. 14, 1870; and

Said three tracts of land being more particularly and inclusively described as follows:

Beginning at a stone mound which formerly marked the northwest corner of the Laredo Town Tract on the east bank of the Rio Grande River; thence north 68 degrees, east 750 varas to stone marking the northwest corner of the land of the heirs of W. H. Kenner; thence south along the west boundary of said tract of Kenner heirs to a stone on the north line of the Elidos of the City of Laredo marking the southwest corner of said tract of Kenner heirs 510 varas; then west along the north boundary of said City to a stone mound marking the northeast corner of survey deeded by corporation of said City to Eugenio Garza on Sept. 14, 1870; thence south 19 degrees and 30 minutes west to southeast corner of said Eugenio Garza survey 653 varas, thence W. 515 varas to stone on east bank of the Rio Grande River; thence north 1 degree and 35 minutes, east 556 varas with the meanders of the river to the place of beginning containing one hundred seventeen and one-half (117½) acres of land more or less, which is described in Deed Records of Webb County, Texas, Vol. 68, page 307.

That the defendant is justly indebted at the time of filing suit in the sum of $5,988.12; that the defendant is not a resident of Texas; that a writ of attachment is issued and levied on the defendant's one-third undivided interest in the above described property as his property and that such attachment is not sued out for the purpose of injuring or harassing the defendant; that plaintiff will probably lose its debt unless such attachment is issued.

Said petition is duly sworn to and filed as the original petition and affidavit for attachment and prays for writ of attachment to issue and be levied as above described property, for citation by publication, for judgment for its debt, principal, interest and attorney's fees, for foreclosure of the attachment lien and order of sale and application of the proceeds thereof to costs of the proceedings and satisfaction of the judgment, the surplus, if any, paid to the defendant, for writ of possession to the purchaser at said sale, for costs of suit and for general relief.

Herein fail not, but have before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Witness: C. M. de la Garza, Clerk of the District Court of Webb County. Given under my hand and the Seal of said Court, at office in Laredo, Texas, this 4th day of October, A. D. 1919.

C. M. de la GARZA,
Clerk, District Court, Webb County.

Can Now Eat and Sleep in Comfort.
If troubled with indigestion or sleeplessness you should read what Miss Agnes Turner, Chicago, Ill., has to say: "Overwork, irregular meals and carelessness regarding the ordinary rules of health, gradually undermined it until last fall I became a wreck of my former self. I suffered from continual headaches, was unable to digest food, which seemed to lay as a dead weight on my stomach. I was very constipated and my complexion became dark, yellow and muddy as I felt. Sleeplessness was added to my misery, and I would awake as tired as when I went to sleep. I heard of Chamberlain's Tablets and found such relief after taking them that I kept up the treatment for nearly two months. They cleansed my stomach, invigorated my system, and since that time I can eat and sleep in comfort. I am today entirely well."

INCONSISTENCY.

It is noted that the very men who are quoting Washington's immortal declaration with regard to entangling foreign alliances, and who do not see any reason why we should mix up in European politics, are the ones who are insisting that the Shantung decision was wicked and demanding that we approach the brink of a rupture with Japan by insisting that the Shantung peninsula be restored to China.

It seems to us that we have no greater interests—if indeed as great—in China than we have in Europe. We are bound by ties of kindred blood to most of the European nations, while the percentage of Americans of Japanese or Chinese origin is absolutely negligible.

It is true that we enjoyed a certain amount of trade with China, and that certain astute manufacturers and merchants hope to increase that trade enormously within the coming years. But we also have a great trade with Japan, and it is this the country that is to enter into our consideration. That is to enter into our consideration, we have more actual profit out of Japan than we have out of China.

But the strongest argument, and one which should appeal to all Americans, is that our future strength is to come from association, if not alliance, with the white races of the earth, and not from any connection with the Mongolian races.

Already we have seen the pernicious effects of compromising with the yellow races in the present situation in Hawaii, where the Japanese and their half-caste children greatly outnumber—and consequently out-vote—the white race, and soon will outnumber the native population of Hawaii.

Wherever the Mongolian mixes his blood with that of another race, with the possible exception of the Caucasian, the Mongolian predominates in the descendants. This has been noted in the Philippines, where, had it not been for a stricter exclusion under Spanish rule than we have ever enforced at home, the Chinese would soon have dominated the entire archipelago.

Students prophesy that the next great war will be between the yellow race and the white. This may be, for the teeming millions of China and Japan, with their enormous birth rate and their great natural increase in spite of their lack of all sanitary laws, will soon have to seek an outlet for their surplus population.

When that time comes, it will be better for us to have an alliance, or at least an association, with the European powers which will enable us to face the invasion of the Mongolians with some hope of repelling it.

Our interests are certainly more bound up with those of Europe than with those of the Orient. A common origin, similar customs, a similar religion based on the Christian faith—all point to mutual interests which cannot be even understood by the races across the Pacific.

The differences between the various races of Europe and our own, with the possible exception of the Russo-Mongolians, are so slight that they could be overcome in a single generation, and are done away with by each succeeding generation of immigrants to our shores.

The Chinese or Japanese never ceases to be a Mongolian, in thought and deed. His religious ideas are contrary to anything which our creeds teach. His ethics are so different from ours that we can hardly believe he is of the same human race. His ideals are repugnant to every inherited trait of ours and of our near kin, the European nations, and there is so little in common between us that it is no wonder our legislatures have passed laws restricting the immigration of the Mongolians.

If we are to overthrow the principle of aloofness from all other nations, then let us at least make an alliance with those whom we recognize of kindred blood, of similar customs and of a common belief.

We would be better off were all the world—except the Mongolian nations—allied with us in the league of nations. And if we must form alliances, let them be with people we can meet on common ground.

THE REED "OUTRAGE."

The recent attack on Senator Reed of Missouri in an Oklahoma town where he insisted upon speaking after the majority of the citizens had indicated their unwillingness to listen to him is deplorable insofar as it demonstrates lawlessness on the part of the citizens, but it cannot be urged by Mr. Reed that it was uncalled-for.

In the first place, the Oklahoma people do not like Senator Reed's attitude toward the leader of the party which elected the Missouri senator. They feel that it is disloyal, not only to the president, but to the party, for any Democrat to oppose himself to an administration measure, especially as his record has been one of opposition.

In the second place, the people of Oklahoma are in favor of the league of nations, and they do not care to hear any attacks upon it. They told Mr. Reed that he was not wanted in Ardmore, and in spite of that warning he insisted upon coming and telling the people of that city what they did not want to hear.

The people of Oklahoma, as well as those of several other states, remember Mr. Reed's attitude toward the declaration of war against Germany. They also remember his attitude in the matter of German propaganda, and they have little belief in his honesty of purpose in his present opposition to the league of nations.

At an earlier date Mr. Reed would have met a worse reception from the people of Oklahoma. There was a time when the citizens of that state would have used other ammunition than rotten eggs, and they might have spoiled an otherwise perfectly good senator had he persisted in addressing them when they did not want to listen.

While it is not dignified, while it is even lawless to drive a man from the platform by bombarding him with molodorous missiles, we cannot see that Mr. Reed is entitled to any sympathy in the premises. He brought his punishment upon himself, and he cannot justly complain.

At first sight it would appear that the people of Ardmore were actuated by the same mob spirit that is so evident in other parts of the country to drive the Ardmoreites did not attempt to lynch Senator Reed. Indeed, they showed him a consideration which is surprising in the circumstances. And they did not go out and shoot up the town, or burn anything that belonged to someone else. They were even good-natured in their riot.

It should be understood by some of these apostles of opposition to everything under the sun that the average person does not want to hear them. Not all are as determined as the people of Ardmore, but a great many wish they had the pluck to do what they would like to but are restrained from doing because of their law-abiding nature.

Popular sentiment in most parts of the country is in favor of the league of nations, and even where it is not distinctly in favor, it is not determined in opposition to it.

The people are sick and tired of the country is in favor of the league of nations, and even where it is not distinctly in favor, it is not determined in opposition to it.

The people are sick and tired of the long-drawn-out talking over the treaty and the league covenant. They want other things settled; things which more closely affect them than the peace treaty; things which are costing them every cent they earn, with their wages always a lap or two behind the cost of living.

Hence, when Senator Johnson and Senator Reed and others waste the time for which they are paid out of the public treasury in going up and down in the world, like an uneasy conscience, telling the people what is wrong, but never suggesting the remotest idea of a remedy for it, the natural thing for the people to do is to resent it.

Perhaps the medicine given Senator Reed in Oklahoma will not effect a cure. But it should convince him of one thing, and that is that the people have a right to say who shall talk to them and who shall hold his peace. And sometimes the quickest way out is to do something and then apologize for it afterward.

REMAINS REACHED LAREDO FUNERAL THIS AFTERNOON

Body of Mrs. George Brannan, Who Died in Philadelphia, Reached Here on the Morning Train.

The remains of Mrs. George Brannan, who died at St. Joseph's Hospital in Philadelphia last week, reached Laredo on the train arriving here this morning, being accompanied by the grief-stricken husband, George Brannan.

The funeral did not take place this morning, as was announced in yesterday's Times, but takes place from the home, corner of Salinas Avenue and Hidalgo Street, this afternoon at 5 o'clock to San Agustin church, with interment in the Catholic cemetery.

CAPTAIN LEGETTE TARVER IS VISITING HIS OLD HOME

Recently Attached to Headquarters American Committee to Negotiate Peace.

Captain LeGette Tarver, a well-known Laredo young man, who saw service in the American army with the Texas boys during the Mexican border troubles and then joined the 141st Infantry and went to France with the 36th Division, returning to New York on September 19 as a member of the American Committee to Negotiate Peace, is among the visitors in the city, visiting his sister, Miss Kate Tarver, principal of the Laredo High School, and brother, E. Rex Tarver.

Captain Tarver has been in the army service now for more than three and a half years, and most of that time he was with the Texas boys, but recently he has been attached to the headquarters of the American Committee to Negotiate Peace and has been stationed in Paris, France. From Laredo Captain Tarver will go to Camp Pike, Ark., where he will receive his discharge from the army and will engage in some business, the nature of which he has not as yet decided, but he will probably become associated with his brother, Bee Tarver, in the auto business in El Paso.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS.

- OCTOBER 7. Commander John H. Towers, the United States naval officer who successfully managed the trans-Atlantic air flight in the early part of this year, is to visit Rome, Ga., today to receive a medal of honor commemorative of his achievement from the citizens of his "old home town." It was in the Georgia city that Commander Towers first saw the light of day 35 years ago. He entered the Naval Academy in 1902 and after his graduation saw service on various warships. He was one of the first naval officers assigned to the aviation section. Soon after the commencement of the European war he went to London as assistant to the American naval attaché. Upon his return to Washington he participated in the selection of aviation stations for the United States Navy and won his commission as commander. In the early part of this year he was designated to develop the plans for the famous trans-Atlantic flight.

TEXAS FARMER NOW TELLS OF DAUGHTER'S RECOVERY

SHE COULD NOT EVEN RAISE UP IN HER BED.

Since Taking Tanlac Hastings Says She is Like Different Person—Is Now Well.

"My daughter's recovery through the use of Tanlac was so wonderful that I can't help rejoicing over it," said J. C. Hastings, a well-known farmer living at Allie, Texas.

"For two years," he continued, "she was sick with stomach trouble and neuralgia and her sufferings were something awful. Most everything she ate would give her trouble, and many a time she would wake up in the night in so much distress that she couldn't speak or even raise herself up in bed. By morning she would be so weak and worn out that she would be hardly able to get up at all. In fact she had to spend most of her time in bed and was forced to give up her housework, and I was afraid she would never get well.

"I read in the papers about a friend of mine who had been relieved by taking Tanlac, so I got the medicine for my daughter and now she is like a different person. Instead of lying in bed weak and miserable, she is the first one up in the mornings and is now well and strong enough to take up her housework again. She never complains of suffering like she did before, and from the way Tanlac has built her up I have so much faith in it that I never expect to be without it in the house."

SHOWERS HELPING FARMERS AT THIS SEASON OF THE YEAR

With the Cotton Crop Off Land They Are Planting Onion Seed and Land Resting Before Transplanting.

With the cotton crop in the country around Laredo about all picked and in readiness to be ginned or sold, and with copious showers falling at this season, they may be taken as a harbinger of a most propitious fall and winter for onion and diversified truck growers, as many farmers are at this time putting in a certain acreage to the growing of a variety of vegetation that will be on the market the early part of December, while others who are planting or have already planted their onion seed in seedbeds, will find the moisture of inestimable good.

Last season the farmers in the country contiguous to Laredo devoted a good acreage to the growing of diversified crops while waiting for their young onions to attain that stage where the transplanting process was in order, and then also they planted a small acreage in vegetables that matured in the early spring before the Bermuda onion crop was ready for harvesting and shipping. Following the shipping of the onions came the planting of cotton, so it will be seen that some farmers in the vicinity of Laredo have gotten away from the old one-crop idea and are resorting to diversification and finding the plan not only practicable but profitable.

BRACE UP!

Do you feel old before your time? Is your back bent and stiff? Do you suffer urinary disorders? Don't despair—profit by Laredo experiences. Laredo people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's a Laredo resident's statement.

A. F. Ferris, Victoria St., says: "I highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, for they are a fine kidney remedy. I was taken with a terrible backache some years ago, and when I stooped over, it was a task for me to raise up again. I felt tired and worn out and had no ambition to do anything. My kidneys acted irregularly and the secretions were scanty and highly colored. The use of two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills cured me."

CONSTIPATION

And Sour Stomach Caused This Lady Much Suffering. Black-Draught Relieved.

Meadersville, Ky.—Mrs. Pearl Patrick, of this place, writes: "I was very constipated. I had sour stomach and was so uncomfortable. I went to the doctor. He gave me some pills. They weakened me and seemed to tear up my digestion. They would gripe me and afterwards it seemed I was more constipated than before. I heard of Black-Draught and decided to try it. I found it just what I needed. It was an easy laxative, and not bad to swallow. My digestion soon improved. I got well of the sour stomach, my bowels soon seemed normal, no more griping, and I would take a dose now and then, and was in good shape."

I cannot say too much for Black-Draught for it is the finest laxative one can use." Thedford's Black-Draught has for many years been found of great value in the treatment of stomach, liver and bowel troubles. Easy to take, gentle and reliable in its action, leaving no bad after-effects, it has won the praise of thousands of people who have used it. NC-125

RETURN SIX INDICTMENTS INTO COURT THIS MORNING

Three of the Bills Were For Violation of the Liquor Laws; Civil Docket Being Set For the Term.

The grand jury which was empanelled yesterday morning by Judge Thomas following the convening of the regular term of the district court here, this morning turned in the following six bills of indictment:

Guillermo Diaz y Rosas, passing a forged instrument.

Felipe Herrera, aggravated assault. Porfirio Miranda and Jose Ortiz, burglary.

Cayetano Sandoval, violation of the liquor laws.

Juan Amaya, violation of the liquor laws.

Guadalupe Rendon, violation of the liquor laws.

The grand jury resumed their work after turning in this first batch of bills and will probably return additional indictments tomorrow morning before resuming their work for the day. So far the only business transacted in district court has been the granting of a divorce and the setting of the civil docket.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS.

OCTOBER 8.

When the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church meets in triennial session in Detroit today, the dominant figure in its "upper house," or the house of bishops, will be that of Daniel Sylvester Tuttle, who has been since 1902 the presiding bishop of the denomination in the United States. The office of presiding bishop in this church is in a large measure an honorary one. It carries with it some administrative functions, but is principally a mark of seniority of Episcopal bishops now living. Bishop Tuttle was the earliest consecrated, his episcopacy dating from 1867, when he was chosen missionary bishop of Montana, with jurisdiction in Idaho and Utah. In 1881 he dropped Montana and became bishop of Utah, and five years later he was appointed to his present office as bishop of Missouri.

CHEATING AT LOVE.

30 AIRPLANES IN TRANSCONTINENTAL RACE.

New York, Oct. 8.—At the Mineola aviation field a hundred and more birdmen and mechanicians were busy today trying out their machines and seeing that every part of their engines were in perfect working condition in readiness for the start of the transcontinental race tomorrow morning. The start is timed for 9 a. m., when 57 fast airplanes will soar into air for the beginning of the 2,700-mile race across the continent. At the same hour 23 similar machines will rise at San Francisco and start on a transcontinental flight eastward, with Mineola as their objective point. The race of the eighty airplanes from ocean to ocean will be without precedent in the history of aviation. Each of the machines entered is of the fastest type, capable of maintaining an average speed of 100 miles or more an hour.

An international aspect has been given the race by the entry of machines officially representing the British and French Air Services. The rules of the race will be the same as those which governed the New York-Toronto contest. They include compulsory stops of 30 minutes at each of the control stations, where a thorough inspection of each machine will be made.

The race is expected to prove the greatest reliability test of modern machines ever made. Data will be compiled from the various performances, and the pilots will keep log books. All of this material is expected to be of great service, and may result in the development of the ideal military machine, according to army officers.

GOETHE'S LEAGUE.

Had Goethe's conception of German unity, sketched roughly at Weimar in 1828, found a lodgment in Bismarckian brains, history might have been written a different chapter, and no national assembly would have been necessary today.

For Goethe's idea was that Berlin and Vienna, as exclusive centers of influence, formed a peril to culture. He would have had freedom to move at will through the 36 states without having his traveling chest opened. Dollars and Groschen should be of equal value everywhere. There should be no frontiers and no talk of inland and outland among the German states. His idea, in short, was that of a Germanic league of nations, "one in love." Good high-roads and railroads—then a thing of the future—he put in the front place as empire-making material. The mailed fist does not mention.—London Chronicle.

The first patent granted to a woman in the United States went to Mary Kies, who devised a process for silk and straw weaving. Six years later came the second, to Mary Brush, for improving a corset.

United States Seal 136 Years Old.

The great seal of the United States was adopted by congress 136 years ago. The design was suggested by Sir John Prentiss, an eminent English antiquary, to John Adams, then United States minister to Great Britain, and was formally accepted by congress on June 20, 1782. It is composed of a spread eagle, bearing on its breast an escutcheon with 13 stripes, and in its talons holding an olive branch and 13 arrows, symbolic of both peace and war. The eagle, the suggestion of an Englishman, has ever since been the national bird of the United States.

AN APPRECIATION.

Ft. McIntosh, Laredo, Texas,
October 7, 1919.

To The Editor:—
In times of public disaster, such as happened at Corpus Christi last month, there are many workers upon whom the stricken population, as well as the outside public rely for many absolute necessities.

Their work seldom receives the thanks and commendation it deserves. I have reference to railroad employees, particularly engineers and firemen, telegraph operators, and express company workers.

It is up to the railroad man to keep open his lines of communication if possible and all kinds of hardships are experienced in this regard; take for instance the engineer and fireman, a bridge over a swollen river is considered, we will say, safe; as a measure of precaution the passengers walk over it, then the engine is slowly moved onto it; did you ever think what would happen if some of the supports had been undermined by water? The engineer and fireman would certainly be "out of luck," they take the chances for your safety.

While the work of the conductors, operators, freight handlers and repair gangs of a railroad is not so spectacular as some other forms of service, a public disaster entails an immense amount of extra and arduous work for which they seldom receive the credit that is their due.

The work of the telegraphic force is always more or less of a nervous strain and in time of emergency is apt to be nothing less than nerve-shattering. One has only to watch for a moment the employees, from manager to messenger boy, about the second day after a disaster has occurred, to realize that they are worn out, but it is seldom the public will take this into account when making their demands known.

A word about the express company employees; mix-ups in freight, delays and losses are bound to occur, it's work night and day for everyone and all the thanks they get are usually kicks about conditions they are not in any way responsible for.

On behalf of the Red Cross I wish to express sincere appreciation for the efforts and hard work of all those in the various branches of public service who were instrumental in helping to relieve suffering at Corpus Christi.

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 8.—A transportation committee of five, assisted by two inspectors, has been created by the federal railroad administration here to clear traffic congestion. Similar committees will be named for other Texas and Oklahoma cities.

SALLEE IS DRIVEN FROM BOX BY SOX

LUQUE TOOK HIS PLACE, BUT THE WHITE SOX ANNEXED THEIR THIRD VICTORY OF THE SERIES.

Redfield Park, Cincinnati, Oct. 8.—With another great crowd assembled to witness the seventh game of the world's championship baseball series, between the Cincinnati Reds and the Chicago White Sox, beautiful weather prevailed this afternoon and Cincinnati fans felt confident that Manager Moran of the Reds would do his best to make the Reds win and hang the world's championship pennant from the clubhouse in Redfield Park. The batteries announced for the seventh game, four of which have been won by Cincinnati and two by Chicago, consisted of Cicotte and Schalk for Chicago and Sallee and Wingo for Cincinnati. Cicotte is pitching his third game of the series, hoping to redeem his lost laurels of the other two games in which he lost.

The first five innings for both teams were played quickly and went scoreless, but in the sixth round Chicago broke the goose-egg monotony and landed on Sallee in a most vicious manner, sending his offerings to all portions of the field and bringing four runners across the home plate. All that Cincinnati could do in her half of the sixth was to annex a single tally, the sixth round ending four to one in favor of the Chicago White Sox.

Manager Moran berthed Sallee in the seventh, putting Luque in his place and in the seventh and eighth rounds Chicago could do nothing with Luque, while Cincy was unable to bring a runner across the plate in those innings. In her half of the ninth Chicago worked hard to increase her score, but nothing doing. Cincinnati came up for her final try to overcome the score of Chicago, but Cicotte had tightened down to the greatest pitching of his life and held the Reds scoreless, ending the game 4 to 1 in favor of Chicago. The summary follows:

Team. 123 456 789—R. H. E.
Chicago 000 004 000—4 10 1
Cincinnati 000 001 000—1 7 4

Batteries: Cicotte and Schalk; Sallee, Luque and Wingo.

Attendance at game, estimated at 20,000.

DECLINED TO SERVE.

By Associated Press.
Spokane, Wash., Oct. 8.—Mayor C. M. Fassett declined to serve on the reception committee to greet Senator Hiram Johnson of California here tomorrow. Mr. Fassett stated that he was entirely out of accord with the senator's views on the treaty and the league of nations.

DOWN UPON HIM.

Two buddies ran across each other while on duty. The night was very dark. "What's that you have?" inquired Sam. "A searchlight," replied Pete. "What are you looking for?" "Morning," he said. "Stick around awhile and it'll dawn upon you," suggested Sam, and they parted.—The American Legion.

London, Oct. 8.—During a speech at the Mansion House yesterday Lloyd George made the interesting revelation that he left the peace conference in February expressly because he foresaw the coming labor difficulties. The government then started an organization which was purely civilian under the chairmanship of the home secretary in preparation for the possible necessity of assuring the country's food supply. The nation means to be master in her own house, the premier declared.

Executed 200 Persons.

Washington, Oct. 8.—State department advices today said 200 persons were reported executed by the Bolsheviks as the result of the action of a Bolshevik extraordinary commission in Moscow investigating the surrender of Grasnla-Gorka by Bolshevik troops.

Lenine Under Arrest.

London, Oct. 8.—Helsingfors advices report that Nikolai Lenine, the Russian Bolshevik premier, has been placed under arrest in Moscow. Lenine is said to have ordered the arrest of Leon Trotsky, the soviet war minister, but failed to secure this and instead was himself taken into custody.

A PROPER ACT.

The mayor of Spokane, Washington, C. M. Fassett, has declined to serve on the reception committee which was to greet Senator Hiram Johnson on his arrival in that city today. He explained that it was because he was "entirely out of accord with the senator's views on the treaty and the league of nations."

At first sight it may appear as a discourteous act for the mayor of a city to refuse to act on a committee of reception to a noted man who is to be in a certain sense the city's guest. But in reality it is the straight-forward act of an honest man, one who would not stultify himself by appearing to agree with an opponent, and one who sees no reason why he should help to greet a man who is supporting views which he believes are disadvantageous to his country.

Senator Johnson's only claim to be heard in opposition to the treaty and the league of nations is the fact that he is a Republican senator from California, and the administration is Democratic. He is not representing his state while he is touring the country.

His opposition to the treaty and the league of nations is based upon partisanship, not upon statesmanship. He has never demonstrated possession of statesmanlike qualities, and his success has depended upon the fact that he is a shrewd politician, rather than upon any demonstration of ability.

In a certain sense he is the spokesman of his party—that is, the faction which now holds office in Washington—and with Senator Borah, his colleague from Idaho, he is busily engaged in an attempt to make political capital for the party in the coming national campaign.

Mayor Fassett is a Republican, no doubt, as his city has usually been of that political tincture, and as such might be expected by the strictly party men to further this attempt to steal the public confidence. But he is evidently more of an American than a partisan, and he does not propose to have the prestige of his office used by Senator Johnson or any other party boss to reflect credit upon a discredited act.

Mayor Fassett deserves the commendation of every American citizen. He does not hesitate to say what he thinks, and he gives his honest statement to the public to the effect that he is entirely out of accord with the opponents of the treaty and the league of nations.

There are many in higher positions than Mayor Fassett who have not been so outspoken. They have their reasons for concealing their real views until they see which way the cat is going to jump.

Mr. Johnson has been a trimmer all his life. He left the Republican party to align himself with Mr. Roosevelt when the Progressive party was born. For that he was chosen as the training partner of the doughy colonel, and he was defeated, although in his own state he rolled up quite a vote for the Progressive ticket.

He has been on both sides of many a question, and sometimes it will be noted that a man cannot be on both sides of the fence without suffering a disarrangement of his attire—at least if he tries to be on both sides of the fence at one and the same time.

The people of Spokane will recognize the right of their mayor to refuse to be one of the reception committee, especially as he has publicly given his reasons for refusing. And they will respect him all the more for his outspoken refusal, no matter how they may feel toward Mr. Johnson's attitude on the treaty question.

There is not any present likelihood that Mr. Johnson will be greeted in Spokane as Senator Reed was in Ardmore. Although there have been many turbulent scenes in Spokane, they were mostly staged by the very people who would gladly listen to Senator Johnson's views, as they agree with anything that is subversive of peace and progress.

LABOR, CAPITAL AND PUBLIC.

The attempt at getting all three parties to the present cost of living problem together is a new version of "the eternal triangle." And it differs from a triangle in one respect—in a triangle two of the sides will come together, while in the present situation all three sides seem to be getting further apart the more the lines are extended.

Capital and labor are producers; the public is the consumer. It ought not to be difficult to so arrange matters that producer would get what is coming to him and consumer would not have to pay too much for what he gets.

Of course, labor wants an entirely new deal by which he will get the lion's share of the returns on what he produces. The more radical of the laborers want capital abolished so that they will get all that is paid for their production, less the cost of the raw material. And at present the radicals seem to have the saddle. It all rests with the consumer. For if the price continues to be abnormally high, the result will be less consumption and finally a discovery that there is something else "just as good."

While labor is talking of the wickedness of capital in demanding a share of the returns, the people are paying for it all, and they are beginning to find out that no matter what the medium of exchange, after all barter and sale is merely an exchange of commodities.

Everyone has to work. Even the downtrodden capitalist has to do something to earn his dividends, and as to the consumer, each one helps to produce something by which he earns the money to buy something else.

In the recent conference at Washington, it was declared by one of the speakers that the three groups—labor, capital and public—could none of them claim to be independent; that they were interdependent, inasmuch as without any one of the three the other two would fail.

It is not true that the interests of labor and capital are the same, but it is true that labor depends upon capital, just as capital depends upon labor. One is as important as the other, and if all capital were to be abolished and the proceeds turned over to labor to be used in production, it would not be a month before there would again be capital to aid in production of everything we need.

The most independent business in the world is that of the farmer, and yet the farmer is dependent upon capital, labor and consumer. The farmer has a different labor problem to solve from that of the factory, and for that reason it has not always been easy to secure the backing of the farmer for either side to our controversies.

The eight-hour day, the steady production of the smallest number of units, the high wage scales and other problems of labor and capital, are things which do not enter into the farmer's calculations. He cannot have an eight-hour day in harvest time; his employees must produce all they can when the rush is on, without any question of overtime, and wages that would not content a day laborer in a steel mill must necessarily be more than the average farmer can afford to pay.

For the farmer, above all other producers, is absolutely dependent upon the consumer. And his produce must find a ready market at a fair price or he is a loser. Most of the farmer's products must be disposed of at once, or he is a total loss.

Hence the farmer feels that he is an outsider—one of the public, in fact—in all the labor conferences as to working conditions and wages. Yet no one could call the farmer one of the capitalist class, for as a rule his land and buildings are all he owns, and sometimes he has hard work to keep them free from mortgage.

At the same time, the farmer works harder than any of the organized labor class, and there is more at stake in his daily struggle than there is in the work of the laborers in other lines, for upon the farmer depends the raw material, as well as the food supply, of the nation.

Can Now Eat and Sleep in Comfort.

It troubled with indigestion or sleeplessness you should read what Miss Agnes Turner, Chicago, Ill., has to say: "Overwork, irregular meals and carelessness regarding the ordinary rules of health, gradually undermined it until last fall I became a wreck of my former self. I suffered from continual headaches, was unable to digest food, which seemed to lay as a dead weight on my stomach, I was very constipated and my complexion became dark, yellow and muddy as I felt. Sleeplessness was added to my misery, and I would awake as tired as when I went to sleep. I heard of Chamberlain's Tablets and found such relief after taking them that I kept up the treatment for nearly two months. They cleansed my stomach, invigorated my system, and since that time I can eat and sleep in comfort. I am today entirely well."

GRAND JURY STILL WORKING AND RETURN INDICTMENTS

With the Five Bills Brought in This Morning a Total of Nineteen Bills Have Been Turned Into Court.

The grand jury in the district court here, which has been in session for the past four days, is still at work investigating matters directed to their attention by District Attorney Valls, and up to this time have returned a total of nineteen bills of indictment, the last five being returned this morning and being the following:

John Oeffinger, violation of the liquor law.
Tomas Herrera, theft under $50.
Tomas Mesa, aggravated assault.
Daniel Estrada, seduction.
Genaro Alvarez, bigamy.
Judging from the number of indictments returned so far by the grand jury, and the fact that they resumed their session after turning in the five bills of indictment this morning, the indications are that the criminal docket at this term of the district court will be heavier than was at first expected.

"LOVE CHEAT" SIMPLY GREAT—GREATLY SIMPLE.

Given a story with the heart touch, with a sub plot of high finance; play it with actors of intelligence, under the stage direction of a master hand, and there one finds the germ of box office success. All these attributes apparently are included in "The Love Cheat," which is heralded attraction at the Strand Theatre Saturday.

Albert Capellani makes the production, which is released through the house of Pathe. The cast includes the stars, Creighton Hale and June Caprice, fresh from their success in "Oh, Boy!" another Capellani-Pathe hit; Alfred Hickman, the original Little Billie in "Tribby"; Edward Davis and Charles Coleman. The story is an adaptation by Peggy McCall of a French play which had great vogue in Paris under the title "Le Danseur Inconnu" (The Unknown Dancer).

The story, though running through the entire list of emotions is simply told. A poor young man is cast by a plausible whim of chance at the feet of a millionaire's daughter. What's to be expected? They fall in love. Enter cupid in the person of a business adventurer. He offers to finance the poor young man's courtship—for a selfish reason—and the love-stricken youth falls for the deceit. When he realizes that his pose of mighty man in the business world is unfair to the girl whom he really loves, his better nature wins and he stakes happiness in confession. Sure—he gets her. It would be a poor love story and picture if he didn't. He gets her through revealing his true worth and ability.

A glance at the plot and one knows that player of talent and experience are necessary to assure the success of such a play so free from melodramatic complication—and as to catch the interest of the audience. Such a cast has been furnished by the director.

MEETING AMERICAN LEGION SELECTS LAREDO DELEGATE

Alphonse Siros Left For Dallas This Morning to Represent the Local Post at the State Convention

Laredo Post No. 59, American Legion, held a meeting in the hall of the Elks last night for the purpose of selecting delegates from the local post to attend the State Convention of the American Legion in Texas to convene in Dallas tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Alphonse Siros, who served as a lieutenant in the European war, was elected as special delegate to the state convention and left for Dallas this morning. Anyone else eligible to membership in the American Legion can also attend the convention and be seated if he will confer with Mr. Siros at the Adolphus Hotel in Dallas in time.

Laredo Post No. 59, American Legion, has just been granted its charter, with a membership of sixty-two, but at a meeting to be held at the Elks Club on next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock it is hoped to increase the membership of the local post to 200 members. All those who served during the time that the United States was involved in the European war are eligible to membership, and it is sincerely hoped that every Laredo young man who was in the service will attend the meeting next Thursday night and enroll in the local post.

Wealthy Chinese Has Novel Trip From This Life to Next.

There was a pretty custom among some of the ancients when a prominent citizen died, to send his valet along with him on the road to Paradise, and it was oftentimes necessary to resort to extreme methods to insure this company for the departed. But in the territory of the China-American Trading Company, Ford dealers in Tientsin, China, they have discovered a much better aid to the deceased over the rough places on the trip to the Promised Land. It is a custom of the Chinese to burn various kinds of effigies at the funeral ceremonies of the rich, the more wealthy the departed the more elaborate the figures burned over his grave. These effigies represent every manner of thing such as human figures, horses, sedan chairs, tables loaded with money, etc. The figures usually conform to some of these stereotyped fashions, but at the funeral of a Mr. Li, who died a short time ago in Tientsin, and who was a very wealthy man, the bereaved family outdid themselves and made an imitation of the deceased gentleman's Ford car to be burned at his grave.

This Ford effigy was made entirely of strong Chinese paper stretched on bamboo and reed frames. The car was complete in every detail, the pedals accurately placed, and all made of paper and bamboo. The interior of the car was also accurate in detail, being carefully upholstered in paper. The effigy of the driver as shown in the photograph, was a work of art. The car was carried about three miles through crowded streets to the graveyard where a match was applied and it was consumed in a few minutes.

This is the first time a motor car has been burned at the grave of a Chinese, and there is every reason to believe that the deceased went up "On High."

Corns Come Off Like Banana Peel

"Gets-It" Leaves Toe Smooth As Your Palm. Never Fails.

Ever peel off a banana skin? Well, that's the way "Gets-It" peels off any corn or callus. It's a wonder. Nothing else in the world will do it.

"2 Drops of 'Gets-It,' Good-bye Corns!" but "Gets-It" because of the new secret principle in the "Gets-It" formula. "Gets-It" does away forever with "contraptions," "swraps," "plasters," ointments that rub off, blood-letting knives, and scissors that nip into the "quick." "Gets-It" cures pain. It takes but a second or two to use "Gets-It." There's no fussing or trouble. It dries immediately. You put your stocking right back on again. Your corn will come off painlessly in one complete piece. That's common-sense. It never fails. "Gets-It" the only sure, guaranteed, money-back corn-remover, costs but a trifle at any drug store. Mfd by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill. Sold in Laredo and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by City Drug Co.

JITNEY AND MOTORCYCLE COLLIDE ON THE STREETS

Jitney Turned Over, Breaking Collarbone of J. W. Love and Also Injuring Chauffeur of the Jitney.

Yesterday afternoon as J. W. Love, foreman of the I. & G. N. foundry, was being driven west on Matamoros street in a jitney, a motorcycle from Fort McIntosh with two soldiers aboard, crossed their path at right angles and, striking the jitney, turned it completely over.

Mr. Love's left collarbone was broken and the driver was badly bruised about the hips, being on crutches this morning when he made complaint at the police station. Both their horn was sounded and the car brought almost to a halt, but that the motorcycle was going at such speed that it was impossible to avert the accident.

NORWICH UNIVERSITY CENTEN-NIAL.

Northfield, Vt., Oct. 10.—With many visitors in attendance, including many army and navy officers of high rank, Norwich University, the oldest military college in the country outside of West Point, today began a celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of its founding. Four days are to be devoted to the celebration, which will be concluded next Tuesday with the centennial historical exercises.

The program of this, the opening day was featured by the dedication of the new cavalry stables, followed by cavalry drill, guard mounting and dress parade. Tomorrow will be undergraduates day, featured in the afternoon with a football game and athletic contests. Sunday will be given over to memorial exercises for Norwich men who have given their lives in defense of their country. Founder's Day will be celebrated Monday with a pilgrimage to Norwich, Vt., the original site of the college, where tablets commemorative of the founding will be unveiled.

Norwich University is the only institute in the country designated by the War Department as a unit for training reserve cavalry officers. It was the first scientific and classical collegiate institution in the United States, and as the pioneer engineering school of the country, antedated all others by at least eight years. It was the first to confer the degree of bachelor of science.

Norwich University men have served in all the armed conflicts in which the United States has engaged from the Mexican war down to the world war. In the late conflict with the Central Powers the university enjoyed the distinction of having a greater percentage of her graduates and past graduates in the service than any other American college, 86 per cent, of those in service being commissioned officers.

The national character of the institution is shown by the fact that forty of the alumni served in the Confederate States Army during the civil war. At the time of the St. Albans raid in 1864 the cadets were despatched to the defense of Newport, Vt., where a similar raid was threatened. Short of ammunition, they made their own cartridges and broke up dumb-bells for cannon balls.

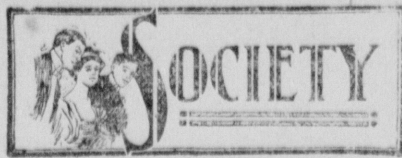

The two most famous of Norwich graduates were Admiral George Dewey, the "hero of Manila Bay," who smashed the Spanish fleet in the East during the war with Spain, and Maj. Gen. Grenville M. Dodge, the famous civil war commander. Other Norwich men who have distinguished themselves in the American military or naval service have included Charles C. Carpenter, who commanded the American Asiatic squadron during the war between China and Japan; Brig. Gen. George P. Buell, the hero of many battlefields in the civil war; Gen. William S. Harney, Maj. Gen. Thomas H. Seymour, who was the first to enter the fortress of Chapultepec, and James E. Almsworth, the eminent civil war engineer.

The university was founded in 1819 by Capt. Allen Partridge, a native of Norwich and a graduate of West Point. He was commissioned as a lieutenant of engineers, showing that he was one of the honor men of his class. He had served as professor of mathematics at West Point, and later as its superintendent. Under his superintendency West Point was enlarged and its scope broadened.

Norwich opened in 1820 with about 100 students. In its second year the roster shows that its students were drawn largely from the South, 190 coming from South Carolina alone. In 1826 a detachment of the cadets marched to West Point and engaged in a competitive drill with the cadets of the United States Military Academy. After a few days at West Point they were taken to New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. At the national capital they were reviewed by President John Quincy Adams, who complimented the commander on their fine military appearance and soldierly bearing.

Can Now Eat and Sleep in Comfort. If troubled with indigestion or sleeplessness you should read what Miss Agnes Turner, Chicago, Ill., has to say: "Overwork, irregular meals and carelessness regarding the ordinary rules of health, gradually undermined it until last fall I became a wreck of my former self. I suffered from continual headaches, was unable to digest food, which seemed to lay as a dead weight on my stomach. I was very constipated and my complexion became dark, yellow and muddy as I felt. Sleeplessness was added to my misery, and I would awake as tired as when I went to sleep. I heard of Chamberlain's Tablets and found such relief after taking them that I kept up the treatment for nearly two months. They cleansed my stomach, invigorated my system, and since that time I can eat and sleep in comfort. I am today entirely well."

The Universal Creed.

If I could write one little word upon the hearts of men, I'd dip into the fount of love, and Write one little word, and only one,
And feel life's work on earth well done;

For every heart would speak to me
That one sweet word—Fraternity.

The angel throng would sing a song,
The sweetest ever heard,
If they could read in human hearts
This precious little word;

For kindly thoughts and deeds
Are better far than crowns and Crowds;

In these the angel throng would see
Children of Eternity.

A man would need no other creed to Guide him o'er life's sea
If he'd embark in the ark of true Fraternity;

For love divine would clasp his hand
And lead him to the promised land;
Love for his fellowman would be
His passport to Eternity.

Villegas-Bodet.

A pretty wedding took place at the International Institute Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock when Miss Lucy Bodet, daughter of Mrs. Edward Bodet, was given in marriage to Mr. Daniel Villegas of Mexico City, Judge Benavides performing the ceremony. The rooms were attractively decorated in trailing vines and white jack-bean blossoms. Mrs. Guardiola gave a number of delightful selections on the piano. Refreshments were served from small tables on the lawn during the evening. About 75 guests were present. Mr. and Mrs. Villegas went to San Antonio on their wedding trip. They will make their future home in Mexico City.

Entertainment.

A pretty hospitality of Wednesday evening was the informal bridge party given by Mr. and Mrs. Ira O'Meara, complimenting a few friends. After the series of games an ice course and cake were served. Those enjoying the pleasure of the occasion were Misses Helen and Kathryn MacGregor, Josephine Sauvignat, Annie French, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Black, Capt. Gilbert, Lieutenants Cleveland, Ratcliffe and Stone.

Married Ladies Social Club.

Mrs. Mabel Cogley Barlow was hostess to the Married Ladies Social Club and a number of guests yesterday afternoon and entertained them very delightfully with a prettily appointed party. The rooms were charmingly arranged and imperial crown lilies, cadena de amor, varicolored roses and ferns were used in decoration. In the series of games of bridge played the club prize, an exquisite luncheon cloth, was won by Mrs. Robt. McComb. The guest prize, a dainty Irish crochet yoke, was awarded to Mrs. H. D. Shelby. Mr. Joe Vidales cut consolation and received a water pitcher of attractive pottery ware. A delicious two-course luncheon followed the games. Those enjoying the gracious hospitality of the afternoon were: Club members—Mesdames Biggio, Christen, Davis, Derby, Fish, Hall, Halsell, Faberich, A. Birthday Party.

Bessie Gregg, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will W. Gregg, was given a delightful birthday party yesterday afternoon, in belated remembrance of her fifth anniversary which occurred September 25th. The rooms and the gallery were trimmed with streamers and festoons of varicolored crepe paper, and a gaily-decked piñata formed the centerpiece on the gallery. The children enjoyed a playtime, after which the piñata was broken by Clemente Villarreal, after several ineffectual attempts had been made by the boys and girls. Hot chocolate, cake, ice cream and candies were served, the honoree having a pretty birthday cake with five lighted tapers as the centerpiece at her table. Those present were: Mrs. C. W. Cook, Mrs. Blasa G. de Guerra, Mrs. Francisca F. de Guerra, Mrs. Elvira M. de Guerra, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Garza, Mr. and Mrs. Fausto Guerrero, Misses Mary Cook, Maria de la Garza, Ninfa Vidaurri, Elenita Leal, Francisca, Isabel and Leoncia Villarreal, Elvira and Ofelia de Lachica, Margarita Guerra; Mr. Luis Cardenas; Little Misses Angelina Casso, Josefina Cardenas, Maria Elena and Anita Casassus, Nena Villarreal, Elena Guerra, Beatriz Salinas; Masters Clemente and Alonzo Villarreal, Ignacio and Raul Guerra and the honoree, Bessie Gregg. Mrs. Gregg was charmingly assisted by Miss Maria de la Garza, Amela de Lachica, Ninfa Vidaurri and Francisca Villarreal.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or in perfect hearing, and when it is entirely clogged, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

CAPITAL OUTLINED THEIR PRINCIPLES

OPPOSE COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AND CLOSED SHOP BUT ACKNOWLEDGE RIGHT TO STRIKE.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Oct. 10.—Opposition to collective bargaining and the closed shop were among the twelve fundamental principles outlined by the group representing capital and presented to the national industrial conference here today. Sympathetic strike, blacklists and boycotts were declared to be indefensible, anti-social and immoral. While deploring strikes and lockouts, the principle maintaining the right of strikes or lockouts should not be denied as a last resort, after all possible means of adjustment were exhausted. This right, however, should apply only to private industry. The conference then adjourned until Tuesday.

From Saturday's Daily.

SCARCITY OF SUGAR.

Not since the sugar rationing rules of the food administration a year ago has there been such a demand for sugar as at present. There is a scarcity of cane sugar—both raw and refined—and the beet sugar of the West has been called upon to fill out the supply and reduce the demand.

Local dealers have found great difficulty in securing enough sugar of any kind to fill their orders, and contracts made last summer for delivery around September 1st have not yet been filled. The enormous stores in some of the army warehouses have been exhausted, and still there is not enough to meet the daily consumption.

The trouble at present is that the raw sugar in Cuba is being held for a higher price, and while there is some cane sugar in the raw being imported, it is nowhere near enough to meet the normal demand.

Meanwhile, there is a considerable demand from Mexico, and this is because of the fact that the country is unable to produce enough sugar to supply its needs. The country is now manufacturing but a small amount, as there is no longer enough sugar cane grown there to supply the demand.

As a result, the individual consumer is finding it difficult to secure enough sugar for home consumption, and in some cases the people have had to do with less than they bought a year ago under the strict rationing system.

The average person does not know the difference between cane and beet sugar, and if enough of the latter could be secured it would answer all practical purposes, but even beet sugar is somewhat short, as the demand from all over the country has swamped the beet sugar mills in the west.

One of the factors that has made difficult the distribution of what sugar is on hand is the congestion of transportation facilities. This, however, is being looked after as thoroughly as possible, and we may soon look for some improvement in the situation.

It seems unjust to the residents in the border section that the people across the line are getting more sugar than we are. This is due partly to the importations through Vera Cruz and other ports, and partly to the fact that the exigencies of commerce demand a free interchange of commodities between the two countries, hence the importers of Mexican goods find it necessary to export what the Mexican exporters demand in return.

Some sugar has gone across the river at this point—not much through local dealers—and the buyers for Mexican houses, especially in the interior, have been able to secure nearly all they wanted in other sections, shipping it direct to Mexican consignees.

It seems like old times to be limited to a small quantity of sugar, although this time the food administration has not set any limit on the amount which can be sold to a consumer. Still, in case there were any appreciable hoarding, we should soon hear of it.

Now the food administration has told the refiners in the East and in the Gulf section that they must not ship any refined sugar to points in the North west of Buffalo and Pittsburgh, and to points in the middle states north and west of the Ohio river.

This rule will hold the sugar refined at Gulf refineries to the section where it is most needed at present. Perhaps there is no section so short of sugar at present as South-west Texas, although there are refineries located at Sugarland and other points on the Texas Gulf coast. But if the sugar cannot be shipped north or west of the Ohio river, this will considerably reduce the field and give us some chance to get what we need.

It should not be long until the Cuban sugar commences to come in. The growers and mills there cannot hold their stocks forever, and when they find that we are determined not to pay more than a just price for the raw sugar, the refineries in our country will get enough to keep them busy, and once more the stream of refined sugar will start running.

THE AIR RACE

There is much speculation as to what good is to come out of the air race across the continent, many holding that the benefits to be derived do not balance the loss of life that occurs.

However, it must be remembered that every advancement in this world of ours has its costs, and that loss of life has occurred from every attempt at mastery of land, water or air. Railway accidents are still somewhat common, although the railway business is no longer in an experimental stage, while steamers and sailing vessels still sink, although man's mastery of the sea began with his first attempt at land locomotion.

Man's mastery of the air is still dependent upon the perfection of a motor, and most of the accidents reported are due to motor stoppage, because as yet we have been unable to make an engine which shall be light enough to serve its purpose and yet strong enough to withstand the terrible concussions of the gas explosions, and the life of an airplane motor is yet uncertain and of short duration.

But such experiments as this air race are adding to man's knowledge of the air, its currents, at times more treacherous than those of the sea, and how best to master it.

Out of the many who started in the great aerial race but a few will succeed, and even one success would greatly aid in showing the world how to navigate the air.

Up to the time of the great war, it was believed that man would have to content himself with the lower strata of the air, and that a mountain range interposed an insuperable obstacle to the aviator. But during the progress of the war aviators ascended to a height of nearly six miles; maneuvered over the Alps and other mountain ranges; flew during heavy winds and faced and conquered obstacles which only the strongest birds have been known to conquer.

The air race across the continent is by no means as difficult as the passage over the Atlantic so recently successfully negotiated. At frequent intervals there are stops where the planes may descend, get fresh supplies of gasoline, oil and water, and give the aviators a needed breathing spell.

And there is no need of flying so high that familiar landmarks are lost. The aviators in the cross-country race are always within sight of some well-marked point by which they may take their bearings.

It may be that the air race will bring to its participants new knowledge which will aid materially in the further conquest of the air. The number of participants makes this more probable. The air currents, the effect of the mountain ranges and the desert upon their flow, the atmospheric clearness or obscurity—all these are being studied during the flight by trained observers.

It must not be considered that the race is merely a flight from one point to another without thought of what lies between. During every minute of flight the pilot is studying his machine and the element in which it is riding, as well as his engine and his recording instruments. The observer is also making his studies and recording their results.

The "logs" of the various planes throughout the trip will be interesting to all who have the remotest interest in the science of aviation. And even from the point of view of adventure they would be interesting reading to the mere layman.

It is not only that a number of airplanes will have made the trip from one ocean to another and return. The aviators will have an opportunity to study the air resistance, the strains of their planes, the working of their engines, and every other factor which enters into flying.

As a result of the race, it will not be long before others are making the trip; some as pilots and others as passengers. And to a man who loves adventure, the trip is not appreciably more dangerous than one in an automobile, and much less so than the crossing by prairie schooner of fifty years ago.

JUDGE MULLALLY RETURNS TO ASSUME PLACE ON BENCH

Judge C. C. Thomas, of the Eighty-first District, Leaves for Cotulla to Open His Court on Monday.

District Judge C. C. Thomas, of the Eighty-first Judicial District, who convened the court of the Forty-ninth Judicial District here last Monday for Judge J. F. Mullally during his absence in Sinton attending the bedside of his daughter, Miss Anita Mullally, left today for Cotulla, where, on next Monday morning he will convene the regular term of district court for LaSalle county.

Judge Mullally, according to advices received from him yesterday, will arrive in Laredo tomorrow on the Texas-Mexican train and assume his duties on the bench Monday morning. Judge Mullally is returning to Laredo alone, having decided to leave Miss Anita Mullally at Sinton for a few days longer, her mother remaining there with her until it is considered safe for her to travel following her recuperation from a recent severe attack of pneumonia contracted following her escape from death in the hurricane that swept Corpus on September 14.

FEDERAL COURT CONVENES ON NOVEMBER 10 IN LAREDO

Court For the Southern District of Texas in Webb County Will Probably Have Light Criminal Docket

The regular November term of the United States District Court for the Southern District of Texas in Webb county will be convened at the federal court room in this city on Monday morning, November 10, by United States District Judge Hutcheson of Houston.

Judging from present indications the term of the court, which lasts for one week, will have a light criminal docket compared to previous terms. Grand and petit jurors to serve for the term will be summoned shortly.

GETTING MUCH TESTIMONY FOR USE OF THE COMMITTEE

CAPT. HANSON SECURING VALUABLE TESTIMONY IN LAREDO

All Violations of Neutrality Laws by Mexican Bandits and Soldiers Since 1910 Will Be Given Airing.

Captain W. M. Hanson, as the representative of the sub-committee of the committee on foreign relations of the United States senate investigating Mexican affairs, who is here securing written evidence to be used before the hearing to be held by the sub-committee composed of Senator Albert B. Fall, chairman; Senator Frank B. Brandegee and Senator Marcus A. Smith, with Dan Jackson as clerk, at San Antonio and Laredo in the near future, is securing much valuable testimony during his several days stay at the Hamilton Hotel in this city.

The matter of the killing of Clemente Vergara and Porfirio Laurel, both American citizens, by Mexican soldiers, the various raids made by Mexican bandits on ranches on the Texas side of the border, fights between American officials and Mexican bandits, the attack on the American army camp at San Ignacio by Mexican bandits or soldiers, the fight with Mexican smugglers in which Immigration Inspector Charles Hopkins and U. S. Public Health Inspector Ira T. Hill were killed, when four Mexican smugglers were also killed, the firing of volley after volley by Carranza soldiers on an American airplane flying over American soil and the wounding of Captain David W. McNabb, and various other infractions of the law by Mexican bandits and soldiers, are all being thoroughly investigated by Captain Hanson and some very incriminating testimony against the Mexicans is being secured through written testimony furnished by reliable witnesses.

The claim made by Mexico that American citizens are welcome to that country and will be afforded every protection while there, and the refusal to grant certain Americans visas of their passports by Mexican consuls, will also be included in the testimony being gathered by Captain Hanson.

ACHES AND PAINS SLOAN'S GETS 'EM!

Famous pain and ache Liniment, kept handy, brings gratifying relief

RHEUMATIC twinges ease up soon. So do stiff joints, lame back, neuralgia, overtaxed muscles, and those pains from weather exposure, too—they don't fight long against the counter-irritant Sloan's Liniment produces.

Keep this old family friend handy for instant use—a little penetrates without rubbing, leaving no skin stains, muck, or clogged pores. You ought to keep a bottle handy always.

SIXTEEN YEAR OLD—EVEN HORN TOOTS.

Ford Bought in 1903 Still Doing Service in Oregon and Washington.

A rear tonneau door, two cylinder touring car manufactured by the Ford Motor Company in 1903,—the year of that company's organization—and in use since that time is still "on the job." It is an eight horse power car, has a seventy eight inch wheel base, a five gallon gas tank and is owned by A. C. McCarthy of Portland, Oregon.

Of course the Ford isn't exactly possessed of the latest lines and it is beginning to wear slightly, but mechanically why even the aged brass horn works. The machine is now being driven on business trips through Oregon and Washington by McCarthy who doesn't expect to be in the market for a new Ford for some years to come since he's kinds got acquainted with the old one.

FUNERAL HELD YESTERDAY AND IS LARGELY ATTENDED

Remains of Mrs. Sam Wharton Laid to Rest in City Cemetery Following Funeral Services at Home.

The funeral of Mrs. Sam Wharton, who died at her home 1618 Juarez Avenue, on Thursday afternoon, took place from the home to the Baptist church yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. A. F. Beddoe, with funeral services at both the church and the grave.

Many beautiful floral tributes were sent to the home during Thursday afternoon and Friday. Interment took place in the Odd Fellows burial plot in the city cemetery and the funeral was largely attended by friends of the family. The following acted as the pallbearers: Fritz Werner, John T. Parker, M. Brennan, W. M. Brennan, Almon Perkins and J. Demink.

LAREDO GETS HEAVY RAIN, WITH THUNDER, LIGHTNING

NEARLY TWO INCHES OF RAIN WAS RECORDED LAST NIGHT.

Rain Comes at Time to Do Inestimable Good for Fall and Winter Vegetables and for Onion Growing.

Throughout yesterday afternoon the threatening weather conditions, with heavy clouds hanging about in all directions and intermittent showers falling up to tonight, presaged an approaching storm after dark, for the skies in two directions were illuminated by lightning and the distant rolling of thunder. Early in the night a good rain accompanied the thunder and lightning storm which prevailed then, but the full force of the storm did not strike until just after midnight, when there was terrific lightning and thunder and the rain came down hard. This was the harbinger of the first cool norther of the season, for when the rain ceased the cool atmosphere was in evidence.

The heavy thunder, lightning and rainstorm which was at its best beginning just after midnight, lasted for some time and did not entirely subside until during the wee sma' hours of this morning. The precipitation recorded during the rainfall from yesterday evening until 7 o'clock this morning amounted to 1.76—in excess of one and three-quarters inches of rain.

The rain, which is believed to have been general in this immediate section, will put the soil in excellent condition for fall and winter crops, while farmers who have their onion seed planted in seedbeds will be benefited by the rain, as it will enhance the germination and growth of the seed, while the rain will also have them ready for transplanting in December. Many gardens planted in diversified truck will be benefited by the rain, while cattlemen are also happy, as the ranges, which have been in good condition for some time past now, will be kept well supplied with grass during the winter months.

Advices received here this morning indicate that the rain was general throughout Southwest Texas, extending northward beyond San Antonio and eastward along the Texas-Mexican railroad to Corpus Christi. More rain fell this morning in Laredo and all nearby places, thoroughly soaking the ground and putting it in excellent condition for crops, grass, etc.

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW

IN THE DAY'S NEWS.

OCTOBER 11.

Today is the birthday of Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, who has been prominently in the public eye of late as the physician in attendance on President Wilson. Dr. Grayson was born in Culpepper, Va., in 1878, and graduated from the University of the South in 1903, having taken a medical course prior to going there. Soon after his graduation he was appointed an assistant surgeon of the navy and in 1907 he reached the grade of passed assistant surgeon. He served in the Naval Hospital in Washington for some time and later took a three years' cruise around the world. He had his first service at the White House in 1912, during the Taft administration, when he was named as additional aide there. He was retained by President Wilson, and, besides serving as naval aide, he became the President's physician and constant companion.

My Creed.

I hold it true all creeds are right, Where love and kindness reign, Where brother lifts his brother up And soothes his wounds from pain, Where little hungry mouths are fed, The orphan's tears are dried, Salvation's plan, free to each one, With Jesus crucified.

No little petty rules should bind Man in a narrow path, Where all the good shall come to us, And to the sinner wrath, Where talents ten shall be our lot, One, as our brother's share, Then lift our voice that all may hear The Pharisees' loud prayer.

Our creed should be so broad and wide

'Twould take in all mankind, And faith and hope and charity Shall be the links that bind.

—Mrs. J. M. Freeland in Kansas City Journal.

General Mention.

Mr. I. Rosenbaum left Thursday for a business trip to Mexico.

Mrs. J. B. Buttron returned home on Friday from an extended pleasure trip to California.

Mrs. J. A. Wilson and Mrs. Norman Groff returned yesterday from a several days' stay in San Antonio.

Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Hewitt returned yesterday from a week's stay in San Antonio.

Mrs. Harry Shelby and little son will arrive in the city this afternoon from a delightful two months' visit to relatives in the North, and will leave tomorrow for San Diego. While in Laredo they will be the guests of Mrs. M. D. Shelby.

Mrs. W. L. Arkles expects to leave on Sunday for Waco to attend the Eastern Star convention as a delegate from Miriam Chapter.

A letter received this morning from Judge Mullally said that Miss Anita was more improved than the doctors had hoped for, and that it was expected she would be able to make the journey home the latter part of the coming week. Her many friends will be delighted to hear of her improvement.

Busy Bees to Meet.

The Busy Bees Club will have a called meeting Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of Emilie Biggio.

Dance for Club Maira.

The dance given by the young men last evening in honor of the members of the Club Maira was a delightful affair. Good music made dancing a delight, and there was a large and select attendance. Dancing was kept up until after midnight, although the rain made the homeward trip somewhat inconvenient.

Blue Birds.

The Blue Birds met yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Alfred Poggenpohl and a pleasant social time was enjoyed. Later in the afternoon the hostess served delicious sandwiches and fruit. The members present were Mary Condren, Elinor Morrow, Nellie Ward, Josephine Daiches, Gladys Sauvignat, Nellie Netzer, Ella May Niendorf, Anne McKinney, Adelaide Macdonald, Doris and Dorothy Wilson, Helen Dixon, Alice Lee, Elizabeth Powell, Leonard Ernst, Leonard Daiches and Jamie Ward.

Entertainment.

A pretty social affair of yesterday was the farewell party given by Mrs. I. Goodman complimenting Mrs. Hellman of St. Louis and Mrs. B. M. Alexander, who leave next week for St. Louis. The rooms were most attractively arranged for the occasion, the color note of pink and white being noticed in the floral decoration, white roses and queen's wreath being used. Upon the arrival of the guests an art contest was enjoyed and in this Mrs. Watson was the lucky winner. After the contest the hostess served a prettily appointed ice course, which also reflected the chosen color scheme of pink and white. Those enjoying the delightful hospitality were Mesdames Hellman, B. M. Alexander, J. O. Bueenz, O'Meara, Gumpfort, Daiches, Offer, Mally, Watson, Joe Moser, Chas. Moser, A. Wormser, H. G. DaCamara, Hill, George Moyer of San Antonio and Miss Levi.

Miss Slaughter Honored.

Miss Courtney Slaughter was delightfully complimented last night by a number of friends with a dance at Elks Hall. Conventional programs marking twenty straight and four extra dances were used. The Royal Orchestra furnished the music for dancing. Among those present besides the honoree, Miss Courtney Slaughter, were Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Muller, Mr. and Mrs. A. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. George Moyer, Mrs. W. T. Hill, Mrs. Green, Misses Marguerite Nelson, Inez Hellman, Maxine Taylor, Ruth Scratchley, Laura Taylor, Dorothy Wiggins, Katherine MacGregor, Betty Beene, Eva Scratchley, Eva Levi, Messrs. Aaron Moser, Marcus and Edwin Wormser, Keeran Young, Arthur Hazelrigg, Tom and Randall Nye, Dave Slaughter, Henry Burr, Fred Netzer, Leon Hanchett, Will Merriman, Bob Love, Ernest Biskamp, Edward Brewster, Lieut. Walthall and Lieut. Harris.

Rally Day.

There will be no regular Church service at the Presbyterian Church tomorrow morning nor will there be Sunday School at 9:30, but at 10:30 the Church and Sunday School will meet together and the children will have their Rally Day program: Opening Song, "Forward, Forward, Army of Jesus,"—Children.

Lord's Prayer, —Beginners and Juniors.

FIRST HALF OF RACE COMPLETED TODAY

LEADING FLIERS IN TRANS-CONTINENTAL AIR RACE ARE NEARING THEIR GOAL
TODAY.

By Associated Press.
Chicago, Oct. 11.—Leading fliers in the twice trans-continental race between Mineola and San Francisco are expected to complete the first half of their journey today, thus marking an epoch in aviation in America. Continuation of the unfavorable weather which for two days has handicapped the airmen again is in prospect today.

nard, the "flying parson," leading the

arrived at Reno at 10:30 and left 30 minutes later for Mather Field, Sacramento.

CONTINUED TO IMPROVE.
By Associated Press.
Washington, Oct. 11.—President
Wilson had another good night last night and his condition apparently continued to improve, White House
officials said today.

FOR PRESIDENT OF FRANCE.

Paris, Oct. 11.—More than ordinary interest is manifested in the parliamentary elections to be held tomorrow, owing to the fact that the new Chamber of Deputies to be elected will be called upon next spring to choose a successor to M. Poincare as President of the French Republic.
Speculation in regards to the presidency is already a live subject of discussion among all classes of the people. If the choice were to be made at the present time there appears little doubt that Premier Clemenceau might have the office of chief executive if he would consent
to become a candidate. But the Premier has given no intimation of a desire to become President and in view of his advanced age it is considered unlikely that he will enter the lists. In all probability, however, he will endeavor to influence
the choice and it is generally believed that he will favor the candidacy of M. Pama, the present Minister of the Interior, and who was a rival of Poincare in the last election.

Present indications point to a large field of candidates when the National Assembly is called together at Versailles to choose the new President. Among the known aspirants for the place are M. Paul Deschanel, president of the Chamber of Deputies, and M. Dubost, president of the Senate, as well as M.
Alexandre Ribot, a former Premier
and Minister of Foreign Affairs.

President Poincare is eligible to re-election, but at present there appears little possibility of his being able to command a majority of the senators and deputies, comprising
the National Assembly.

Juarez, Mex., Oct. 11.—By January
1 next the Villa movement in Chihuahua will be entirely crushed and its leader will cease to be a factor in Mexican politics, General Manuel

major offensive would be begun by mine, has jurisdiction over the constitutionalist armies in Chihuahua,

Durango, Zacatecas and part of Coahuila.

"Villa is at San Bartolo, Durango, with a force of 80 men, which represents his entire military force," said Dieguez.

Fighting in Petrograd.

to a Helsingfors despatch, Russian newspapers report serious fighting in Petrograd between adherents and opponents of the soviet regime. The counter revolutionaries have taken possession of several important buildings and government institutions.

Confirmation is Awaited.
London, Oct. 11.—Confirmation of the newspaper report that German forces have captured Riga is being awaited here, but if the disparity of the rival forces is as great as reported in some despatches, the success of the attack would not be surprising.
Morning papers feature Germany's new war, but add nothing to the despatches already published here. The whereabouts of General von der Goltz continues to be the subject of contradictory rumors.

Under Cover of Bombardment.
London, Oct. 11.—It is stated in authoritative quarters here that the German-Russian attack on Riga was carried out under cover of a heavy bombardment by German guns, forcing the Letts to evacuate the
city.

TEACHERS UNDERPAID.

Practically every State has become interested in better salaries for public school teachers. Twelve States and hundreds of local communities have transmuted that interest into actual increases. It is still legally possible, however, as the National Education Association points out, for a teacher to receive the disgraceful salary of $40 per month, and that for only six months—an annual salary of $240 or 66 cents a day. There is no class of workers in the railroad service, not even the section hands,
that does not receive 107 per cent
to 500 per cent of the average salary paid teachers. Hod carriers earn from one and one half to twice as much as teachers, blacksmiths two and one-half, and bricklayers about three times as much. When one considers the years of preparation and constant study required of teachers such comparisons are ludicrous.
Never have our public schools had greater responsibilities than today. If we are to have teachers who measure up to this responsibility, they must be paid living salaries.—Leslie's.

AN INDUSTRIAL TRUCE.

The industrial armistice which has been proposed to the conference now in session in Washington is one of the most sensible things ever suggested, and if it is adopted and carried into effect it will mean much to the country.

The proposal means, of course, that during the three months of its effect there are to be no strikes, no lock-outs, no reductions in wages or demands for more on the part of the workmen, and that industry is to be given a chance to place the country on a normal basis.

This sounds like the millennium but in reality it is easily attainable. In fact, the great bulk of the workmen are content to forego strikes for a much longer period than that proposed. It is only the self-seeking, blatant, mischief-making demagogue who is actually at the bottom of the present strikes.

The secretary of the steel strike committee told the congressional committee that for some time past it had been decided to "organize" the steel mills of the country, and that President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor had decided that now was the opportune moment, that the many thousands of "unorganized" steel workers had been a menace to organized labor, and it was desired to put an end to this state of affairs.

So far, Mr. Gompers has said nothing with regard to this statement, but it sounds suspiciously like the truth, for the very life of the big organization depends upon getting new member bodies into it, and an infusion of new blood to the extent of the thousands of the steel mill workers would mean an enormous increase in the treasury of the federation and a corresponding feather in the cap of the organizer who should bring these non-union men within the fold.

At any rate, Mr. Gompers now proposes immediate arbitration of the nation-wide steel strike, which according to his own statement and that of his underlings he had nothing to do with causing, and yet which was brought about in the hope of bringing the steel trades under the banner of the federation.

If the steel strike is arbitrated successfully; if the industrial truce is signed—and kept; if the people are no longer disturbed by rumors of strife, then we shall be able to take up the other vexing problems of the present with a greater show of success in solving them.

One of the causes of the high cost of living, we are assured, is the constant striking of labor for higher wages or better working conditions or some real or fancied grievance. It sounds reasonable, for we know that when production in any line stops there is a corresponding increase in the cost of the product on hand. And the cost to the idle workmen must be met out of someone's pocket, so the public usually has to pay it.

We have much to hope for from an industrial truce. There are some employers who need to be restrained from gouging their employees; there are some employees who need to be restrained from quitting work whenever they feel like it and forcing others to quit at the same time. All this will be stopped for three months, at least, if the truce is made.

There is more work to do at present than there are hands to perform it, yet there is much unemployment. What the remedy for this condition may be can be worked out only if there is industrial peace. And the people who are only interested in the strike as it affects their own business will welcome a declaration of peace, even if it be only for a short period.

There is also the prospect that if the permanent arbitration board be formed the peace may be definite and permanent. For as soon as labor and capital find that a compromise is better than a costly strike or lock-out, they may form a permanent court of arbitration which will bring about a compromise on any question, no matter how serious it may be, and avoid any necessity for any further industrial "war."

WOMAN AND POLL TAX.

The decision of the attorney general's office that the law requiring the payment of poll taxes, so far as it concerns the women is "directory rather than mandatory," should not operate to keep the women from paying their poll taxes; at least, those who want to vote next year.

There is no doubt that the federal woman suffrage amendment will be ratified by the required number of states, and that the women of all the country will be enabled to vote in the fall of 1919. But unless citizens of Texas have paid their poll tax for 1919, they will not be able to vote in this state at any election, and this means the women voters as well as the men.

Here in Laredo there is a city poll tax as well as the state and county tax to be paid, but the cost of both is a small sum to pay for the privilege of the franchise. It may be that some day we shall no longer have to pay a poll tax, but until that provision of the election law is repealed, it behooves all who desire to vote to pay the tax and comply with all the requirements of the law.

There has been much ribald comment concerning the necessity of a woman stating her age when she pays poll tax, but if the truth were known, it is becoming less and less common for the women to try to hide their age. And no doubt there are many men who object to telling just how old they are, and who would like to be able to say "over 21," when asked their age by the tax collector.

It is probable that the coming election will see the women of the entire country voting for the first time in history. So far there seems to be little interest in the matter on the part of the women, but it is coming to be known that the women are not as vociferous regarding their franchise as the men; they merely "saw wood and say nothing." Perhaps it is because of the centuries of repression that they have learned to say little while they do a great deal.

One of the important reasons why the women should not fail to pay their poll taxes is that the opponents of woman suffrage in Texas have not ceased their efforts. They are just as determined as ever in their opposition, and it is probable that if any woman who has failed to pay her poll tax asks exception on a technicality, it will be opposed.

It is infinitely better to comply with every requirement of the law and thus be ready to vote, than to expect a decision that women voters are exempted from paying poll tax the first time they vote, as has usually been the case with young men just attaining their majority.

Already the candidates for state offices have begun to announce, and within the coming winter months there will be a great many more come forward to ask for the suffrage of Texas voters. It is a source of gratification to know that one possesses the right to vote, and even those who are not yet decided as to whether or not they will vote next fall should miss no opportunity of qualifying themselves to vote should they so desire at the time.

It is not probable that there will be many, if any at all, candidates for office among the women of Texas, but there are not so many men who have the desire for public office, when compared to the number of voters.

It is not necessary for one to be an officeholder, or even a candidate, in order to take an interest in election. The interests of the women are as much bound up in the politics of Texas as are those of the men. And the women who now have a voice in the election of the officials who are to handle the affairs of the state, county and municipality should at least take enough interest in the matter to qualify themselves under the law.

The time is coming when the voice of the women of Texas will be as important as that of the men, insofar as the election of state and county officials is concerned. The woman who disfranchises herself by failure to pay poll tax cannot complain of injustice.

WOMAN ALMOST ABANDONED HOPE OF GETTING WELL.

MRS. BULEY SAYS SHE HAD SUFFERED FOR TWENTY YEARS.

Tanlac Restores Her To Health And She Is Now Perfectly Well In Every Way.

"When my friends ask me what caused my wonderful improvement I just say 'Tanlac,' said Mrs. Burl Buley, of 521 Baxter Court, Canton, Ill., recently.

"For the past twenty years," she continued, "I suffered from acute indigestion. I had terrible cramping spells and gas would form so badly that I could hardly breathe. I was so weak and run down that I couldn't attend to my housework. My head would ache like it would burst. I was so nervous that the least little thing would upset me and I could hardly sleep. Nothing I took did me any good and I gave up all hope of ever being well again.

"So many people were being benefited by taking Tanlac that my husband got me a bottle to try, and I began to improve at once. Soon I could eat anything I wanted without having any trouble afterwards and now my twenty years of suffering are completely at an end. Those awful headaches are gone. I haven't a sign of indigestion, I sleep like a baby and feel perfectly well in every way."

All druggists sell Tanlac.

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, bogged feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for cod liver—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound combined with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get the cause. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like cod liver—but have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. Millions of bottles are sold annually at 10c and 25c. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

LOOKING OVER SITUATION

H. P. Hornby, Supervisor of Fifteenth Congressional District, Getting Things Lined Up for Work.

H. P. Hornby of Uvalde, who has been named as census supervisor of the Fifteenth congressional district, was among the visitors in Laredo today, coming here to look over the situation and learn what will be necessary in the selection of enumerators to take the census of Laredo and Webb county, which work begins on January 1 and must be concluded in not more than thirty days.

Ten years ago when the census was taken in Webb county by the government the work was done by twenty-two enumerators, but Mr. Hornby states that so great has been the increase in population in Laredo in the past ten years that it will be necessary to put about thirty enumerators on the job. No enumerator will be required to cover more than fifteen hundred inhabitants.

STILL IN THE RING.

After Fifteen Years of Strenuous Battering and Hard Usage, Model "F" Ford Shows Up Smiling and Sturdy.

In the salesroom of the Denk-Thompson Company, Ford dealer in Laredo, is Ford Touring car number 694, looking wonderfully youthful and sturdy despite its sixteen years of daily service. The car was accepted as $50.00 on the purchase of a new Ford. Apart from style the old timer is worth more than that—it "goes" and the motor is quite some this side of being a pensioner, but voice in motordom has changed since 1904.

Engines are no longer wound up from the side; steering wheels no longer stick straight up the air, and then too, eight horse power and five gallon gas tanks aren't quite sufficient for the modern motorist. The Laredo Ford has not outworn its usefulness—it has merely outlived itself. It is as though an old Indian shaman would sport himself adorned in varnishes, feathers and mocassins among his college-bred, stylish eld of spring. Nobler among them but of a different age.

And so with this Model "F" Ford. What stories it might tell of following worn, rutted wagon roads, over strange country, perhaps, running through creeks where bridges had not been built, making its owners happy. Detroit wasn't so much of a town fifteen years ago it was Henry Ford's second year manufacturing Fords in a factory; his company had just been organized.

It is not known who the original purchaser of this dependable old Ford was, or where he lived, whether in New York or California, Michigan or Florida. Sixty-four may have traveled all of the States in the Union. But now it has returned to the place of its birth, there to enjoy a quiet, respectable old age, while it keeps on running and running and running, and cheating the junk man.

DEATH OF MRS. SAM WHARTON OCCURRED AT NOON TODAY

Resident of Laredo For a Number of Years, Passed Away After Illness of Several Weeks Duration.

Mrs. Mamie Wharton, wife of Sam Wharton, died at her home, 1618 Juarez Avenue, at 12:30 noon today following an illness of over a month, her condition having been serious for the past few weeks.

Mrs. Wharton was a native of Matagorda county, Texas, where she was born in 1878, and was a daughter of Mrs. Uzzell of this city. Besides her husband and mother, deceased is survived by seven children. Mrs. Wharton had made her home in Laredo for the past fifteen years or more and the news of her death came as a shock to all who knew her. The family have the sympathy of many friends in their bereavement.

The funeral will take place from the Wharton home, 1618 Juarez Avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock and friends and acquaintances of the family are invited to attend.

RELIEF FROM THE WAR TAX ON CARLOADS BILLS LADING

Chamber of Commerce Brings About Great Saving to Local Men on Export Business Through Laredo.

All brokers and merchants shipping carloads of merchandise into Mexico should appreciate the effort which the Chamber of Commerce made to place all of the Rio Grande border ports on a par with each other.

Early in January it was discovered that the ports on Rio Grande river crossings were not collecting war tax on bills of lading. At Laredo the railroads were collecting this tax under direct instructions from the internal revenue department. This was evidently against the interests of business through the port of Laredo, and the Chamber of Commerce immediately took steps either to have our merchants relieved of paying the war tax, or else in evident fairness, that the other ports should also collect war tax on bills of lading.

As a result of our effort the railroad officials in charge of these other ports issued instructions to their agents to collect war tax at these ports. This had the effect of holding the export business of this port on a uniform basis.

Further investigation showed that, under a technical ruling the Rio Grande crossing ports into Mexico could not be construed as having through bills of lading on their carload shipments, whereas the shipments by way of the gulf and Atlantic seaports into Vera Cruz and Tampico were construed as having through bills of lading. This ruling was evidently to the disadvantage of the Rio Grande crossing ports. The Chamber of Commerce perfected a second argument requesting that the Rio Grande crossing ports be placed upon an equality with the gulf coast ports, in so far as war tax on bills of lading on carload exports of merchandise was concerned.

They again succeeded in having a method outlined whereby exporters through Laredo will have their bills of lading recognized as through bills of lading. Hence, they will not need to pay war tax in the future on those carload shipments into Mexico. Brokers and merchants, however, should see to it that the proper exemption blanks are issued at the point of origin, and that your declaration of intention to export is attached to your bill of lading. Inquire of the Chamber of Commerce if you have not the proper blank forms to refer to.

The Chamber of Commerce by securing these corrections has undoubtedly saved the ports along the Rio Grande border crossings many thousands of dollars of war taxes, and inasmuch as Laredo is by far the largest port, it is evident that the entire expense for maintaining the Chamber of Commerce has been saved our merchants and exporters on this one matter of securing relief of War Tax, the proper revisions of the regulations of the Internal Revenue Department.

FIRM DEFRAYS ALL LOSSES OF EMPLOYEES IN THE STORM

Armour & Co. Wire Their Employees at Corpus to Send in Approximate Losses of All Employees.

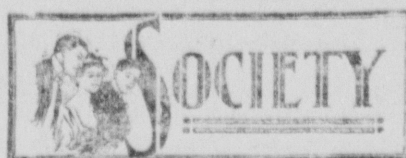

When a catastrophe like the hurricane and tidal wave that struck Corpus Christi on September 14 visits a place and leaves death and devastation on its wake, and takes away from the poor man nearly everything he possessed, it is seldom that you hear where the firm for which that man was working comes to his aid in a pecuniary manner and restores him to his humble position on life.

Listen to this, taken from the Corpus Christi Caller of Wednesday: "A striking example of a large firm caring for its employees is shown in the action of Armour and Company regarding the recent storm.

"Wire your approximate losses and draw on us for that amount," read telegrams received by the six persons here who work for the firm. Not merely company losses, but the personal losses of each employee were borne by the company."

Gladness.

I am the elfin spirit you heard in the springtime glade;
I am the wisp of wonder you took for a dancing maid;
I am the dewy sparkle of the young grass in the spring;
I am the fairy fancy that flies on an April wing.

I am the silver bubble you saw on the rippling stream;
I am the childhood chatter you heard in a day of dream;
I am the bloom of the meadow, the delicate green of the rye,
I am the violet morning that blooms in a sapphire sky.

I am the song forgotten that slips from the vale of sleep
Light as a whisper of moonlight over and on the deep;
I am the length unmeasured, I am the height unknown
Between the gates of the portal and the armpost of the throne.

I am the whispered music you listened to yesterday
When you thought the children of summer had come to the world to stay;
I am the magic moment in the life that knows love's spell
When lips touch lips and the music of Eden is in the dell.

The veritable mountains of relief supplies turned out by the millions of chapter workers during the war made the American Red Cross one of the biggest "manufacturing concerns" in the world, with great warehouse space at scores of strategic points all around the globe.

One of the biggest distribution centers was at Saloniki, Greece, and in this picture Bulgarian prisoners of war are seen unloading a Red Cross cargo of 2,300 boxes from a French transport. At the right is seen one of the American Red Cross camions, fleets of which were used in rushing relief to points where the suffering was greatest.

COLGATE'S 100 YEARS.

Hamilton, N. Y., Oct. 9.—One hundred years! All that the rounding out of a century of progress and development, of building and expansion, of goals gained and ambitions realized, of work performed and projects completed, of ideals attained and problems solved, of things done means to an educational institution is what Colgate University, founded in 1819, will celebrate during the remainder of this week.

Hundreds of graduates, some of whom have journeyed from distant parts of the world, have arrived in Hamilton to help their alma mater celebrate her centennial. Every accommodation in the town is taxed to provide for the visitors. In ordinary times Hamilton is a village of 1200 inhabitants, but today its population has been nearly tripled by the influx of visitors.

The centennial celebration gets under way this evening with informal gatherings in the fraternity houses and around the college buildings. The formal ceremonies will begin tomorrow morning and will include the greetings of Dr. E. B. Bryan, president of the university, an address by George W. Cobb of New York, president of the General Alumni Association, and an historical address by Dr. W. M. Lawrence of the university faculty. The day's program will conclude with the alumni association dinner in the evening.

Saturday morning there will be other formal ceremonies, including the granting of degrees to distinguished visitors. The speakers are to include Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick, D. D. of New York, Dr. John H. Finley, president of New York University and State Superintendent of Education, and several other men of wide reputation. In the afternoon there will be a football game between teams of Colgate and Brown.

Colgate University owes its founding to Rev. Daniel Hascall, a well-known Baptist clergyman and educator of the early part of the last century. Dr. Hascall came to Hamilton in 1813 as pastor of the First Baptist church. Several years later he began to receive theological students into his family and through his efforts the Baptist education society of the State of New York was formed in 1817. This resulted in the establishment of the Hamilton literary and theological institution, which afterward became Madison University.

The later development and present prosperity of the university are due to the liberality of William Colgate and his descendants, and in recognition of whose generosity the name of the institution was changed from Madison University to Colgate University.

The financial resources of the university are due chiefly to the generosity of William Colgate, a prominent and active Baptist in religious belief, who devoted a considerable part of his large fortune to the endowment of the university. William Colgate was an Englishman who left the land of his birth through sympathy with the American colonies at the time of the Revolution. He settled first in Maryland, but removed soon afterward to New York City, where he took a position with a firm of tallow chandlers. Two years later he started in business for himself as a soap manufacturer and in the course of time accumulated a large fortune.

The interest which William Colgate displayed in the university in Hamilton, and which took form of generous gifts in funds to aid in its development, has been continued by his descendants. Within the past month the university has received a bequest of $100,000 by the will of the late Richard M. Colgate, who was the head of the family at the time of his death some weeks ago.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS.

OCTOBER 9.

Sixty years old today is Lieut. Col. Alfred Dreyfus, who has been decorated as an officer of the Legion of Honor in recognition of his services in the war. Twenty-five years ago, it will be recalled, this same Alfred Dreyfus, then a captain in the French army, was the central figure in a sensational case that long held the attention of the world. It was on Dec. 23, 1894, that he was sentenced to life imprisonment on Devil's Island, following his conviction by court-martial on a charge of selling military secrets to Germany. Following the confession of Colonel Henry that he had forged some of the evidence against Dreyfus, a new trial was ordered in 1899. He was, however, again convicted on Sept. 8 of that year and sentenced to ten years' imprisonment. He was pardoned, however, a week later. The Supreme Court of Cassation later found him innocent of the charges against him and he re-entered the army with full citizenship restored.

FOUR PLANES OUT OF RUNNING

AND STATUS OF OTHERS UNCERTAIN IN GREAT CONTEST.

By Associated Press.

Minneapolis, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Three aviators had been killed, four of the 62 planes originally entered put definitely out of the running and the status of several others remained unknown early today when the army's great transcontinental air race over a 5,400-mile course between Minneapolis and San Francisco was resumed. The three men killed yesterday were Major D. H. Crissey and Sergt. Virgil Thomas, who met almost instant death in a crash at Salt Lake City, and Sergt. W. H. Nevitt, observer for Col. General Brandt, whose plane crashed at Deposit, N. Y.

Lieut. Maynard led all the other aviators in distance covered, flying from Chicago to Des Moines this morning. Thirty of the 48 machines leaving here arrived at Buffalo today.

Washington, Oct. 9.—An immediate industrial truce to continue for three months, the creation of an arbitration board by the president and congress and immediate arbitration of the nation-wide strike of the steel workers were among the proposals made today to the industrial conference here. The first two were presented by representatives of the public and the last by the labor group. Bernard Baruch, chairman of the public group, made the proposal for the industrial truce, while Samuel Gompers, chairman of the labor group, proposed the arbitration of the steel strike. Gompers' plan contemplated the immediate return of the steel workers pending the outcome of the efforts to arbitrate the dispute. The proposed permanent arbitration board, urged by Gavin McNab of San Francisco, provides that all living ex-presidents be members. Gompers' board for the arbitration of the steel strike would be composed of six members, two appointed by each group in the conference—capital, labor and the public.

Brown, who is said to have an excellent record while a ranger, was paroled to Mr. Campbell.

REDS CHAMPIONS BASEBALL WORLD

THEY KNOCK THREE WHITE SOX

PITCHERS HARD AND WIN BY SCORE OF 10 TO 5.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—With the White Sox returning to their home grounds after a victorious session at Cincinnati, in which they won the last two games played with the Reds, the real big thing of the series was on here in the eighth game played this afternoon before a crowd that filled the American League Park to its capacity. Manager Moran essayed his choice for the afternoon to be Hod Eller, the Red twirler who has not known defeat during the present series, while Manager Gleason announced as his choice as the White Sox twirler Williams, the southpaw who has asked to be given a chance to redeem himself in the same manner that Cicotte redeemed himself in yesterday's game.

Reds Start Fireworks.

Cincinnati, first to bat, lost no time in starting the fireworks going, for they landed on Williams' offerings with a vengeance, batting him out of the box in the first inning and James taking his place. When the smoke cleared away at the end of the initial inning Cincinnati had four runs chalked up. In her first inning Chicago could do nothing with Eller. In her half of the second Cincinnati increased her lead with another run, while Chicago again failed to score in her half of the second. The third inning began with the score standing 5 to 0 in favor of Cincinnati. The Reds did not score in the third, but Tokio, Oct. 9.—Japanese forces in Eastern Siberia have been ordered to co-operate effectively with the American authorities in the operation of the trans-Siberian railroad, as the result of strong representations by the United States government to Japan. The American government claimed that in sections guarded by Japanese troops the lives and property of Americans were inadequately protected.

BORROWING MONEY IS NOT PROHIBITED

NOTHING IN CONSTITUTION TO PREVENT CORPUS CHRISTI

FROM GETTING FEDERAL LOAN.

By Associated Press.

Austin, Texas, Oct. 9.—There is no provision in the Texas constitution which prohibits Corpus Christi from borrowing money from the federal government for reconstruction purposes, the attorney general's department told Representative Carlos Bee at Washington. The question arose over the bill proposing a $5,000,000 loan to the stricken city.

Austin, Tex., Oct. 9.—Labor agents coming to the Aransas Pass district seeking labor for other sections will be detained and put to work, according to a telegram to Governor Hobby from General Wolters in the devastated area.

Chicago made a home run in her part of the third, the batsman being the only one to score. This made the standing: Cincinnati, 5; Chicago, 1.

In the fourth inning neither side scored, but in the fifth Cincinnati made another run, but Chicago didn't. Score: Cincinnati, 6; Chicago, 1.

In the sixth inning James was replaced by Wilkinson after Cincinnati had brought three more runners across the home plate, making the score 9 to 1 in favor of Cincinnati. In her part of the sixth Chicago did not score. Neither side scored in the seventh, the score still remaining Cincinnati, 9; Chicago, 1.

In the eighth inning Cincinnati added another run to her score, making it 10 to 1 in favor of Cincinnati. In her half of that inning Chicago decided to do a little slugging herself and landed on Eller hard, bringing four runners home and changing the score to Cincinnati, 10; Chicago, 5.

In the ninth Cincinnati did not score and neither did Chicago. Cincinnati by winning this game captured the world's baseball championship of 1919 and ended the series which was to have gone nine games. The summary follows:

Team. 123 456 789—R. H. E.
Cincinnati . . . 419 013 010—10 16 2
Chicago . . . 001 000 040—5 10 1

Batteries: Eller and Rariden; Williams, James, Wilkinson and Schalk.

The attendance at the final game of the championship series was estimated at 30,000 persons.

MORNING SUNDAY, OCT. 26

Hands of the Timepieces of the Country Will Be Set Back One Hour at 2 O'clock Morning Oct. 26.

The much abhorred orders to "rouse mit you" given at daybreak these days in order to get up in time to get the initial meal of the day and be off to the day's duties, will come an hour later on and after October 26, for on that Sunday, in the wee sma' hours of morning, to be precise, at 2 o'clock under the present time, the hands of clocks and watches will be set back to 1 o'clock and the old time or pre-war time will be restored, and when one gets up at 6 o'clock in the morning it will be 5 o'clock, and not 6 o'clock as at present.

This war time stuff is all right so long as it lasts during the summer season, but it should cease with the last Sunday in September instead of the last Sunday in October, for the days begin to get short too quick and when one awakes at 5 o'clock actual time in October and it is only 6 o'clock "war time" that is going too far. But the time goes back an hour at 2 o'clock on the morning of October 26, less than three weeks from now, and that will be the end of the "war time," for the daylight saving act has been repealed by congress and the row time which has been in vogue the past two summers becomes a thing of the past.

SPORT WRITER NEGOTIATES DELUGE.

Ford Never Falters As It Sail Over Water Soaked Roads on High.

Will Gahagan, the famous sport writer who is also a "walking encyclopedia" of information on titled horses and their doings for the last couple centuries—recently rode from Randall to Cleveland in a Ford, but here's his story as it appeared in "The Horseman" for August:

"In company with Ken Scott, turf writer on the 'Plain Dealer', and a couple of other scribblers, I made the trip to the city in 'Scotty's' machine. Said machine is manufactured in Detroit by a gentleman by the name of Ford. Now, they make all sorts of fun of that Ford machine, but after that trip from Randall to Cleveland the other day, I'm convinced that the Ford cars are not only fast but that they have staying qualities as well. They should have been used in getting the soldiers across the ocean."

"In the low spots where the water has stopped many of the high priced 'boats', the little Ford didn't even hesitate. One of the most amusing sights of the trip—I believe that it was the only one—was watching a gentleman astride the hood of a big machine which was standing in about two feet of water. He was attempting to crank the machine and yet keep out of the water. Now that was a hard job. Every time he gave the crank a twist, his arm went into the water, right up to the elbow. The good man was reciting the Lord's Prayer as we passed. At last we surmised that he was, from a few words that he uttered as our good little craft pulled for the shore."

Like "Pop" Gears who added a Ford Runabout to his string of thoroughbreds, Mr. Gahagan has discovered that as a "mud horse" he couldn't get away from the Ford.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The undersigned desires to advise those directly and commercially interested in the immigration of freight cars from Mexico that the agreement under which W. P. Spivey, at Brownsville, Van E. McFarland, at Eagle Pass, and Dr. H. C. Hall at Laredo, for two years carried out the immigration of cars under the supervision of the U. S. Federal Horticultural Board, was terminated on October 1st, 1919, when the plants of the Department of Agriculture were specially erected, equipped and ready for operation.

This will also serve to convey my compliments to a certain element in the community, which have been the least interested, but the most concerned in keeping misinformed.

SCIATIC PAINS QUICKLY RELIEVED

Keep Sloan's, the World's Liniment handy to allay aches

THOUSANDS of men and women, when the least little rheumatic "crick" assails them, have Sloan's Liniment handy to knock it out. Popular a third of a century ago—far more popular today.

That's because it is so wonderfully helpful in relieving all external aches and pains—sciatica, lumbago, neuralgia, overstrained muscles, stiff joints, weather exposure results. A little is all that is necessary, for it soon penetrates without rubbing to the sore spot. Leaves no muss, stained skin, clogged pores. A bottle today is a wise precaution. Keep it handy.

ATLANTA GREETES THE GRAY.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 7.—Atlanta is ablaze with color and thronged with an army of visitors for the annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans and the meetings of the several auxiliary organizations, which got under way today and will last until the end of the week.

No city has ever devoted more time and money than Atlanta in making the plans for the reunion a success and the result of this double expenditure is attended by a perfection of details looking to the entertainment and accommodation of the veterans, sons and daughters of veterans and thousands of other visitors.

At a cost of thousands of dollars, the reunion committee has had all the principal streets decorated profusely with flags, ribbons and bunting. In addition, the public spirited merchants almost without exception have gladly bedecked their building fronts with decorations in which the intertwined Stars and Stripes and Stars and Bars form the chief feature.

In every way special attention has been given to the accommodation of the veterans, many of whom took part in the great battles around Atlanta more than half a century ago. The homes of Atlanta have been thrown open for the entertainment of the old soldiers. Hundreds of others have found accommodation in the great tented city which has sprung up in Piedmont Park.

Today was devoted largely to the reception of the visitors, the preliminary business of the reunion, and meetings of the Southern Memorial Association and other auxiliary bodies. Sessions of the United Confederate Veterans will continue tomorrow and Thursday.

Friday has been fixed as the day for the great parade, the spectacular feature of the reunion program. In deference to the age and infirmities of the great majority of the veterans the line of march will be short. A large proportion of the old soldiers will ride in automobiles. In the line will be representatives of the Spanish war veterans and soldiers who fought in the world war. Temporary hospitals, rest stations, lunch stands and public comforts will line the route of the procession. The parade will be reviewed by the Governor of Georgia and numerous invited guests from other States.

VANDERBILT DIVORCE HEARING.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 6.—Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt's application for a divorce will be heard at the term of the superior court which convenes here tomorrow. Mrs. Vanderbilt, who was Miss Kathleen Neilson, is the daughter of Mrs. Frederic Neilson of New York and Newport. She was married to Mr. Vanderbilt in 1903. While Mrs. Vanderbilt does not ask for alimony, she does ask for the custody of their daughter, Miss Kathleen Vanderbilt. Deserter is the alleged cause for divorce. It is understood that the case will not be contested by Mr. Vanderbilt, and that all testimony will be by depositions.

Bronchial Trouble.

RULES PROPOSED MET WITH OBJECTION OF REPRESENTATIVE OF THE

By Associated Press.
Washington, Oct. 7.—Disagreement over the rules proposed for governing the industrial conference called by President Wilson resulted in the conference adjourning suddenly today after Franklin Lane, secretary of the interior, had been elected chairman. As proposed by the committee, the rules provided that all conclusions and decisions must be arrived at by a unanimous vote of the groups representing capital, labor and the public, while the decision of each individual group would be by a majority of that group. The rule was attacked by John Spargo, of New York, representing the public.

By Associated Press.
Washington, Oct. 7.—President Wilson continues to improve and is eating and sleeping well, according to a bulletin issued by his physicians today. Dr. Grayson will keep the president in bed despite the latter's earnest desire to attend to his official duties. Messages of sympathy continue to arrive.

KERR WON AGAIN FOR THE WHITE SOX

LONE STAR STATE DEFEATED
THE MIGHTY
REDS TODAY.

Redfield Park, Cincinnati, Oct. 7.—One of the grandest and most tumultuous homecoming demonstrations ever accorded a baseball team anywhere broke loose in Cincinnati this morning when the victorious Reds returned home for the sixth game on the home grounds this afternoon with the White Sox, whom they were determined to placate and convince that the Reds are the best and fastest baseball automaton on earth. Grim determination was manifest on the features of Manager Gleason of the White Sox and Manager Moran of the Reds, the latter determined to make the game this afternoon the final one of the series. Redfield Park was thronged with the record crowd of the season long before play was called by the umpires.

The announcement that Dick Kerr and Schalk were the batteries for Cincinnati was greeted with great and lasting applause, as the thousands in the grand stand and bleachers realized that the two premier and undefeated pitchers of the American and National Leagues in this series were pitted against each other, as Kerr, the Texas boy, won the only game of the series so far for Chicago, while Reuther won the opening game for the Reds. But in the game this afternoon Kerr did not prove as effective as he did on his home grounds, for the Reds went after him hard. The first two innings for both teams passed scoreless, but in their half of the third Cincinnati found Kerr and brought two runners across the home plate, while Chicago in her third round could do nothing with Reuther. In the fourth the fireworks were continued by the Reds, and another couple of runners tallied, thus ending the fourth inning with the score standing 4 to 0 in favor of Cincinnati. In the fifth inning Cincinnati failed to score, while in her half of that sashay Chicago scored her

Paris, Oct. 7.—King Victor Emmanuel of Italy yesterday signed the royal decree ratifying the German and Austrian treaties, according to a Milan despatch.

The ratification of the German treaty by royal decree of the Italian king virtually completed the steps necessary for putting into effect the pact between Germany and the allied powers which was signed at Versailles June 28 and which it was stipulated would become operative when ratified by three great powers.

Demand Bismarck's Extradition.

Paris, Oct. 7.—The extradition of Count Otto Bismarck, grandson of the famous German chancellor, has been demanded of the German government by the court martial authorities at Lille, according to a correspondent of Excelsior. Eight other Germans are also to be extradited, Reuters says. Count Bismarck is accused of having had fourteen inhabitants of the village of Vicoigna shot as "an example" and burning several houses there. Similar charges are preferred against the others.

German Joins Bolsheviks.

Copenhagen, Oct. 7.—General von der Goltz, German commander of the Baltic provinces, and his staff have joined the Russian Bolshevik forces, according to unconfirmed Petrograd advices received in Berlin.

first run. The score now stood 4 to 1 in favor of the Reds.

In the sixth inning Chicago started a little fireworks display in retaliation, and when the smoke cleared away three White Sox runners had crossed the home plate and tied the score. In her half of the sixth Cincinnati could not score and the sixth inning ended with the score standing 4 to 4. In the seventh neither side scored—still tied. In her half of the eighth Chicago could not score; neither side scored—still tied. Ring pitching instead of Reuther. In her half of the eighth Chicago could not score; neither could Cincinnati. In the ninth neither side scored and for the first time during the series an extra-inning game is necessary.

In the tenth inning Chicago brought in the winning run, while Cincinnati could not score. The game shows both Kerr and Reuther were hit hard and often, the summary showing as follows:

Team	12345678910	H.	E.
Chicago	00001000	1-5	10-3
Cincinnati	00200000	0-4	11-0

Batteries: Kerr and Schalk; Reuther, Ring and Hariden.

Dick Kerr, the Texas boy is still the undefeated champion pitcher of the American League, as the two games won by the White Sox have been due to his work. The seventh game will be played in Cincinnati tomorrow.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION.

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Webb County,—Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon A. C. Markley by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in any newspaper published in the 49th Judicial District; but if there be no newspaper published in said Judicial District, then in a newspaper published in the nearest District to said 49th Judicial District, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Webb County, to be held at the Court House thereof, in Laredo, on the First Monday in December, A. D. 1919, the same being the First day of December, A. D. 1919, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on 3rd day of October, A. D. 1919, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court No. 5120, wherein The Milmo National Bank is plaintiff, and A. C. Markley is defendant, said petition alleging in substance that on or about May 25th, 1917, the defendant for value received executed and delivered to plaintiff one certain promissory note payable at Laredo, Texas, 90 days after said date for the principal sum of $4,500.00 with interest at the rate of 10 per cent per annum after maturity and providing for 10 per cent additional as attorney's fees in case the same is sued upon, which note the plaintiff is the legal and equitable holder and owner thereof.

That by the execution and delivery of said note the defendant promised and became bound to pay unto plaintiff at Laredo, Texas, on Aug. 26, 1917, the sums of money therein stipulated.

That though often requested the defendant has wholly failed and refused to pay the same or any part thereof and said note has been placed in the hands of attorneys for collection and suit brought thereon by reason of which the defendant is liable to plaintiff for all principal, interest and attorney's fees provided in said note, all of which he has failed and refused to pay to plaintiff's damage in the sum of $6,500.00.

That the defendant is the owner of a full undivided one-third interest in and to the following described tracts of land together with the improvements thereon, which are situated in Webb County, Texas, and particularly described by metes and bounds as follows, to-wit:

One and one-half (1½) acres of land known as Survey No. 2215, patented to A. C. Markley on Dec. 8, 1890, by Patent No. 44, Vol. 11, and Fifty-nine (59) acres of land more or less out of Survey No. 1238, patented to Estanislado Garza, Dec. 16, 1885, by Patent No. 595, Vol. 17, being that part of said tract conveyed by Estanislado Garza and wife to A. C. Markley by deed dated March 22, 1887; and

Fifty-seven (57) acres of land more or less conveyed by the City of Laredo to Eugenio Garza on Sept. 14, 1879; and

Said three tracts of land being more particularly and inclusively described as follows:

Beginning at a stone mound which formerly marked the northwest corner of the Laredo Town Tract on the east bank of the Rio Grande River; thence north 68 degrees, east 750 varas to stone marking the northwest corner of the land of the heirs of W. H. Kenner; thence south along the west boundary of said tract of Kenner heirs to a stone on the north line of the Ejidos of the City of Laredo marking the southwest corner of said tract of Kenner heirs 519 varas; then west along the north boundary of said City to a stone mound marking the northeast corner of survey deeded by corporation of said City to Eugenio Garza on Sept. 14, 1879; thence south 19 degrees and 30 minutes west to southeast corner of said Eugenio Garza survey 653 varas, thence W. 515 varas to stone on east bank of the Rio Grande River; thence north 1 degree and 35 minutes, east 556 varas with the meanders of the river to the place of beginning containing one hundred seventeen and one-half (117½) acres of land more or less, which is described in Deed Records of Webb County, Texas, Vol. 68, page 307.

That the defendant is justly indebted at the time of filing suit in the sum of $5,988.12; that the defendant is not a resident of Texas; that a writ of attachment is issued and levied on the defendant's one-third undivided interest in the above described property as his property and that such attachment is not sued out for the purpose of injuring or harassing the defendant; that plaintiff will probably lose its debt unless such attachment is issued.

Said petition is duly sworn to and filed as the original petition and affidavit for attachment and prays for writ of attachment to issue and be levied as above described property, for citation by publication, for judgment for its debt, principal, interest and attorney's fees, for foreclosure of the attachment lien and order of sale and application of the proceeds thereof to costs of the proceedings and satisfaction of the judgment, the surplus, if any, paid to the defendant, for writ of possession to the purchaser at said sale, for costs of suit and for general relief.

Herein fail not, but have before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Witness: C. M. de la Garza, Clerk of the District Court of Webb County. Given under my hand and the Seal of said Court, at office in Laredo, Texas, this 4th day of October, A. D. 1919.

C. M. de la GARZA,

Can Now Eat and Sleep in Comfort.
If troubled with indigestion or sleeplessness you should read what Miss Agnes Turner, Chicago, Ill., has to say: "Overwork, irregular meals and carelessness regarding the ordinary rules of health, gradually undermined it until last fall I became a wreck of my former self. I suffered from continual headaches, was unable to digest food, which seemed to lay as a dead weight on my stomach. I was very constipated and my complexion became dark, yellow and muddy as I felt. Sleeplessness was added to my misery, and I would awake as tired as when I went to sleep. I heard of Chamberlain's Tablets and found such relief after taking them that I kept up the treatment for nearly two months. They cleansed my stomach, invigorated my system, and since that time I can eat and sleep in comfort. I am today entirely well."

JOHN COLMAN, Sec'y.

Resumed Operations Today.
Steubenville, Ohio, Oct. 6.—The mills of the Western Steel Co. at Weirton, West Virginia, which closed last week, resumed operations today on a 50 per cent basis, according to the officials.

Employers Undaunted.
Chicago, Oct. 6.—Clashes between sympathizers and police in the Chicago district in the last 36 hours did not deter the steel mill officials from attempting to start additional plants today. They claimed to have assurance that large numbers of the men would return to work today. Union leaders increased their pickets in an effort to prevent desertions and asserted that they expected no material reduction in their ranks.

INTEREST IN INDUSTRIAL SITUATION NOW CENTERS IN CONFERENCE IN WASHINGTON

Railroad Workers Accept Compromise Proposal of President Wilson and Reconsider Their Refusal to Participate in the Conference Unless They were Represented by Delegates of All.

PRESIDENT WILSON REPORTED BETTER

BULLETIN SIGNED BY DOCTORS THIS MORNING SAID HE PASSED A SATISFACTORY NIGHT.

By Associated Press. Washington, Oct. 6.—President Wilson continues to improve and passed a satisfactory night, said a bulletin issued at 11 o'clock today and signed by Rear Admiral Grayson, the president's physician, Rear Admiral Stitt of the Naval Medical School here, and Dr. Kuffin of Washington. This was the first time that Drs. Stitt and Kuffin, who have been assisting Dr. Grayson, had signed a bulletin which was issued after consultation.

NEGROES LYNCHED IN GEORGIA TOWN

SHOT TWO DEPUTY SHERIFFS AND WERE KILLED BY MOB AND THEIR BODIES WERE BURNED.

By Associated Press. Lincolnton, Ga., Oct. 6.—Jack Gordon and Will Brown, negroes, were lynched by a mob early today and their bodies burned. They were charged with shooting two deputy sheriffs, one of whom is not expected to live, near here Saturday. Mose Martin, another negro, was killed by a posse late yesterday during a hunt for Gordon and several other blacks were whipped for refusing to give information as to the whereabouts of Gordon.

HUNDREDS OF STEEL MEN ARE RETURNING

EMPLOYERS SPEAK OPTIMISTICALLY OF CONDITIONS WHILE UNION LEADERS DENY STATEMENTS.

By Associated Press. Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 6.—An effort by the employers to open additional plants in the Pittsburgh district today marked the beginning of the third week of the steel workers' strike. Representatives of the steel companies said hundreds of men returned to the mills last week and declared that a sufficient number of workers will desert the strikers' ranks today to assure reopening the plants. Union leaders are emphatic in declaring that the plans to reopen the mills will fail.

Employers Undaunted.

By Associated Press. Washington, Oct. 6.—Interest in the nation's industrial situation, regarded as critical because of increasing controversies between capital and labor, centered here today where representatives of both elements as well as the public were to begin a conference. Their aim, according to President Wilson when he issued the call for the meeting, will be to arrive at some common ground of agreement and action with regard to the future conduct of industry. Secretary Wilson, acting for President Wilson, will call the meeting to order.

Accepted Compromise.
Washington, Oct. 6.—Representatives of all the railroad workers' unions, have accepted a compromise proposal by President Wilson that the brotherhoods have one delegate each and the fourteen unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor be represented through the latter, and will participate in the industrial conference here today, Timothy Shay of the Firemen announced.

REDS LACK ONE GAME!

CINCY TAKES FIFTH GAME TODAY; SCHALK PUT OUT OF GAME FOR DISPUTING DECISION.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—Before one of the banner crowds that has thronged the American League Park here this season, and with good weather conditions prevailing, following the postponing of Sunday's game on account of rain and wet grounds, the fifth game of the world's championship baseball series between the Cincinnati Reds, champions of the National League, and the Chicago White Sox, champions of the American League, took place this afternoon. With Cincinnati having a good margin on the world's championship honors, having won three of four games played, and fighting hard to win the lacking two games that will give them the world's championship, Manager Gleason of the White Sox made as his choice of batteries Southpaw Williams and Schalk, and opposing them is the invincible Red battery consisting of "Red" Eiler and Rariden.

From the very outset the game was begun with grim determination of both teams to win, with the result that the greatest pitchers' battle of the series followed, both Williams and Eiler, the opposing pitchers, tightening up from the start and putting the pill across the home plate with all the speed and variations that they possessed. Excellent support was given both hurlers by their teammates, for when a batter smashed the ball to the outer gardens some miraculous fielding was done to prevent a clean hit being made.

Here and there a bingle was made, and once or twice the ball was smashed out of the inner garden, but the players of both sides were on their mettle and the would-be score getters were stopped in their mad rush for bases. Intense excitement marked the game this afternoon and some great rooting characterized the contest, especially when there were faint hopes of the White Sox scoring.

The first five innings went scoreless for both sides, but in their half of the sixth round the Reds opened the pyrotechnics and landed on Williams good and hard, bringing four runners across the home plate. Catcher Schalk of the White Sox got a "running off at the mouth" against the umpire and was berthed, when Linn was put in his place behind the bat. Chicago in her half of the sixth had revenge in her eye and tried to land on "Red" Eiler, but nothing doing—they could not score. The seventh inning opened with the score standing four to nothing in favor of Cincinnati, but neither the Reds or White Sox scored in the seventh.

In the eighth round neither team scored, but in her half of the ninth Cincinnati annexed another run. Chicago in her part of the ninth could not score, having lost the fifth game virtually on errors, while Cincinnati played an errorless game.

The summary of the game this afternoon shows as follows:

Team 123 456 789—R. H. E.
Cincinnati . . . 000 004 001—5 1 0
Chicago . . . 000 000 000—0 3 3

Washington, Oct. 6.—The embargo against the sailing of shipping board vessels to Great Britain was partly lifted today.

TODAY'S EVENTS.

Today is the 175th anniversary of the birth of James McGill, the philanthropist who founded McGill University.

Today is the 150th anniversary of the birth of Sir Isaac Brock, who commanded the Canadian forces in the War of 1812.

By gubernatorial proclamation North Carolina is to observe the week beginning today as "Clean-Up Week."

Under the auspices of the national confectioners' organizations the week beginning today is to be observed as "Candy Week" throughout the United States.

Flams and Schalk and Linn.

The sixth game of the series will be played in Cincinnati tomorrow, and Manager Moran of the Reds says he will hang the world's championship flag up after that game. It is probable that "Dutch" Reuther of the Reds and Dick Kerr, the Texas wonder of the White Sox, will be the opposing pitchers tomorrow.

INCONSISTENCY.

It is noted that the very men who are quoting Washington's immortal declaration with regard to entangling foreign alliances, and who do not see any reason why we should mix up in European politics, are the ones who are insisting that the Shantung decision was wicked and demanding that we approach the brink of a rupture with Japan by insisting that the Shantung peninsula be restored to China.

It seems to us that we have no greater interests—if indeed as great—in China than we have in Europe. We are bound by ties of kindred blood to most of the European nations, while the percentage of Americans of Japanese or Chinese origin is absolutely negligible.

It is true that we enjoyed a certain amount of trade with China, and that certain astute manufacturers and merchants hope to increase that trade enormously within the coming years. But we also have a great trade with Japan, and if this is the only argument that is to enter into our consideration of the treaty provisions, we have more actual profit out of Japan than we have out of China.

But the strongest argument, and one which should appeal to all Americans, is that our future strength is to come from association, if not alliance, with the white races of the earth, and not from any connection with the Mongolian races.

Already we have seen the pernicious effects of compromising with the yellow races in the present situation in Hawaii, where the Japanese and their half-caste children greatly outnumber—and consequently out-vote—the white race, and soon will outnumber the native population of Hawaii.

Wherever the Mongolian mixes his blood with that of another race, with the possible exception of the Caucasian, the Mongolian predominates in the descendants. This has been noted in the Philippines, where, had it not been for a stricter exclusion under Spanish rule than we have ever enforced at home, the Chinese would soon have dominated the entire archipelago.

Students prophesy that the next great war will be between the yellow race and the white. This may be, for the teeming millions of China and Japan, with their enormous birth rate and their great natural increase in spite of their lack of all sanitary laws, will soon have to seek an outlet for their surplus population.

When that time comes, it will be better for us to have an alliance, or at least an association, with the European powers which will enable us to face the invasion of the Mongolians with some hope of repelling it.

Our interests are certainly more bound up with those of Europe than with those of the Orient. A common origin, similar customs, a similar religion based on the Christian faith—all point to mutual interests which cannot be even understood by the races across the Pacific.

The differences between the various races of Europe and our own, with the possible exception of the Russo-Mongolians, are so slight that they could be overcome in a single generation, and are done away with by each succeeding generation of immigrants to our shores.

The Chinese or Japanese never ceases to be a Mongolian, in thought and deed. His religious ideas are contrary to anything which our creeds teach. His ethics are so different from ours that we can hardly believe he is of the same human race. His ideals are repugnant to every inherited trait of ours and of our near kin, the European nations, and there is so little in common between us that it is no wonder our legislatures have passed laws restricting the immigration of the Mongolian.

If we are to overthrow the principle of aloofness from all other nations, then let us at least make an alliance with those whom we recognize of kindred blood, of similar customs and of a common belief.

We would be better off were all the world—except the Mongolian nations—united with us in the league of nations. And if we must form alliances, let them be with people we can meet on common ground.

THE REED "OUTRAGE."

The recent attack on Senator Reed of Missouri in an Oklahoma town where he insisted upon speaking after the majority of the citizens had indicated their unwillingness to listen to him is deplorable insofar as it demonstrates lawlessness on the part of the citizens, but it cannot be urged by Mr. Reed that it was uncalled for.

In the first place, the Oklahoma people do not like Senator Reed's attitude toward the leader of the party which elected the Missouri senator. They feel that it is disloyal, not only to the president, but to the party, for any Democrat to oppose himself to an administration measure, especially as his record has been one of opposition.

In the second place, the people of Oklahoma are in favor of the league of nations, and they do not care to hear any attacks upon it. They told Mr. Reed that he was not wanted in Ardmore, and in spite of that warning he insisted upon coming and telling the people of that city what they did not want to hear.

The people of Oklahoma, as well as those of several other states, remember Mr. Reed's attitude toward the declaration of war against Germany. They also remember his attitude in the matter of German propaganda, and they have little belief in his honesty of purpose in his present opposition to the league of nations.

At an earlier date Mr. Reed would have met a worse reception from the people of Oklahoma. There was a time when the citizens of that state would have used other ammunition than rotten eggs, and they might have spoiled an otherwise perfectly good senator had he persisted in addressing them when they did not want to listen.

While it is not dignified, while it is even lawless to drive a man from the platform by bombarding him with malodorous missiles, we cannot see that Mr. Reed is entitled to any sympathy in the premises. He brought his punishment upon himself, and he cannot justly complain.

At first sight it would appear that the people of Ardmore were actuated by the same mob spirit that is so evident in other parts of the country today. But the Ardmoreites did not attempt to lynch Senator Reed. Indeed, they showed him a consideration which is surprising in the circumstances. And they did not go out and shoot up the town, or burn anything that belonged to someone else. They were even good-natured in their riot.

It should be understood by some of these apostles of opposition to everything under the sun that the average person does not want to hear them. Not all are as determined as the people of Ardmore, but a great many wish they had the pluck to do what they would like to but are restrained from doing because of their law-abiding nature.

Popular sentiment in most parts of the country is in favor of the league of nations, and even where it is not distinctly in favor, it is not determined in opposition to it.

The people are sick and tired of the country is in favor of the league of nations, and even where it is not distinctly in favor, it is not determined in opposition to it.

The people are sick and tired of the long-drawn-out talking over the treaty and the league covenant. They want other things settled, things which more closely affect them than the peace treaty; things which are costing them every cent they earn, with their wages always a lap or two behind the cost of living.

Hence, when Senator Johnson and Senator Reed and others waste the time for which they are paid out of the public treasury in going up and down in the world, like an uneasy conscience, telling the people what is wrong, but never suggesting the remotest idea of a remedy for it, the natural thing for the people to do is to resent it.

Perhaps the medicine given Senator Reed in Oklahoma will not effect a cure. But it should convince him of one thing, and that is that the people have a right to say who shall talk to them and who shall hold his peace. And sometimes the quickest way out is to do something and then apologize for it afterward.

REMAINS REACHED LAREDO. FUNERAL THIS AFTERNOON

Body of Mrs. George Brannan, Who Died in Philadelphia, Reached Here on the Morning Train.

The remains of Mrs. George Brannan, who died at St. Joseph's Hospital in Philadelphia last week, reached Laredo on the train arriving here this morning, being accompanied by the grief-stricken husband, George Brannan.

The funeral did not take place this morning, as was announced in yesterday's Times, but takes place from the home, corner of Salinas Avenue and Hidalgo Street, this afternoon at 5 o'clock in San Agustin church, with interment in the Catholic cemetery.

CAPTAIN LEGETTE TARVER IS VISITING HIS OLD HOME

Recently Attached to Headquarters American Committee to Negotiate Peace.

Captain LeGette Tarver, a well-known Laredo young man, who saw service in the American army with the Texas boys during the Mexican border troubles and then joined the 141st Infantry and went to France with the 36th Division, returning to New York on September 19 as a member of the American Committee to Negotiate Peace, is among the visitors in the city, visiting his sister, Miss Kate Tarver, principal of the Laredo High School, and brother, E. Rex Tarver.

Captain Tarver has been in the army service now for more than three and a half years, and most of that time he was with the Texas boys, but recently he has been attached to the headquarters of the American Committee to Negotiate Peace and has been stationed in Paris, France. From Laredo Captain Tarver will go to Camp Pike, Ark., where he will receive his discharge from the army and will engage in some business, the nature of which he has not as yet decided, but he will probably become associated with his brother, Bee Tarver, in the auto business in El Paso.

Commander John H. Towers, the United States naval officer who successfully managed the trans-Atlantic air flight in the early part of this year, is to visit Rome, Ga., today to receive a medal of honor commemorative of his achievement from the citizens of his "old home town."

It was in the Georgia city that Commander Towers first saw the light of day 35 years ago. He entered the Naval Academy in 1902 and after his graduation saw service on various warships. He was one of the first naval officers assigned to the aviation section. Soon after the commencement of the European war he went to London as assistant to the American naval attaché. Upon his return to Washington he participated in the selection of aviation stations for the United States Navy and won his commission as commander.

In the early part of this year he was designated to develop the plans for the famous trans-Atlantic flight.

SHE COULD NOT EVEN RAISE UP IN HER BED.

Since Taking Tanlac Hastings Says She is Like Different Person—Is Now Well.

"My daughter's recovery through the use of Tanlac was so wonderful that I can't help rejoicing over it," said J. C. Hastings, a well-known farmer living at Alief, Texas.

"For two years," he continued, "she was sick with stomach trouble and neuralgia and her sufferings were something awful. Most everything she ate would give her trouble, and many a time she would wake up in the night in so much distress that she couldn't speak or even raise herself up in bed. By morning she would be so weak and worn out that she would be hardly able to get up at all. In fact she had to spend most of her time in bed and was forced to give up her housework, and I was afraid she would never get well."

"I read in the papers about a friend of mine who had been relieved by taking Tanlac, so I got the medicine for my daughter and now she is like a different person. Instead of lying in bed weak and miserable, she is the first one up in the mornings and is now well and strong enough to take up her housework again. She never complains of suffering like she did before, and from the way Tanlac has built her up I have so much faith in it that I never expect to be without it in the house."

SHOWERS HELPING FARMERS AT THIS SEASON OF THE YEAR

With the Cotton Crop Off Land They Are Planting Onion Seed and Land Resting Before Transplanting.

With the cotton crop in the country around Laredo about all picked and in readiness to be ginned or sold, and with copious showers falling at this time putting in a certain acreage to the growing of a variety of vegetables that will be on the market the early part of December, while others who are planting or have already planted their onion seed in seedbeds, will find the moisture of inestimable good.

Last season the farmers in the country contiguous to Laredo devoted a good acreage to the growing of diversified crops while waiting for their young onions to attain that stage where the transplanting process was in order, and then also they planted a small acreage in vegetables that matured in the early spring before the Bermuda onion crop was ready for harvesting and shipping. Following the shipping of the onions came the planting of cotton, so it will be seen that some farmers in the vicinity of Laredo have gotten away from the old one-crop idea and are resorting to diversification and finding the plan not only practicable but profitable.

Do you feel old before your time? Is your back bent and stiff? Do you suffer urinary disorders? Don't despair—profit by Laredo experiences. Laredo people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's a Laredo resident's statement.

A. F. Ferris, Victoria St., says: "I highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, for they are a fine kidney remedy. I was taken with a terrible backache some years ago, and when I stooped over, it was a task for me to raise up again. I felt tired and worn out and had no ambition to do anything. My kidneys acted irregularly and the secretions were scanty and highly colored. The use of two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills cured me."

CONSTIPATION

And Sour Stomach Caused This Lady Much Suffering. Black-Draught Relieved.

Meadersville, Ky.—Mrs. Pearl Patrick, of this place, writes: "I was very constipated. I had sour stomach and was so uncomfortable. I went to the doctor. He gave me some pills. They weakened me and seemed to tear up my digestion. They would gripe me and afterwards it seemed I was more constipated than before."

I heard of Black-Draught and decided to try it. I found it just what I needed. It was an easy laxative, and not bad to swallow. My digestion soon improved. I got well of the sour stomach, my bowels soon seemed normal, no more griping, and I would take a dose now and then, and was in good shape."

I cannot say too much for Black-Draught for it is the finest laxative one can use."

Thedford's Black-Draught has for many years been found of great value in the treatment of stomach, liver and bowel troubles. Easy to take, gentle and reliable in its action, leaving no bad after-effects, it has won the praise of thousands of people who have used it.

RETURN SIX INDICTMENTS INTO COURT THIS MORNING

Three of the Bills Were For Violation of the Liquor Laws; Civil Docket Being Set For The Term.

The grand jury which was empaneled yesterday morning by Judge Thomas following the convening of the regular term of the district court here, this morning turned in the following six bills of indictment:

Guillermo Diaz y Rosas, passing a forged instrument.

Felipe Herrera, aggravated assault. Porfirio Miranda and Jose Ortiz, burglary.

Cayetano Sandoval, violation of the liquor laws.

Juan Amaya, violation of the liquor laws.

Guadalupe Rendon, violation of the liquor laws.

The grand jury resumed their work after turning in this first batch of bills and will probably return additional indictments tomorrow morning before resuming their work for the day. So far the only business transacted in district court has been the granting of a divorce and the setting of the civil docket.

When the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church meets in triennial session in Detroit today, the dominant figure in its "upper house," or the house of bishops, will be that of Daniel Sylvester Tuttle, who has been since 1902 the presiding bishop in this church in a large measure an honorary one. It carries with it some administrative functions, but is principally a mark of seniority of Episcopal bishops now living. Bishop Tuttle was the earliest consecrated, his episcopacy dating from 1867, when he was chosen missionary bishop of Montana, with jurisdiction in Idaho and Utah. In 1881 he dropped Montana and became bishop of Utah, and five years later he was appointed to his present office as bishop of Missouri.

CHEATING AT LOVE.

30 AIRPLANES IN TRANSCONTINENTAL RACE.

New York, Oct. 8.—At the Mineola aviation field a hundred and more birdmen and mechanicians were busy today trying out their machines and seeing that every part of their engines were in perfect working condition in readiness for the start of the transcontinental race tomorrow morning. The start is timed for 9 a. m., when 37 fast airplanes will soar into air for the beginning of the 2,700-mile race across the continent. At the same hour 23 similar machines will rise at San Francisco and start on a transcontinental flight eastward, with Mineola as their objective point. The race of the eighty airplanes from ocean to ocean will be without precedent in the history of aviation. Each of the machines entered is of the latest type, capable of maintaining an average speed of 100 miles or more an hour.

An international aspect has been given the race by the entry of machines, officially representing the British and French Air Services. The rules of the race will be the same as those which governed the New York-Toronto contest. They include compulsory stops of 30 minutes at each of the control stations, where a thorough inspection of each machine will be made.

The race is expected to prove the greatest reliability test of modern machines ever made. Data will be compiled from the various performances, and the pilots will keep log books. All of this material is expected to be of great service, and may result in the development of the ideal military machine, according to army officers.

GOETHE'S LEAGUE.

Had Goethe's conception of German unity, sketched roughly at Weimar in 1828, found a lodgment in Bismarckian brains, history might have been written a different chapter, and no national assembly would have been necessary today.

For Goethe's idea was that Berlin and Vienna, as exclusive centers of influence, formed a peril to culture. He would have had freedom to move at will through the 36 states without having his traveling chest opened. Dollars and Groschen should be of equal value everywhere. There should be no frontiers and no talk of inland and outland among the German states. His idea, in short, was that of a Germanic league of nations, "one in love." Good highways and the railroads—then a thing of the future—be put in the front place as empire-making material. The mailed fist he does not mention.—London Chronicle.

United States Seal 136 Years Old.

The great seal of the United States was adopted by congress 136 years ago. The design was suggested by Sir John Prestwich, an eminent English antiquary, to John Adams, then United States minister to Great Britain, and was formally accepted by congress on June 20, 1782. It is composed of a spread eagle, bearing on its breast an escutcheon with 13 stripes, and in its talons holding an olive branch and 13 arrows, symbolic of both peace and war. The eagle, the suggestion of an Englishman, has ever since been the national bird of the United States.

Third Red Cross Roll Call

AN APPRECIATION.

Ft. McIntosh, Laredo, Texas,

October 7, 1919.

To The Editor:—

In times of public disaster, such as happened at Corpus Christi last month, there are many workers upon whom the stricken population, as well as the outside public rely for many absolute necessities.

Their work seldom receives the thanks and commendation it deserves.

I have reference to railroad employees, particularly engineers and firemen, telegraph operators, and express company workers.

It is up to the railroad man to keep open his lines of communication if possible and all kinds of hardships are experienced in this regard; take for instance the engineer and fireman, a bridge over a swollen river is considered, we will say, safe; as a measure of precaution the passengers wait over it, then the engine is slowly moved onto it; did you ever think what would happen if some of the supports had been undermined by water? The engineer and fireman would certainly be "out of luck," they take the chances for your safety.

While the work of the conductors, operators, freight handlers and repair gangs of a railroad is not so spectacular as some other forms of service, a public disaster entails an immense amount of extra and arduous work for which they seldom receive the credit that is their due.

The work of the telegraphic force is always more or less of a nervous strain and in time of emergency is apt to be nothing less than nerve shattering. One has only to watch for a moment the employees, from manager to messenger boy, about the second day after a disaster has occurred, to realize that they are worn out, but it is seldom the public will take this into account when making their demands known.

A word about the express company employees; mixups in freight, delays and losses are bound to occur, it's work night and day for everyone and all the thanks they get are usually kicks about conditions they are not in any way responsible for.

On behalf of the Red Cross I wish to express sincere appreciation for the efforts and hard work of all those in the various branches of public service who were instrumental in helping to relieve suffering at Corpus Christi.

SALLEE IS DRIVEN FROM BOX BY SOX

LUQUE TOOK HIS PLACE, BUT THE WHITE SOX ANNEXED THEIR THIRD VICTORY OF THE SERIES.

Redfield Park, Cincinnati, Oct. 8.—With another great crowd assembled to witness the seventh game of the world's championship baseball series between the Cincinnati Reds and the Chicago White Sox, beautiful weather prevailed this afternoon and Cincinnati fans felt confident that Manager Moran of the Reds would do his best to make the Reds win and hang the world's championship pennant from the clubhouse in Redfield Park. The batteries announced for the seventh game, four of which have been won by Cincinnati and two by Chicago, consisted of Cioetto and Schalk for Chicago and Sallee and Wingo for Cincinnati. Cioetto is pitching his third game of the series, hoping to redeem his lost laurels of the other two games in which he lost.

The first five innings for both teams were played quickly and went scoreless, but in the sixth round Chicago broke the goose-egg monotony and landed on Sallee in a most vicious manner, sending his offerings to all portions of the field and bringing four runners across the home plate. All that Cincinnati could do in her half of the sixth was to annex a single tally, the sixth round ending four to one in favor of the Chicago White Sox.

Manager Moran berthed Sallee in the seventh, putting Luque in his place and in the seventh and eighth rounds Chicago could do nothing with Luque, while Cincy was unable to bring a runner across the plate in those innings. In her half of the ninth Chicago worked hard to increase her score, but nothing doing. Cincinnati came up for her final try to overcome the score of Chicago, but Cioetto had tightened down to the greatest pitching of his life and held the Reds scoreless, ending the game 4 to 1 in favor of Chicago. The summary follows:

Chicago	...	000	004	000	4	10	1
Cincinnati	...	000	001	000	1	7	4

Batteries: Cioetto and Schalk; Sallee, Luque and Wingo.

Attendance at game, estimated at 20,000.

From Thursday's Daily.

A PROPER ACT.

The mayor of Spokane, Washington, C. M. Fassett, has declined to serve on the reception committee which was to greet Senator Hiram Johnson on his arrival in that city today. He explained that it was because he was "entirely out of accord with the senator's views on the treaty and the league of nations."

At first sight it may appear as a discourteous act for the mayor of a city to refuse to act on a committee of reception to a noted man who is to be in a certain sense the city's guest. But in reality it is the straight-forward act of an honest man, one who would not stultify himself by appearing to agree with an opponent, and one who sees no reason why he should help to greet a man who is supporting views which he believes are disadvantageous to his country.

Senator Johnson's only claim to be heard in opposition to the treaty and the league of nations is the fact that he is a Republican senator from California, and the administration is Democratic. He is not representing his state while he is touring the country, and he is drawing pay for duties unperformed.

His opposition to the treaty and the league of nations is based upon partisanship, not upon statesmanship. He has never demonstrated possession of statesmanlike qualities, and his success has depended upon the fact that he is a shrewd politician, rather than upon any demonstration of ability.

In a certain sense he is the spokesman of his party—that is, the faction which now holds office in Washington—and with Senator Borah, his colleague from Idaho, he is busily engaged in an attempt to make political capital for the party in the coming national campaign.

Mayor Fassett is a Republican, no doubt, as his city has usually been of that political tincture, and as such might be expected by the strictly party men to further this attempt to steal the public confidence. But he is evidently more of an American than a partisan, and he does not propose to have the prestige of his office used by Senator Johnson or any other party boss to reflect credit upon a discreditable act.

Mayor Fassett deserves the commendation of every American citizen. He does not hesitate to say what he thinks, and he gives his honest statement to the public to the effect that he is entirely out of accord with the opponents of the treaty and the league of nations.

There are many in higher positions than Mayor Fassett who have not been so outspoken. They have their reasons for concealing their real views until they see which way the cat is going to jump.

Mr. Johnson has been a tripper all his life. He left the Republican party to align himself with Mr. Roosevelt when the Progressive party was born. For that he was chosen as the training partner of the doughy colonel, and he was defeated, although in his own state he rolled up quite a vote for the Progressive ticket.

He has been on both sides of many a question, and sometimes it will be noted that a man cannot be on both sides of the fence without suffering a disarrangement of his attire—at least if he tries to be on both sides of the fence at one and the same time.

The people of Spokane will recognize the right of their mayor to refuse to be one of the reception committee, especially as he has publicly given his reasons for refusing. And they will respect him all the more for his outspoken refusal, no matter how they may feel toward Mr. Johnson's attitude on the treaty question.

There is not any present likelihood that Mr. Johnson will be greeted in Spokane as Senator Reed was in Arizona. Although there have been many turbulent scenes in Spokane, they were mostly staged by the very people who would gladly listen to Senator Johnson's views, as they agree with anything that is subversive of peace and progress.

LABOR, CAPITAL AND PUBLIC.

The attempt at getting all three parties to the present cost of living problem together is a new version of "the eternal triangle." And it differs from a triangle in one respect—in a triangle two of the sides will come together, while in the present situation all three sides seem to be getting further apart the more the lines are extended.

Capital and labor are producers; the public is the consumer. It ought not to be difficult to so arrange matters that producer would get what is coming to him and consumer would not have to pay too much for what he gets.

Of course, labor wants an entirely new deal by which he will get the lion's share of the returns on what he produces. The more radical of the laborers want capital abolished so that they will get all that is paid for their production, less the cost of the raw material. And at present the radicals seem to have the saddle. It all rests with the consumer. For if the price continues to be abnormal, the result will be less consumption and finally a discovery that there is something else "just as good."

While labor is talking of the wickedness of capital in demanding a share of the returns, the people are paying for it all, and they are beginning to find out that no matter what the medium of exchange, after all barter and sale is merely an exchange of commodities.

Everyone has to work. Even the down-trodden capitalist has to do something to earn his dividends, and as to the consumer, each one helps to produce something by which he earns the money to buy something else.

In the recent conference at Washington, it was declared by one of the speakers that the three groups—labor, capital and public—could none of them claim to be independent; that they were interdependent, inasmuch as without any one of the three the other two would fall.

It is not true that the interests of labor and capital are the same, but it is true that labor depends upon capital, just as capital depends upon labor. One is as important as the other, and if all capital were to be abolished and the proceeds turned over to labor to be used in production, it would not be a month before there would again be capital to aid in production of everything we need.

The most independent business in the world is that of the farmer, and yet the farmer is dependent upon capital, labor and consumer. The farmer has a different labor problem to solve from that of the factory, and for that reason it has not always been easy to secure the backing of the farmer for either side to our controversies.

The eight-hour day, the steady production of the smallest number of units, the high wage scales and other problems of labor and capital, are things which do not enter into the farmer's calculations. He cannot have an eight-hour day in harvest time; his employees must produce all they can when the rush is on, without any question of overtime, and wages that would not content a laborer in a steel mill must necessarily be more than the average farmer can afford to pay.

For the farmer, above all other producers, is absolutely dependent upon the consumer. And his produce must find a ready market at a fair price or he is a loser. Most of the farmer's products must be disposed of at once, or he is a total loss.

Hence the farmer feels that he is an outsider—one of the public, in fact—in all the labor conferences as to working conditions and wages. Yet no one could call the farmer one of the capitalist class, for as a rule his land and buildings are all he owns, and sometimes he has hard work to keep them free from mortgage.

At the same time, the farmer works harder than any of the organized labor class, and there is more at stake in his daily struggle than there is in the work of the laborers in other lines, for upon the farmer depends the raw material, as well as the food supply, of the nation.

Can Now Eat and Sleep in Comfort.

If troubled with indigestion or sleeplessness you should read what Miss Agnes Turner, Chicago, Ill., has to say: "Overwork, irregular meals and carelessness regarding the ordinary rules of health, gradually undermined it until last fall I became a wreck of my former self. I suffered from continual headaches, was unable to digest food, which seemed to lay as a dead weight on my stomach. I was very constipated and my complexion became dark, yellow and muddy as I felt. Sleeplessness was added to my misery, and I would awake as tired as when I went to sleep. I heard of Chamberlain's Tablets and found such relief after taking them that I kept up the treatment for nearly two months. They cleansed my stomach, invigorated my system, and since that time I can eat and sleep in comfort. I am today entirely well."

GRAND JURY STILL WORKING AND RETURN INDICTMENTS

With the Five Bills Brought in This Morning a Total of Nineteen Bills Have Been Turned Into Court.

The grand jury in the district court here, which has been in session for the past four days, is still at work investigating matters directed to their attention by District Attorney Vail, and up to this time have returned a total of nineteen bills of indictment, the last five being returned this morning and being the following:

John Oeffinger, violation of the liquor law.

Thomas Herrera, theft under $50.

Tommas Mesa, aggravated assault.

Daniel Estrada, seduction.

Genaro Alvarez, bigamy.

Judging from the number of indictments returned so far by the grand jury, and the fact that they resumed their session after turning in the five bills of indictment this morning, the indications are that the criminal docket at this term of the district court will be heavier than was at first expected.

"LOVE CHEAT" SIMPLY GREAT—GREATLY SIMPLE.

Given a story with the heart touch, with a sub plot of high intelligence, play it with actors of intelligence, under the stage direction of a master hand, and there one finds the germ of box office success. All these attributes apparently are included in "The Love Cheat," which is heralded attraction at the Strand Theatre Saturday.

Albert Capellani makes the production, which is released through the house of Pathe. The cast includes the stars, Creighton Hale and June Caprice, fresh from their success in "Oh, Boy!" Another Capellani-Pathe bit: Alfred Hickman, the original Little Billie in "Tribby"; Edward Davis and Charles Coleman. The story is an adaptation by Peggy McCail of a French play which had great vogue in Paris under the title "Le Danseur Inconnu" (The Unknown Dancer).

The story, though running through the entire list of emotions is simply told. A poor young man is cast by a plausible whim of chance at the feet of a millionaire's daughter. What's to be expected? They fall in love. Enter cupid in the person of a business adventurer. He offers to finance the poor young man's courtship for a selfish reason—and the love-stricken youth falls for the deceiver. When he realizes that his pose of mighty man in the business world is unfaithful to the girl whom he really loves, his better nature wins and he stakes happiness in confession. Sure—he gets her. It would be a poor love story and picture if he didn't. He gets her through revealing his true worth and ability.

A glance at the plot and one knows that player of talent and experience are necessary to assure the success of such a play so free from melodramatic complication—and as to catch the interest of the audience. Such a cast has been furnished by the director.

LIVER DIDN'T ACT DIGESTION WAS BAD

Says 65 year Old Kentucky Lady, Who Tells How She Was Relieved After a Few Doses of Black-Draught.

Meadersville, Ky.—Mrs. Cynthia Higginbotham, of this town, says: "At my age, which is 65, the liver does not act so well as when young. A few years ago, my stomach was all out of fix. I was constipated, my liver didn't act. My digestion was bad, and it took so little to upset me. My appetite was gone. I was very weak. I decided I would give Black-Draught a thorough trial as I knew it was highly recommended for this trouble. I began taking it. I felt better after a few doses. My appetite improved and I became stronger. My bowels acted naturally and the least trouble was soon righted with a few doses of Black-Draught."

Seventy years of successful use has made Thedford's Black-Draught a standard, household remedy. Every member, of every family, at times, need the help that Black-Draught can give in cleansing the system and relieving the troubles that come from constipation, indigestion, lazy liver, etc. You cannot keep well unless your stomach, liver and bowels are in good working order. Keep them that way. Try Black-Draught. It acts promptly, gently and in a natural way. If you feel sluggish, take a dose tonight. You will feel fresh tomorrow. Price 25c. a package—One cent a dose. MEETING AMERICAN LEGION SELECTS LAREDO DELEGATE

Laredo Post No. 59, American Legion, held a meeting in the hall of the Elks last night for the purpose of selecting delegates from the local post to attend the State Convention of the American Legion in Texas to convene in Dallas tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Alphonse Siros, who served as a Lieutenant in the European war, was elected as special delegate to the state convention and left for Dallas this morning. Anyone else eligible to membership in the American Legion can also attend the convention and be seated if he will confer with Mr. Siros at the Adolphus Hotel in Dallas in time.

Laredo Post No. 59, American Legion, has just been granted its charter, with a membership of sixty-two, but at a meeting to be held at the Elks Club on next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock it is hoped to increase the membership of the local post to 200 members. All those who served during the time that the United States was involved in the European war are eligible to membership, and it is sincerely hoped that every Laredo young man who was in the service will attend the meeting next Thursday night and enroll in the local post.

Wealthy Chinese Has Novel Trip From This Life to Next.

There was a pretty custom among some of the ancients when a prominent citizen died, to send his valet along with him on the road to Paradise, and it was oftentimes necessary to resort to extreme methods to insure this company for the departed. But in the territory of the Chinese-American Trading Company, Ford dealers in Tientsin, China, they have discovered a much better aid to the deceased over the rough places on the trip to the Promised Land.

It is a custom of the Chinese to burn various kinds of effigies at the funeral ceremonies of the rich, the more wealthy the departed the more elaborate the figures burned over his grave. These effigies represent every manner of thing such as human figures, horses, sedan chairs, tables loaded with money, etc. The figures usually conform to some of these stereotyped fashions, but at the funeral of a Mr. Li, who died a short time ago in Tientsin, and who was a very wealthy man, the bereaved family outdid themselves and made an imitation of the deceased gentleman's Ford car to be burned at his grave.

This Ford effigy was made entirely of strong Chinese paper stretched on bamboo and reed frames. The car was complete in every detail, the pedals accurately placed, and all made of paper and bamboo. The interior of the car was also accurate in detail, being carefully upholstered in paper. The effigy of the driver as shown in the photograph, was a work of art. The car was carried about three miles through crowded streets to the graveyard where a match was applied and it was consumed in a few minutes.

This is the first time a motor car has been burned at the grave of a Chinese, and there is every reason to believe that the deceased went up "On High."

Corns Come Off Like Banana Peel

"Gets-It" Leaves Toe Smooth As Your Palm. Never Fails.

Ever peel off a banana skin? Well, that's the way "Gets-It" peels off any corn or callus. It's a picnic. Nothing else in the world will do it.

"2 Drops of 'Gets-It,' Good-bye Corns!" but "Gets-It" because of the new secret principle in the "Gets-It" formula. "Gets-It" does away forever with "contraptions," "swabs," "plasters," ointments that rub off blood-letting knives, and scissors that nip into the "quick." "Gets-It" eases pain. It takes but a second or two to use "Gets-It." There's no fussing or trouble. It dries immediately. You put your stocking right back on again. Your corn will come off painlessly in one complete piece. That's common sense. It never fails. "Gets-It" the only sure, guaranteed, money-back corn-remover, costs but a trifle at any drug store. MFD by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill. Sold in Laredo and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by City Drug Co.

Northfield, Vt., Oct. 10.—With many visitors in attendance, including many army and navy officers of high rank, Norwich University, the oldest military college in the country outside of West Point, today began a celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of its founding. Four days are to be devoted to the celebration, which will be concluded next Tuesday with the centennial historical exercises.

The program of this, the opening day was featured by the dedication of the new cavalry stables, followed by cavalry drill, guard mounting and dress parade. Tomorrow will be undergraduate day, featured in the afternoon with a football game and athletic contests. Sunday will be given over to memorial exercises for Norwich men who have given their lives in defense of their country. Founder's Day will be celebrated Monday with a pilgrimage to Northfield, Vt., the original site of the college, where tablets commemorative of the founding will be unveiled.

Norwich University is the only institute in the country designated by the War Department as a unit for training reserve cavalry officers. It was the first scientific and classical collegiate institution in the United States, and as the pioneer engineering school of the country, antedated all others by at least eight years. It was the first to confer the degree of bachelor of science.

Norwich University men have served in all the armed conflicts in which the United States has engaged from the Mexican war down to the world war. In the late conflict with the Central Powers the university enjoyed the distinction of having a greater percentage of her graduates and past graduates in the service than any other American college, 86 per cent, of those in service being commissioned officers.

The national character of the institution is shown by the fact that forty of the alumni served in the Confederate States Army during the civil war. At the time of the St. Albans raid in 1864 the cadets were despatched to the defense of Newport, Vt., where a similar raid was threatened. Short of ammunition, they made their own cartridges and broke up dumb-bells for cannon balls.

The two most famous of Norwich graduates were Admiral George Dewey, the "hero of Manila Bay," who smashed the Spanish fleet in the East during the war with Spain, and Maj. Gen. Grenville M. Dodge, the famous civil war commander. Other Norwich men who have distinguished themselves in the American military or naval service have included Charles C. Carpenter, who commanded the American Asiatic squadron during the war between China and Japan; Brig. Gen. George P. Buell, the hero of many battlefields in the civil war; Gen. William S. Harney, Maj. Gen. Thomas H. Seymour, who was the first to enter the fortress of Chapultepec, and James E. Ainsworth, the eminent civil war engineer.

The university was founded in 1819 by Capt. Allen Partridge, a native of Norwich and a graduate of West Point. He was commissioned as a lieutenant of engineers, showing that he was one of the honor men of his class. He had served as professor of mathematics at West Point, and later as its superintendent. Under his superintendency West Point was enlarged and its scope broadened.

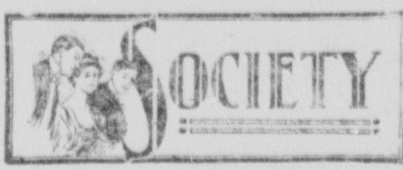

Norwich opened in 1820 with about 120 students. In its second year the roster shows that its students were drawn largely from the South, 100 coming from South Carolina alone.

In 1826 a detachment of the cadets marched to West Point and engaged in a competitive drill with the cadets of the United States Military Academy. After a few days at West Point they were taken to New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. At the national capital they were reviewed by President John Quincy Adams, who complimented the commander on their fine military appearance and soldierly bearing.

The Universal Creed.
If I could write one little word upon the hearts of men,
I'd dip into the fount of love, and with a golden pen
Write one little word, and only one,
And feel life's work on earth well done;
For every heart would speak to me
That one sweet word—Fraternity.

The angel throng would sing a song,
The sweetest ever heard,
If they could read in human hearts
This precious little word;
For kindly thoughts and deeds
Are better far than crowns and creeds;
In these the angel throng would see
Children of Eternity.

A man would need no other creed to guide him o'er life's sea
If he'd embark in the ark of true Fraternity;
For love divine would clasp his hand
And lead him to the promised land;
Love for his fellowman would be
His passport to Eternity.

Announcement.
The Parish Guild of Christ Church will hold their regular auxiliary meeting at the rectory next Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The questions to be considered concern the nationwide campaign.

Villegas-Bodet.
A pretty wedding took place at the International Institute Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock when Miss Lucy Bodet, daughter of Mrs. Edward Bodet, was given in marriage to Mr. Daniel Villegas of Mexico City, Judge Benavides performing the ceremony.

The rooms were attractively decorated in trailing vines and white jack-bean blossoms. Mrs. Guardiola gave a number of delightful selections on the piano. Refreshments were served from small tables on the lawn during the evening. About 75 guests were present. Mr. and Mrs. Villegas went to San Antonio on their wedding trip. They will make their future home in Mexico City.

Entertainment.
A pretty hospitality of Wednesday evening was the informal bridge party given by Mr. and Mrs. Ira O'Meara, complementing a few friends. After the series of games an ice cream and cake were served. Those enjoying the pleasure of the occasion were Misses Helen and Kathryn MacGregor, Josephine Sauvignat, Annie French, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Black, Capt. Gilbert, Lieutenants Cleveland, Hatchette and Stone.

Thursday Bridge Club.
The members of the Thursday Bridge Club and additional guests were very delightfully entertained yesterday afternoon by Miss Annie Alexander. Quantities of queen's wreath and ferns were used in the Married Ladies Social Club.

Mrs. Mabel Cogley Barlow was hostess to the Married Ladies Social Club and a number of guests yesterday afternoon and entertained them very delightfully with a prettily appointed party. The rooms were charmingly arranged and imperial crown lilies, cadona de amor, varicolored roses and ferns were used in decoration. In the series of games of bridge played the club prize, an exquisite luncheon cloth, was won by Mrs. Robt. McComb. The guest prize, a dainty Irish crochet yoke, was awarded to Mrs. H. D. Shelby. Mrs. Joe Vidales cut consolation and received a water pitcher of attractive pottery ware. A delicious two-course luncheon followed the games. Those enjoying the gracious hospitality of the afternoon were: Club members—Mesdames Biggio, Christen, Davis, Derby, Fish, Hall, Halsell, Huberich, A. Birthday Party.

Bessie Gregg, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will W. Gregg, was given a delightful birthday party yesterday afternoon, in belated remembrance of her fifth anniversary which occurred September 25th. The rooms and the gallery were trimmed with streamers and festoons of varicolored crepe paper, and a gaily-decked piñata formed the centerpiece on the gallery. The children enjoyed a playtime after which the piñata was broken by Clemente Villarreal, after several ineffectual attempts had been made by the boys and girls. Hot chocolate, cake, ice cream and candies were served, the honoree having a pretty birthday cake with five lighted tapers as the centerpiece at her table. Those present were: Mrs. C. W. Cook, Mrs. Blasa G. de Guerra, Mrs. Francisca F. de Guerra, Mrs. Elvira M. de Guerra, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Gar-by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surface. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surface of the system.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists.

CAPITAL OUTLINED THEIR PRINCIPLES

OPPOSE COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AND CLOSED SHOP BUT ACKNOWLEDGE RIGHT TO STRIKE.

By Associated Press.
Washington, Oct. 10.—Opposition to collective bargaining and the closed shop were among the twelve fundamental principles outlined by the group representing capital and presented to the national industrial conference here today. Sympathetic strike, blacklists and boycotts were declared to be indefensible, anti-social and immoral. While deploring strikes and lockouts, the principle maintaining the right of strikes or lockouts should not be denied as a last resort, after all possible means of adjustment were exhausted. This right, however, should apply only to private industry. The conference then adjourned until Tuesday.

By Associated Press.
Paris, Oct. 10.—A French major and three soldiers were wounded in a riot at Saarbrück, Germany, Tuesday, a despatch to the Petit Parisien reports. The riot is described as growing out of labor demonstrations against the high cost of living. During the disturbances the Central telegraph office was fired on and stores were looted. Order was finally restored by French forces.

American Soldier Killed.

Omsk, Oct. 10.—An American soldier in Vladivostok was shot and killed recently by a Russian officer. This and other incidents led to a demand from the allied commanders for the removal of Russian troops from Vladivostok. A vigorous protest by the Omsk government, however, led to the withdrawal of the demand.

SNOWSTORMS AND RAIN ARE INTERFERING WITH SCHEDULES OF THE OTHER AVIATORS.

By Associated Press.
Chicago, Oct. 10.—Hundreds of miles ahead of the other westbound fliers, Lieut. Maynard, the "flying parson," was ready this morning to resume his flight to the Pacific from Cheyenne, Wyoming. Prospects of bad weather over much of the course faced the fliers remaining in the aerial Derby from Mincola to San Francisco. Cold weather and snowstorms in the West and winds and rains in the eastern half of the country interfered with schedules.

SCARCITY OF SUGAR.

Not since the sugar rationing rules of the food administration a year ago has there been such a demand for sugar as at present. There is a scarcity of cane sugar—both raw and refined—and the beet sugar of the West has been called upon to fill out the supply and reduce the demand.

Local dealers have found great difficulty in securing enough sugar of any kind to fill their orders, and contracts made last summer for delivery around September 1st have not yet been filled. The enormous stores in some of the army warehouses have been exhausted, and still there is not enough to meet the daily consumption.

The trouble at present is that the raw sugar in Cuba is being held for a higher price, and while there is some cane sugar in the raw being imported, it is nowhere near enough to meet the normal demand.

Meanwhile, there is a considerable demand from Mexico, and this is being partly supplied by importations from Cuba and partly by shipments over the border. Mexico, that is capable of making practically all the sugar needed in that country, is now manufacturing but a small amount, as there is no longer enough sugar cane grown there to supply the demand.

As a result, the individual consumer is finding it difficult to secure enough sugar for home consumption, and in some cases the people have had to do with less than they bought a year ago under the strict rationing system.

The average person does not know the difference between cane and beet sugar, and if enough of the latter could be secured it would answer all practical purposes, but even beet sugar is somewhat short, as the demand from all over the country has swamped the beet sugar mills in the West.

One of the factors that has made difficult the distribution of what sugar is on hand is the congestion of transportation facilities. This, however, is being looked after as thoroughly as possible, and we may soon look for some improvement in the situation.

It seems unjust to the residents in the border section that the people across the line are getting more sugar than we are. This is due partly to the importations through Vera Cruz and other ports, and partly to the fact that the exigencies of commerce demand a free interchange of commodities between the two countries, hence the importers of Mexican goods find it necessary to export what the Mexican exporters demand in return.

Some sugar has gone across the river at this point—not much through local dealers—and the buyers for Mexican houses, especially in the interior, have been able to secure nearly all they wanted in other sections, shipping it direct to Mexican consignees.

It seems like old times to be limited to a small quantity of sugar, although this time the food administration has not set any limit on the amount which can be sold to a consumer. Still, in case there were any appreciable hoarding, we should soon hear of it.

Now the food administration has told the refiners in the East and in the Gulf section that they must not ship any refined sugar to points in the North west of Buffalo, and Pittsburgh, and to points in the middle states north and west of the Ohio river.

This rule will hold the sugar refined at Gulf refineries to the section where it is most needed at present. Perhaps there is no section so short of sugar at present as South-west Texas, although there are refineries located at Sugarland and other points on the Texas Gulf coast. But if the sugar cannot be shipped north or west of the Ohio river, this will considerably reduce the field and give us some chance to get what we need.

It should not be long until the Cuban sugar commences to come in. The growers and mills there cannot hold their stocks forever, and when they find that we are determined not to pay more than a just price for the raw sugar, the refineries in our country will get enough to keep them busy, and once more the stream of refined sugar will start running.

THE AIR RACE

There is much speculation as to what good is to come out of the air race across the continent, many holding that the benefits to be derived do not balance the loss of life that occurs.

However, it must be remembered that every advancement in this world of ours has its costs, and that loss of life has occurred from every attempt at mastery of land, water or air. Railway accidents are still somewhat common, although the railway business is no longer in an experimental stage, while steamers and sailing vessels still sink, although man's mastery of the sea began with his first attempt at land locomotion.

Man's mastery of the air is still dependent upon the perfection of a motor, and most of the accidents reported are due to motor stoppage, because as yet we have been unable to make an engine which shall be light enough to serve its purpose and yet strong enough to withstand the terrible concussions of the gas explosions, and the life of an airplane motor is yet uncertain and of short duration.

But such experiments as this air race are adding to man's knowledge of the air, its currents, at times more treacherous than those of the sea, and how best to master it.

Out of the many who started in the great aerial race but a few will succeed, and even one success would greatly aid in showing the world how to navigate the air.

Up to the time of the great war, it was believed that man would have to content himself with the lower strata of the air, and that a mountain range interposed an insuperable obstacle to the aviator. But during the progress of the war aviators ascended to a height of nearly six miles; maneuvered over the Alps and other mountain ranges; flew during heavy winds and faced and conquered obstacles which only the strongest birds have been known to conquer.

The air race across the continent is by no means as difficult as the passage over the Atlantic so recently successfully negotiated. At frequent intervals there are stops where the planes may descend, get fresh supplies of gasoline, oil and water, and give the aviators a needed breathing spell.

And there is no need of flying so high that familiar landmarks are lost. The aviators in the cross-country race are always within sight of some well-marked point by which they may take their bearings.

It may be that the air race will bring to its participants new knowledge which will aid materially in the further conquest of the air. The number of participants makes this more probable. The air currents, the effect of the mountain ranges and the desert upon their flow, the atmospheric clearness or obscurity—all these are being studied during the flight by trained observers.

It must not be considered that the race is merely a flight from one point to another without thought of what lies between. During every minute of flight the pilot is studying his machine and the element in which it is riding, as well as his engine and his recording instruments. The observer is also making his studies and recording their results.

The "logs" of the various planes throughout the trip will be interesting to all who have the remotest interest in the science of aviation. And even from the point of view of adventure they would be interesting reading to the mere layman.

It is not only that a number of airplanes will have made the trip from one ocean to another and return. The aviators will have an opportunity to study the air resistance, the strains of their planes, the working of their engines, and every other factor which enters into flying.

As a result of the race, it will not be long before others are making the trip, some as pilots, and others as passengers. And to a man who loves adventure, the trip is not appreciably more dangerous than one in an automobile, and much less so than the crossing by paddle schooner of fifty years ago.

JUDGE MULLALLY RETURNS TO ASSUME PLACE ON BENCH

Judge C. C. Thomas, of the Eighty-first District, Leaves for Cotulla to Open His Court on Monday.

District Judge C. C. Thomas, of the Eighty-first Judicial District, who convened the court of the Forty-ninth Judicial District here last Monday, for Judge J. E. Mullally during his absence in Sinton attending the bedside of his daughter, Miss Anita Mullally, left today for Cotulla, where, on next Monday morning he will convene the regular term of district court for LaSalle county.

Judge Mullally, according to advices received from him yesterday, will arrive in Laredo tomorrow on the Texas-Mexican train and assume his duties on the bench Monday morning. Judge Mullally is returning to Laredo alone, having decided to leave Miss Anita Mullally at Sinton for a few days longer, her mother remaining there with her until it is considered safe for her to travel following her recuperation from a recent severe attack of pneumonia contracted following her escape from death in the hurricane that swept Corpus on September 14.

FEDERAL COURT CONVENES ON NOVEMBER 10 IN LAREDO

Court For the Southern District of Texas in Webb County, Will Probably Have Light Criminal Docket.

The regular November term of the United States District Court for the Southern District of Texas in Webb County will be convened at the federal court room in this city on Monday morning, November 10, by United States District Judge Hutcheson of Houston.

Judging from present indications the term of the court, which lasts for one week, will have a light criminal docket compared to previous terms. Grand and petit jurors to serve for the term will be summoned shortly.

GETTING MUCH TESTIMONY FOR USE OF THE COMMITTEE

All Violations of Neutrality Laws by Mexican Bandits and Soldiers Since 1910 Will Be Given Airing.

Captain W. M. Hanson, as the representative of the sub-committee of the committee on foreign relations of the United States senate investigating Mexican affairs, who is here securing written evidence to be used before the hearing to be held by the sub-committee composed of Senator Albert B. Fall, chairman; Senator Frank B. Brandegee and Senator Marcus A. Smith, with Dan Jackson as clerk, at San Antonio and Laredo in the near future, is securing much valuable testimony during his several days stay at the Hamilton Hotel in this city.

The matter of the killing of Clement Vergara and Porfirio Laurel, both American citizens, by Mexican soldiers, the various raids made by Mexican bandits on ranches on the Texas side of the border, fights between American officials and Mexican bandits, the attack on the American army camp at San Ignacio by Mexican bandits or soldiers, the fight with Mexican smugglers in which Immigration Inspector Charles Hopkins and U. S. Public Health Inspector Ira T. Hill were killed, when four Mexican smugglers were also killed, the firing of volley after volley by Carranza soldiers on an American airplane flying over American soil and the wounding of Captain David W. McNabb, and various other infractions of the law by Mexican bandits and soldiers, are all being thoroughly investigated by Captain Hanson and some very incriminating testimony against the Mexicans is being secured through written testimony furnished by reliable witnesses.

The claim made by Mexico that American citizens are welcome to that country and will be afforded every protection while there, and the refusal to grant certain Americans visas for their passports by Mexican consuls, will also be included in the testimony being gathered by Captain Hanson.

FUNERAL HELD YESTERDAY AND IS LARGELY ATTENDED

Remains of Mrs. Sam Wharton Laid to Rest in City Cemetery Following Funeral Services at Home.

The funeral of Mrs. Sam Wharton, who died at her home 1618 Juarez Avenue, on Thursday afternoon, took place from the home to the Baptist church yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. A. F. Beddoe, with funeral services at both the church and the grave.

Many beautiful floral tributes were sent to the home during Thursday afternoon and Friday. Interment took place in the Odd Fellows burial plot in the city cemetery and the funeral was largely attended by friends of the family. The following acted as the pall-bearers: Fritz Werner, John T. Parker, M. Brennan, W. M. Brennan, Almon Perkins and J. Demink.

LAREDO GETS HEAVY RAIN, WITH THUNDER, LIGHTNING

Rain Comes at Time to Do Inestimable Good for Fall and Winter Vegetables and for Onion Growing.

Throughout yesterday afternoon the threatening weather conditions, with heavy clouds hanging about in all directions and intermittent showers falling up to tonight, presaged an approaching storm after dark, for the skies in two directions were illumined by lightning and the distant rolling of thunder. Early in the night a good rain accompanied the thunder and lightning storm which prevailed then, but the full force of the storm did not strike until just after midnight, when there was terrific lightning and thunder and the rain came down hard. This was the harbinger of the first cool norther of the season, for when the rain ceased the cool atmosphere was in evidence.

The heavy thunder, lightning and rainstorm which was at its best beginning just after midnight, lasted for some time and did not entirely subside until during the wee sma' hours of this morning. The precipitation recorded during the rainfall from yesterday evening until 7 o'clock this morning amounted to 1.76—in excess of one and three-quarters inches of rain.

The rain, which is believed to have been general in this immediate section, will put the soil in excellent condition for fall and winter crops, while farmers who have their onion seed planted in seedbeds will be benefited by the rain, as it will enhance the germination and growth of the seed, while the rain will also have them ready for transplanting in December. Many gardens planted in diversified truck will be benefited by the rain, while cattlemen are also happy, as the ranges, which have been in good condition for some time past now, will be kept well supplied with grass during the winter months.

Advices received here this morning indicate that the rain was general throughout Southwest Texas, extending northward beyond San Antonio and eastward along the Texas-Mexican railroad to Corpus Christi. More rain fell this morning in Laredo and all nearby places, thoroughly soaking the ground and putting it in excellent condition for crops, grass, etc.

My Creed.
I hold it true all creeds are right, Where love and kindness reign. Where brother lifts his brother up And soothes his wounds from pain. Where little hungry mouths are fed, The orphan's tears are dried, Salvation's plan, free to each one, With Jesus crucified.

No little petty rules should bind Man in a narrow path. Where all the good shall come to us, And to the sinner's wrath. Where talents ten shall be our lot, One, as our brother's share. Then lift our voice that all may hear The Pharisees' loud prayer.

Our creed should be so broad and wide 'Twould take in all mankind. And faith and hope and charity Shall be the links that bind.

Blue Birds.
The Blue Birds met yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Alfred Poggenpohl and a pleasant social time was enjoyed. Later in the afternoon the hostess served delicious sandwiches and fruit. The members present were Mary Condren, Elinor Morrow, Nellie Ward, Josephine Daiches, Gladys Sauvignat, Nellie Netzer, Ella May Niendorf, Anne McKinney, Adelaide Macdonald, Doris and Dorothy Wilson, Helen Dixon, Alice Lee, Elizabeth Powell, Leonard Ernst, Leonard Daiches and Jamie Ward.

Entertainment.
A pretty social affair of yesterday was the farewell party given by Mrs. J. Goodman complimenting Mrs. Hellman of St. Louis and Mrs. B. M. Alexander, who leave next week for St. Louis. The rooms were most attractively arranged for the occasion, the color note of pink and white being noticed in the floral decoration, white roses and queen's wreath being used. Upon the arrival of the guests an art contest was enjoyed and in this Mrs. Watson was the lucky winner. After the contest the hostess served a prettily appointed ice course, which also reflected the chosen color scheme of pink and white. Those enjoying the delightful hospitality were Mesdames Hellman, B. M. Alexander, J. O. Buenz, O'Meara, Gumpert, Daiches, Offer, Mally, Watson, Joe Moser, Chas. Moser, A. Wormser, H. G. DaCamara, Hill, George Moyer of San Antonio and Miss Levi.

Miss Slaughter Honored.
Miss Courtney Slaughter was delightfully complimented last night by a number of friends with a dance at Elks Hall. Conventional programs marking twenty straight and four extra dances were used. The Royal Orchestra furnished the music for dancing. Among those present besides the honoree, Miss Courtney Slaughter, were Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Muller, Mr. and Mrs. A. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. George Moyer, Mrs. W. T. Hill, Mrs. Green, Misses Marguerite Nelson, Inez Hellman, Maxine Taylor, Ruth Scratchley, Laura Taylor, Dorothy Wiggins, Katherine MacGregor, Betty Beene, Eva Scratchley, Eva Levi, Messrs. Aaron Moser, Marcus and Edwin Wormser, Keeran Young, Arthur Hazelrigg, Tom and Randall Nye, Dave Slaughter, Henry Burr, Fred Netzer, Leon Hanchett, Will Merriman, Bob Love, Ernest Wiskamp, Edward Brewster, Lieut. Walshall and Lieut. Harris.

Rally Day.
There will be no regular Church service at the Presbyterian Church tomorrow morning nor will there be Sunday School at 9:30, but at 10:30 the Church and Sunday School will meet together and the children will have their Rally Day program: Opening Song, "Forward, Forward, Army of Jesus,"—Children. PERSONALS

Pedro E Arguindegui arrived in the city yesterday from the East and is en route to the City of Mexico to make his home.

Dr. W. W. Shirley of Houston is in the city for a short stay and is looking over this section with a view of location in Laredo. Dr. Shirley made his home in Amarillo for fifteen years prior to moving to Houston.

VARIED "PATRIOTISM."
A few years ago a famous French orchestra was touring America. At one performance someone asked the leader to have the members of the orchestra play "Die Wacht am Rhein."

Never before had they received such a request. But with their ever present politeness they complied. Just at the close, however, the musicians broke into the air of the "Marseillaise" and never stopped until they had played it through twenty times.

In response to a request they were willing to play the national hymn of an enemy country, but in response to their own sensitive spirit of fidelity they must obliterate the memory of those notes by throbbing the air with the strains of their own national hymn.

But German musicians do not seem to have their sense of patriotism pricked when they are asked to play the "Marseillaise" or "The Star-Spangled Banner"—especially if their stomachs or pocket books are to be rewarded.—The Watch on the Rhine (3rd Division, American Army of Occupation, Andernach, Germany.)
